

Independents Take Lawrenceville By Score Of 6 To 2

Harris Hurls Effective Ball For Locals Win

Gets Out Bad Hole In Sixth In Fine Style; Mates Miscue Five Times

Bulldog Harris pitched effective baseball yesterday at League Park as the Henderson Independents were defeating Lawrenceville 6 to 2.

The Henderson hurler allowed the visitors seven hits, one less than the locals got off the offerings of Braswell. His mates bobbled five times while Braswell's support miscued only twice.

Works Out of Hole

Harris worked himself out of a mighty bad place in the sixth inning in a masterful way. With three men on base and none out, two were out on attempted "squeeze" plays while Harris picked the third man off third base.

Henderson scored three runs in the first inning, enough to win the game.

Playing Today

Henderson was to meet Clarksville this afternoon, getting a chance to avenge a defeat suffered at the hands of the Virginians some weeks ago. The box score:

Between Innings

Tourist Blank Bucs
Asheville blanked the Wilmington Buccaneers in Wilmington last night 1 to 0 with Grayson Wolfe, Asheville, hurler, and Junie Barnes hooking up in a beautiful hurling duel. The winners pushed over their tally in the second.

Bees Sting Colts
Charlotte stung the Richmond Colts last night in Charlotte, defeating them 3 to 0 for their second straight win over the Virginians. Durham allowed the Colts but three hits.

Pats Trim Norfolk
Greensboro trimmed Norfolk last night in Greensboro, winning two games by the shutout route, the first 2 to 0 and the second 3-0. Andrews held the Tars to one hit in the short game.

This possibly is history, neither of the losing teams throughout the league were able to score.

Here's Sample Of Federal Spending

—Alaska and Hawaii, of which the latter is demanding statehood mightily urgently.
It was Dr. Ickes' notion that his department's raison d'etre had about petered out.
The interior department is housed in a fine, sky-scraping office building, in covering an entire large city block in southwest Washington.
It was built under the auspices of the late Franklin K. Lane, President Wilson's interior secretary. Secretary Ickes' interior secretary, in fact. The Lane rather over-built it, in fact. The interior department of his day (no longer ago than the war period, he it remembered), on moving into it, found of its beautiful offices, try as the in-sensuous Auyy 'da i iij oi aqueu jassy terior departmental personnel might, to occupy them all, remained vacant.

Today Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes, Secretary Wilbur's successor, is having plans drawn for an annex to the interior department building—the old one, built by Secretary Lane, being entirely too small for the official family he has gathered about him since March, 1933, decried the fact that the department's tenants all have been crowded out; some of them into rented quarters, notwithstanding h enormous building program that Uncle Sam has been carrying on.
An annex.
Secretary Lane's building cost $3,000,000 at wartime construction costs. Secretary Ickes' annex is scheduled to cost $10,000,000, at deflated prices of 1934.

limits, all the way through the city, including the business section, to Andrews avenue, and there stopped for lack of funds to go further. The new work is to be financed out of a government road building fund made available by the last Congress, as the work already done was likewise financed by the Federal government and carried out by the State Highway Commission.

There was no indication today as to when work would commence on the new projects. The Associated Press story said a survey would be made of the North Henderson curve elimination area, but was not specific as to when it would be done.

Changes Mind

Lord Edward Montagu
After flying to France to join the French Foreign Legion, Lord Edward Montagu, son of the Duke of Manchester, decided to return to London instead of proceeding to the hot sands of Sahara. So he flew right back again.

Wake Shows Way In Tax Valuations

he will be regarded as having done an excellent job.
The first thing Young will undertake will be to locate unlisted property in Wake county. It is generally agreed that there is plenty of this property both in the county and in the city of Raleigh. It is a matter of common knowledge that some of the most valuable property in the county is either not on the tax books at all or on them at only a fraction of their actual value. Associated with Mr. Young in this work will be O. Stedman Thompson, former assistant commissioner of revenue, and for 26 years associated with either the State Corporation Commission or the Department of Revenue and regarded as an authority on all questions pertaining to taxes and taxation.

Mussolini Is Next Problem In Europe

was one of those dislodged from office and jailed.
Now the Mussolinized Austrian fascists are trying to placate the Socialists, before world opinion catches up with what actually has been going on in Austria. But there isn't much chance, especially when an Austrian policeman tries to kill a man who hands out anti-war literature (as dispatches tell us).
Mussolini thinks in terms of force.

A Tyrolean's View
Since Austrians cannot speak freely in their own country of muzzled speech and press, they speak their say in the United States.

Here is a letter to a New York newspaper from a "Tyrolienne."
"It is awfully tiresome to read always about Austria's independence, while poor Austria simply gets no chance to be independent. Why not let it decide for itself, instead of dictating to it from all sides?"

"If Austria wants an alliance with Germany, which it seems to need, why force fascism upon it and try to Italianize all of Austria, as has already been done to the poor Tyrol? This will never bring peace. Isn't anybody afraid Mussolini's power will become too great. Does everybody have to concentrate on keeping the German nations down?"

Of course, the German nations seem to be concentrating on keeping themselves down—through Hitlerism. The British say, however, that Hitler is on the way out—and the British are cautious and cagey observers.
