

Aycock Here Wednesday; Hillsboro Trims Locals, 7-4

Henderson Has Copped Two Previous Encounters

Games Have Always Been Hard Fought Tilts With Rallies Deciding Them

GARLAND HARRIS AND EDWARDS TO PITCH

Henderson's Starter Has Not Worked Many Games But Is Good Hurler; Edwards Is Ace of Visitors, Having Plenty of "Stuff" on The Ball

Aycock will come back to League Park Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock for their third shot at upsetting the high-riding Henderson Independents.

Their two other attempts failed when Henderson rallied in the late innings to win both tilts.

In their first encounter, one of the best games seen on the local lot this season, Otto Pahlmans team walked off the field on the lone end of a 2 to 1 score by scoring their runs in the eighth stanza. In their second encounter, a three run rally in the ninth gave Henderson a 6 to 5 verdict over the county lads. Both games were exciting and hard fought throughout, with the rallies being in the locals favor.

Skipper Pahlman will stake his all on the right arm of Garland Harris, one of the two regular hurlers on his staff. Harris has not worked in as many games as has Pleasants or A. Boyd, when he was manager of the team, but the lad has some good pitches in his arm.

James Edwards, ace of the visiting hurling staff and a constant thorn in the sides of Henderson batters, will likely handle the mound duties for the visitors. This boy has plenty of "stuff" on the ball and bores local batters considerably when he is on the hill. His battery mate will probably be Wright.

Dunk Poole, general utility man for the Independents, playing most any position with the same starring ability, will likely catch for the locals if J. T. Hamm, veterans receiver who has been on the sick list for several games, is not back in togs.

If Hamm comes back, Poole can go to second base, a post that has to be filled at every game by some recruit brought here by Manager Pahlman. Aycock followers through the park as well as local fans, giving the team its best turnout for any games. Wednesday's turnout is expected to measure up to those of the past.

FINAL WEEK'S PLAY IS NOW UNDERWAY

City League Teams in Home Stretch With Lions and M. P.'s In Play-Off

The final full week of play for the City League gets under way this afternoon at League Park with the Legion cellarites meeting the M. P. Baracas.

The play-off teams have already been decided in the loop, the M. E.'s forfeiting their only chance last Friday to the M. P. Baracas, leaving the M. P.'s and Lions to fight it out in the series. The Legion entry was never a real contender.

The principal fight remaining in the loop is for top place, but if the Lions win all their remaining contests and lose to the M. P.'s they will still be safely perched upon the top rung of the ladder.

The other games in this week's play finds the Lions meeting the M. E. Baracas Tuesday. Wednesday will be a holiday in the loop while the Independents are playing Aycock. The Legion came back Thursday against the M. E. Baracas and the Lions close the week Friday by meeting the M. P. Baracas.

One game is scheduled next week between the M. E.'s and M. P.'s, it being the final game of the regular season. The series will get under way just as soon as possible following the end of the season with the winner of two games of the three-game series being crowned champions of the circuit.

Between Innings

Colts-Tar Tie
Richmond and Norfolk played to a 4-2 tie in Richmond yesterday with the game being called at the end of the ninth inning on account of darkness, rain and wet grounds. Galvin's homer in the eighth with two on gave Richmond three runs and a tie.

Hornets Blank Tourists
Charlotte blanked the Asheville Tourists yesterday in Asheville 6 to 0 as John and Tom Lanning, brothers, hooked up in the tilt. John, the younger brother, got the better of the argument, allowing seven hits. Tom gave up nine. Judge Landis, W. G. Bramham and Dan Hill, Piedmont President witnessed the game.

N. C. Really Intends To Mine Coal

plans to haul coal for the schools with school trucks rather than pay 50 cents to $1 a ton for having it hauled, and thus save from $50,000 to $100,000 a year on the cost of coal for the schools alone. So far no formal protests have been heard from the coal dealers, and fertilizer men.

Yet why should the State be criticized for doing on a small scale what the Federal government is doing on a large scale, especially with regard to power, many are asking here. If it is a fine thing for the government to go into the power business, through the TVA, and sell power to the public generally in competition with private power companies, it is not also a good thing for the State to mine its own coal and produce its own fertilizer and thus save the taxpayers from $500,000 to $1,000,000 a year? If it is a good thing for a Democratic national administration to go into business in an effort to reduce prices for the public generally, isn't it a good thing for a State Democratic administration to go into business to reduce taxes for its taxpayers? If the State planned to mine coal and sell it to the public generally or to sell its fertilizer to farmers in competition with the regular commercial fertilizer companies, the coal and fertilizer concerns would have a legitimate cause to complain, it is agreed. But all the State plans to do is to produce coal and fertilizer for its own use and not for sale. Nor will the coal mining operation, when undertaken, compete with any State industry, since no coal is mined in North Carolina at the present time.

The reason none of the coal deposits in Moore county have never been extensively mined, according to most opinion here, is because the railroads and coal interests, which in turn are conceded to be controlled by the large banking interests in New York, especially the J. Pierpont Morgan interests, have not wanted to see them developed and hence have made it impossible for them to get sufficient financial backing. For both the railroads and the coal mines are admittedly largely controlled by the New York financial powers. The railroads serving North Carolina make a large part of their revenue by hauling coal into the State, from Virginia and West Virginia. If the coal deposits in Moore county should ever be really developed on a commercial plane, they would tend to reduce the freight earnings of the railroads and the income of the Virginia and West Virginia coal mines, it is readily admitted.

The banks in New York that work along with the railroads and the coal mines have realized this all along, it is maintained here, and have hence managed to see to it that no one has been able to get sufficient capital to develop these Moore county mine deposits on a commercial scale. As a result North Carolinians continue to pay from $2 to $3 a ton freight on every ton of coal they buy.

But the State is not dependent upon New York capital to develop the coal deposits it has purchased and is not controlled by New York banks.

HENDERSON SCORES COME LATE IN TILT

Visitors Error As Independents Hit Timely to Net Four Runs; H. King, Hillsboro Tosses, Was Master of Locals Through Most Of Game Keeping Down Hits

Don Pleasants was ineffective yesterday against Hillsboro of the Central State League at League Park as the visitors defeated the Henderson Independents 7 to 4.

The visitors got to Pleasants offerings in the initial frame, pushing over one run. They repeated in the second inning, adding another tally. He fared some better until the fourth until he was forced to the showers by a barrage of hits netting four runs. Dillihay was called to the mound by Manager Pahlman and he worked out a nice game, not an earned run being charged against him.

King, visiting hurler, kept the locals well in check until the sixth inning when they coupled hits with errors to push over two runs. They got two more in the eighth on a series of hits.

Mann, centerfielder for the visitors, led all with the stick, getting four hits out of five tries. Four Henderson players got two hits each.

Asheville Gets Relief Cannery

Although some 20 or 40 other places have made inquiries with a view to seeking canneries, only four or five other places are being considered at this time, Mrs. O'Berry said. Present indications are that additional beef canneries may be established in Charlotte, High Point and Raleigh.

So far more than 50,000 cattle have been shipped to North Carolina, of which approximately 35,000 have already been received. These have been put out on pastures as soon they have been tested and found free of disease. Very few have been found to be diseased, Mrs. O'Berry said.
