Nine Men To Play Their Final Game As Bulldogs

Two First Stringers Will Be Missing In Tomorrow's Game With Cary

The Henderson high school Bulldogs will make their last stand this season here Friday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at League Park with Cary as the opponent for the afternoon's activities.

This game will be the "swan song" of nine men, eight of them regulars and the other a first string reserve. Romeo Stainback, ace quarterback, Ed Wilkerson, tackle, Bill Bryan, consistent ground gaining back, Red Duke, kicker and brilliant end, Adams center, Beckham, veteran tackle, Rudd Edwards, a back made over into a tackle and Elvie Turner, a mainstay at his guard position, are the regulars that will wear the blue and white for the last time as a Bulldog. Don Evans is the reserve lineman that will make his final appearance with the high school team.

The locals face their opponent tomorrow minus the services of two of its regulars. Bill Bryan, back, who crippled a knee in his arm during drills this week, and Lefty Ayscue, veteran end, who will not play due to the critical illness of his mother. To fill these gaps, Coach Hank Powell has called Frank Legg, who has seen some action in the backfield this season, to fill in the backfield, and Ed Wilkerson will move from his tackle berth to end in the place of Ayscue. Rudd Edwards will play regularly at the vacated tackle post.

The highs have no set up by any means since tomorrow's visitors played Oxford a better game than did the locals, losing only 7 to 0 to the powerful Granville county team. Henderson lost by two touchdowns to their ancient rivals.

The team needs a victory over Cary to put their season in a better than average class and they will be fighting tooth and toe unit to add the scalp of the visitors to their collection.

The students are expected to turn out in a large body to witness the final game and the fans in the city are promised a fast ball game if they turn out to back the locals.

The other officers were retained for another year. For the fourth consecutive time the Georgia division won the Alexander Paris trophy for obtaining the largest number of new members between 18 and 25.

Other awards were won by the Virginia division for the best historical work in any State; the North Carolina division for the best historical work in schools; Katherine Hillard, of Oxford, N. C., for the best diary of a Confederate soldier, and Mrs. A. L. Ridings, of Texas, for the best collection of heroic incidents of the 60's.

Churches In Demand For Peace

ment in the religious bodies to make conscientious objectors of many members of the churches.

Citing the statement that more men are under arms than there were at the beginning of the war in 1914, the report of the late convention moves toward a campaign of evangelism that will take the emphasis from nationalism, that will allay fear and suspicion, abate race hatreds and discourage what militarists call "preparedness." "Believing that the complete acceptance and demonstration of the principles of Jesus and the cultivation of world brotherhood is the only means of assuring lasting peace, we advocate the renunciation of war as a means of settling international disputes," the report continues.

"History reveals nothing more disastrophic than the recent congressional revelations of 'the practice of munitions manufacturer,' the resolutions declare. The convention would remove the profit motive in all munitions making and would limit preparation entirely to defense. That would help to allay foreign suspicion, the Baptists think. The committee framing this report asks for the abolition of military training in tax-supported institutions and would memorialize congress to give to all conscientious objectors the privileges enjoyed by the Society of Friends.

Taking up the economic situation the resolutions declare: "We believe the time has now come for legislation to reflect the needs of the people rather than the will of money interests." The disproportions of the economic order are deplored. Machine production has made handworkers scarce, one per cent of the population owns 60 percent of the wealth of the country, one-sixth of the population must have government aid and that happens in the richest nation of the world. The profit motive must give way to the service or capitalism will be seriously challenged, if not overthrown, in the opinion of many observers.

BRINGS WEALTH TO POORHOUSE

Above is a view of the oil well of the Pauper Oil company, on the property of the Washington county poorhouse at Marietta, O., which is producing 30 barrels a day. The profits go to the infirmary and to two elderly invalids who discovered the black gold. John Hupp and J. W. Yerian.

The convention deprecates strife and violence among capitalists or laborers. It advocates such legislation as will secure for each worker a chance to labor and hope. It recommends that "our preachers inform themselves on the issues involved in this report and others of great public concern; that in churches and Sunday schools study groups to find Christian was of dealing with these issues, and that these pastors continually present to their people the virtues of Christian stewardship so that the service motive may supplant the profit motive.

For temperance the committee writing the resolutions urges that all ef-that we join heartily with them, with the Jews and with the other Protestant bodies that are combating this evil which the convention says is growing with the screen's "degenerating." "A large per cent of the films now present the worst forms of vice, foster disrespect for law, flout the sacredness of the home, and make a shameless appeal to the sex impulse," the resolutions declare.
