WILL NOT BALANCE BUDGET UNTIL '37

Financial New York Will Be Pleased If It Is Done Even Then

By LESLIE EICHEL, Central Press Staff Writer, New York, Dec. 13.—Of course the Federal budget cannot be balanced for the fiscal year of 1935-36.

Financial New York will be satisfied if there is even a semblance of a balance by 1936-37.

Federal spending will continue upward during this winter. The greater the Federal spending, the less private money is inclined to come out of its hiding spots.

Thus the government becomes more and more responsible for all business. That, in the end, would cause this to be a nation in which all the business that does not pay dividends would be in the hands of the government—and all the business that pays dividends would be concentrated in a few private hands.

IMPOSSIBLE, IMPOSSIBLE!

Some weeks ago, we asked three rhetorical questions in this column. Edward J. Quirk, of East Rockaway, N. Y., answers each with an "impossible" (as have many other persons). We re-quote the questions:

"How can the government proceed on the one hand to increase costs to the producer and on the other hand expert larger consumption?"

"How can monopoly be maintained without increasing the number of un-employed?"

"How can the mass share (to the extent of a livelihood) in the monop-olies unless the monopolies become co-operative?"

ONLY A SALES TAX

B. L. Barnes of Nashville, Tenn., writes that we all are "darn fools" for voting for a multiplicity of politicians to fill a multiplicity of offices who levy a multiplicity of taxes.

Mr. Barnes suggests: "There is only one logical way to overcome this particular situation and that is to have only one form of taxation, which would hit all of us alike—a general sales tax on every-thing sold in the United States. Then have only one receiving agency—the federal government, which would dis-burse to each state the amount it needs."

"We do not need state, county, city governments and what-not, each col-lecting a tax just to keep some poli-ticians from starving to death."

National Capital Is Enjoying Boom

influx, in fact, has been of war-period proportions.

APARTMENTS FULL—Washington apartment houses are full-up. Homes of all sorts are in brisk demand. Vacancies no longer exist in the business district. Rentals are being boosted.

Hotel accommodations are at a premium.

There always is a rush into the capital on the eve of the reassembling of Congress, but the present rush is almost unprecedented.

Representatives of all sorts of in-terests are arriving—to fight for legis-lative advantages, seeking code con-cessions, after government loans; de-manding, opposing, arguing.

And they all seem to have plenty of money. Washington is getting it. Washington also has one fairly thriving industry—building.

Private building, to be sure, hasn't revived much, but the federal govern-ment is busy with a local program which, as Congressman Louis Ludlow of Indiana repeatedly has pointed out, has involved an expenditure ten or a dozen times the combined amounts of the Louisiana and Alaska purchases—all right here in the cap-ital.

were reduced in number. He also took a crack at the justices of the peace court system in the State, without mentioning them by name, referring to them as an "inferior court system devised for a pioneer age and a mul-tiplicity of minor law enforcement of-ficers inadequate to cope with present day conditions."

Whether this means that the gov-ernor is going to make any definite recommendations to the General As-sembly looking towards county con-solidation or abolition of the justices of the peace courts in North Caro-lina no one here is prepared to say. For while most observers are in com-plete agreement with the governor on the need for county consolidation and the absence of any need for justices of the peace, they also agree that it would take a very brave man to ad-vocate any changes in the present system. They also agree that even if the governor should recommend county consolidation and abolition of the justices of the peace courts, that there is very little likelihood that the General Assembly would pay any atten-tion to these recommendations.

ing, and they were unable to identify the others burned by names. There are 11 children in the family, but two were absent.

Nichols, the father, was burned deeply about the arm and face and collapsed at the door of a brother's house, to which he went in his sleep-ing garments and unshod, for assis-tance. Mrs. Nichols leaped from an upstairs window and was burned about the face and hands and received a badly fractured left wrist. She went upstairs to awaken the children and was trapped by the flames. Nich-ols was taken to a hospital.
