HENDERSON PAIR
GET IN TROUBLE
Granville Justice Goes Hard
With Mrs. Eva Wilson,
Andrew Knight

A Henderson man and a Henderson woman had recently that Granville county justice goes hard. The following from today's Oxford Public Ledger relates the incident:

Mrs. Eva Wilson and Andrew (Dick) Knight, both of Henderson, have learned from experience that the law is taken seriously in Granville county where Judge Ben Lassiter presides over the judicial body.

The court is inclined to believe that by the time she has completed her experience here, the Wilson woman will have more respect for her own oath.

Knight is said to have brought the work to Oxford for her to look for work. During their stay here, they had an occasion to visit a filling station some distance from town on the Stovall road.

The sequel in the story was a visit of the woman to the court house where in the presence of Miss Charlotte Easton, deputy clerk of superior court, she swore out a warrant charging Knight with assaulting her with a pocket knife and otherwise abusing

The next action in the case was an attempt on the part of the woman to withdraw the warrant, but this she would not allow and when she was called to the witness stand, she refused to testify against Knight. However, the court had witnesses on hand and succeeding in convicting Knight on charges brought by the woman and a fine of $25 and costs were levied.

Judge Lassiter thereupon issued a bench warrant for Mrs. Wilson charging perjury, she having gone on the stand and reversed her declarations against Knight as sworn in the warrant. She was taken into custody and later released under bond of $400 for her appearance in recorder's court here next Wednesday morning.

The case was regarded by court observers as one of the most unusual of the many strange turns that often come in the courts. By his action against the woman, Judge Lassiter indicated he will not allow perjury to go on in his court.

HURRY WITH THAT CARD.
 Another thing that has kinder grown up about Christmas is this practice of sending greeting cards. And I want to tell you, don't make like to send 'em or get 'em any better'n I do.

One thing about it, though, everybody likes to get mail all the time—providin' it's the right kind.

Yesterday morning I got a handful out of the box at the post office, and what do you think was mixed up along with them? Just one guess. Yes, sir, you guessed right. A nice, commercial-like looking letter from the bank. You know don't many banks write you love letters, either. That one—or was it just one I got, which?

—was not about something Christmas things was bought with, but a sort of hang-over from the depression. Any way, it—or was it they?—took a lot of the kick out of all the rest of the handful of Christmas greetings.

Folks who habitually stack up on sending Christmas cards sometimes do it like they do giving presents, sorter send them to folks they think maybe will send one back. One of the most let-down kind of feelings you ever get is when you think you've sent cards out to about all your close friends and then about the first two or three you get are from somebody you overlooked. Ever have that experience? Not that you thought any less of them, but just a humanly lapse of memory, you can't remember everybody all the time about everything.

So, if you go to getting in a lot of cards from folks you didn't send any to, you better hurry down to the stores where they sell Christmas cards and put in a few extra, for I'm telling you now they're just about all gone. Folks you didn't send them to to start with ain't likely to get one from you this time, cause they aint going to be so many of them left so very long for you to get. This card business is one of the main functions of Christmas, and last year they wasn't hardly a one left in town two or three days before Christmas. And if it wasn't for this greeting card business, I don't know whenever this Henderson post office would get back into first class again.

REV. J. U. TEAGUE IN SERVICE LONG TIME

Rev. J. U. Teague, of this city, soon will round out 13 years of service as pastor of a group of churches in the neighbor county of Granville. They are Amis chapel, Mountain Creek, Grassy Creek and Tabb's Creek.

During the past three years of the depression, these churches have experienced their due portion of the great struggle, but they found it a little easier going in 1934 for their communities, and for that reason they are rejoicing over the improvement and looking forward to a more fruitful year of service in 1935 under the leadership of their pastor.

Alex Beasley, one of the nine, invited Mrs. Cherry to go to Four Oaks to meet Mrs. Sarah Beasley Crane, another of the defendants, Mrs. Cherry said, and also invited her and her sister, Josephine Smith, to his home the same night, but she did not accept either invitation.

Mrs. Cherry related that Josephine told the same story at her home the day she was brought back from New York that she told on the witness stand, a story of being forced to accompany Mrs. Crane to New York and enter a life of immorality, including being forced to pose for pictures in the nude.

The night Josephine returned to her home, Mrs. Cherry testified, Alex Beasley came into the yard at the house, and a pistol shot was fired by some one. She said she did not know who did the shooting.

not necessarily be recommended by army engineers, but were only studied as to the probable cost and return.

Four North Carolina river basins, the Neuse, Tar, Yadkin and Cape Fear, were listed for coordinated development for power and flood control. Two projects in that State in the Roanoke River basin also were listed.

Developments in the Roanoke river basin were pictured as oanoke Rapids dam, Weldon, costing in excess of $4,480,000, and producing 56,000 kilowatts of current, and George Dam, Dan river, costing approximately $300,000, and producing 1,800 kilowatts.

Sorosis Club Meets
With Mrs. Crowder

The Sorosis Club was charmingly entertained by Mrs. T. H. Crowder at her home on Chestnut street Thursday afternoon.

The spirit of Christmas was carried out in the attractive decorations of holly, evergreens and poinsettias.

Mrs. E. M. Rollins presided over the meeting in the absence of the president, Mrs. I. H. Hoyle.

Following a short business session, a Christmas program was presented with "Where Nature Decorates her own Christmas Tree" being given by Mrs. L. C. Kerner. "Old Christmas Tradition" was the topic discussed by Mrs. E. G. Flannagan and "The Nation's Christmas Tree in Sierra's Today" was given by Miss Shannon Morton.

Under a brilliantly decorated Christmas tree were gifts with an appropriate verse for each member of the club, and the reading of these clever verses afforded much amusement.

The hostess served a delicious salad plate followed by Christmas plum pudding to the club members and one guest, Mrs. Wells, of Richmond, Va.
