

CONSERVATION LAW WILL GET SUPPORT

Senate Shows Sentiment for Standing by Statewide Schedules

Daily Dispatch Bureau, In the St. Walter Hotel,

Raleigh, Jan. 18.—That the State Senate will stand by the fish and game program, as the department of conservation and development was demonstrated when a "local" bill designed to lengthen the open season for quail in Western North Carolina counties was sent to committee, despite protests by western senators.

The bill, introduced by Senator J. P. Gibbs, of Yancey county, and which was endorsed by various senators and representatives from the western sector, would extend to February 1 the open season for quail in virtually every county in extreme western Carolina. The season expired January 1.

When Senator Gibbs asked for suspension of the rules so that the bill might be passed immediately, Senator Carl Bailey of Washington county, made the loudest speech yet made in the Senate during this session. He professed his argument against immediate passage of the bill with the remark that he disliked being placed in the position of apparently fighting the enactment of purely local bills.

"But," said Senator Bailey, "this is not a local bill. It embraces an entire zone. All game has been recognized as a natural resource and as such is the property of the State and not the counties. As evidence of the acceptance of that policy we have established a department for that express purpose: the conservation of fish and game. I, for one, am opposed to so-called local bills which would interfere with the policy of statewide supervision of our game. I ask that the bill be referred to its committee."

The Gibbs measure was defended by Senator A. Hall Johnson, of Buncombe. "By the time this bill comes out of committee," he said, "February 1 will have come and gone."

Senator Bailey was the debate at least so far as Senate members are concerned. Suspension of the rules was denied. The bill was sent to the committee.

Would Cut Rates Of Sales Tax To Only Two Percent

Raleigh, Jan. 18.—Removal of the present exemption from the sales tax law and the reduction in the tax rate from three per cent to two per cent is proposed in a bill introduced by Representative Carr, of Duplin. Since all bills of this nature are automatically referred to the finance committee, it is expected that the bill will not be reported out and that what ever change the committee makes in the sales tax will be made in the regular revenue bill.

Peter's Lesson In Humble Service THE WEEKLY SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

The Golden Text

1 Peter 5:5 "All of you gird yourselves with humility to serve one another."

PETER'S LESSON . . . mqnH
(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for Jan. 20 is John 13:1-17 and 1 Peter 5:3, this latter verse being also the Golden Text: "All of you gird yourselves with humility to serve one another.")

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL
Christmas is not too far in the past to permit our seeing in Jesus' act in washing the feet of his disciples what we may call a pantomime of his incarnation for our redemption. As he rose from the supper table and laid aside his own garments to gird himself with the towel as the slave's apron, so he had already risen from his heavenly throne and laid aside his equality with God in order that in Jesus he might gird himself with our humanity. "He emptied himself, taking the form of a servant, being made in the likeness of men; and being found in fashion as a man, he humbled himself, becoming obedient unto death, yea the death of the cross." That feet washing was no isolated incident in Jesus' life; it was a symbol of his whole life and mission and a pattern for ours as well.

The Dignity of the Servant
The true motive of all service is love. So the explanation of Jesus' serving love is given here thus: "Jesus knowing that his hour was come that he should depart out of this world unto the Father, having loved his own that were in the world, he loved them unto the end." All that he did was motivated by love of God and love of man. So "the love of Christ constraineth us" in any service we render acceptable.

The dignity of the lowliest service and its perfect consistency with the sovereignty even of deity is established thus: "Jesus, knowing that the Father had given all things into his hands, and that he came forth from God and went into God, riseth from supper, and layeth aside his garments, and he took a towel, and girded himself. Then he poureth water into a basin, and began to wash the disciples' feet, and to wipe them with the towel wherewith he was girded." Thus God not only became man but took the form of the most menial servant.

The Humility of the Servant
All of the disciples had seen the pitcher and basin left at the door by the good man of the house, who presumed that Jesus, being a Master, would have his own servants to use these vessels of lowly service. But none of them would condescend to do this necessary service. Instead they had just been disputing about which of them should be the greatest among them. Not one of them wished to have the kingdom ushered in with them stuck with a basin and towel in his hands instead of a scepter. So the Master himself became the slave and drudge for all of them. No service was too lowly for him. He saw perfect harmony between deity and humility.

The Necessity of Service
When Peter felt it was inconsistent that his Master be his servant and protested, "Lord dost thou wash my feet? Thou shalt never wash my feet," Jesus replied, "If I wash thee not thou has no part with me. . . He that is bathed needeth not save to wash his feet, but is clean every whit: and ye are clean, but not all. They were all converted and regenerated men except Judas. They were saved from sin by their faith in him, but they daily needed his grace and cleansing for the sin that so easily beset them in their daily walk."

Sovereignty of All Service
Jesus explained this act of serving love as the symbol of the sovereignty of all service thus: "Ye call me Teacher and Lord; and ye say well: for so I am. If I then, the Lord and the Teacher, have washed your feet, ye also ought to wash one another's feet. For I have given you an example, that ye also should do as I have done to you." Or as Peter wrote years later: "All of you gird yourselves with humility, to serve one another."

In order to force a fair balance, the presidential plan was to take part of the gold out of each dollar, cheapening money—and compelling buyers to pay more dollars per purchase.
Today a dollar is still a dollar, but it is backed by approximately 11 per cent less gold than before it was devalued.

Court Anxious For Excuse For Action

putting it contrariwise, commodity prices were unduly low. The few folk with a great deal of money could buy a vast deal for very little of it; the many, with stuff to sell, had to sell it mightily cheaply—in fact, for less than it was worth, they complained.
In order to force a fair balance, the presidential plan was to take part of the gold out of each dollar, cheapening money—and compelling buyers to pay more dollars per purchase.
Today a dollar is still a dollar, but it is backed by approximately 11 per cent less gold than before it was devalued.

CONTRACTS CITED

The holders of "gold" bonds maintain that regardless of President Roosevelt's new definition of a dollar they are entitled to repayment in accordance with the terms of their contracts—payable in terms of the old gold dollar.
The Constitution doesn't permit even Congress or the President to nullify or modify contracts.
Therefore, these creditors ask the Supreme Court to declare devaluation unconstitutional, insofar as they are concerned, and to hold them entitled to repayment of an un-devalued dollar.
If so, for each dollar that their contracts specify they must receive $1.30 in present-day, devalued currency.
The Supreme Court's job is to stick to the Constitution if the heavens fall.
However, the Supreme Court doesn't want the heavens to fall. What Washington interprets the Supreme Court as having sought from the attorney general when it questioned him was some pretense of legal reasoning that would justify it in upholding devaluation whole-heapedly. But it would not take the hint.

General Assembly Is Moving Faster Than Any Lately

committees, of course, must grant hearings to any who want to appear before them. But Chairman Harris Newman, of the Senate Finance Committee, and Chairman Gregg Cherry, of the House Appropriations Committee, have already announced that they will close all public hearings by January 27. Since the appropriations committee must hear all the State departments, institutions and divisions with regard to requests for increased appropriations, slightly more time has been granted by the chairman of the appropriations committees for these hearings. But Chairman Lee Graveley, of the Senate Appropriations Committee, and Chairman Victor Bryant, of the House Appropriations committee, have set February 8 as the last date on which they will grant any hearings.

As a result, the hope is not general that the appropriations bill may be reported to the House by about February 15, ready for consideration there. It is expected that the Finance committee will complete their work on the finance act before that date. But because no revenue bill can be reported out until an appropriations bill has been enacted, it will be necessary to hold the revenue bill in the committees until after an appropriations bill has been adopted. For the finance committees have no way of knowing how much revenue they must raise by means of the revenue bill until after the appropriations bill has been adopted.

The assembly could throw a monkey wrench into the machinery and blast all hopes for an early adjournment, of course, if it should adopt an appropriations bill providing for the expenditure of a much larger amount of money than the finance committees are able to provide revenue for. But, in spite of the pressure from some angles for enlarged appropriations, especially for schools, indications are that a majority of members in both houses are inclined to see pretty much eye to eye with the governor and the Advisory Budget Commission. This is taken to mean that the appropriations committees are going to hold the appropriations pretty close to the figures proposed in the budget appropriations bill and that the finance committees will not have much trouble in finding the revenue with which to meet these appropriations. Some members of the finance committees are already hopeful that they will be able to find between $5,000,000 and $6,000,000 a year in new revenue without levying any new taxes, but merely plugging some loopholes in present taxes. If this is the case, it is likely that the appropriations committees will increase their allotments accordingly. But it is too early yet to tell anything about this phase of the matter.

Representative Tam C. Bowie, of Ashe county, is expected to oppose any and all increases that are proposed in appropriations and it is said to have already remarked that he would not vote for any appropriation that is above the 1933 level. But he seems to have few, if any, followers in this session. Most of the members are agreed that the appropriations for schools and almost all other agencies need to be increased as much as they can be without throwing the budget out of balance.

Most of the members of both houses seem to be in agreement with the governor that the budget must be kept in balance and that the legislature must not appropriate any more money than it can find revenue to supply.

The enactment of an appropriations and revenue act very similarly to those recommended by the governor and budget commission is already being freely predicted in many quarters.

Stabilizations For Money Must Wait

posers) aids world stability—and that aids trade.
NO STABILIZATION
Those who urge stabilization of the dollar don't realize that it takes two parties to make a deal.
Great Britain is not yet ready for stabilization of the pound.
One can not well be stabilized without the other. Trade might flow to the nation that had the "cheaper" money, because its prices would be less.

The United States evidently is willing to stabilize the dollar now. But Britain fears stabilization of the pound would shut off trade.
And still more important, the gold standard countries would not consent to stabilization except to bring the pound and the dollar back to their previous gold standard level—which would mean serious deflation in Great Britain and the United States.

PRISON CHAINS GO

How many prisons still employ chains and other torture instruments of the middle ages? We may be surprised.

The head of the prison system in Scotland recently was surprised.
He heard of a convict in solitary confinement, his legs manacled by heavy chains. The place was Peterhead prison, Aberdeenshire.
The man, 28, had tried to escape. Orders now have gone out to the warden of Scottish prisons that no more chains shall be used.
OUR HEALTH NOT SO GOOD
Health conditions in the United States are not so good as we have been led to believe. That is the word of Professor Eduard C. Lindeman of New York School of Social Work.
"Our health service is a disgrace, and the low status of attempts to improve it also is a disgrace."
A recent study of 100 cities brought out that of every 100 families handled by social agencies, 56 persons were temporarily ill, 23 tubercular, 25 suffering from chronic diseases and 25 from mental diseases.

FOUR CRACK DAILY TRIPS FLORIDA

"Everybody talks about the weather," said Mark Twain, "but nobody does anything about it."
Greyhound has changed all that! Drastically low fares and modern heated coaches enable millions to leave winter behind and spend the cold months in summer temperatures. When you consider the cost of coal and other expenses necessary during winter weather, you'll probably find that spending the winter in Florida is actually an economy.

Hauptmann promise, too.
Reilly interposed that his client had wanted to apologize for his conduct of yesterday, when he shouted: "Mister, mister, stop lying! You are telling a story." At Special Agent Thomas H. Sisk, on the witness stand, Hauptmann was tense but motionless throughout his wife's outcry and subsequent apology. As questioning of Mrs. Auchenbach resumed, Mrs. Hauptmann settled back into her seat, her face still flushed.

School Athletics Exempted for Tax Up to 50c Limit

Daily Dispatch Bureau, In the St. Walter Hotel,

Raleigh, Jan. 18. High school athletics was given a boost by the joint finance committee of the General Assembly amended the tentative revenue bill to exempt admissions charged by them up to fifty cents from the three per cent tax on such admissions. The present exemption covers admissions which do not exceed twenty-five cents.

The amendment was suggested by Representative Oscar Barker, of Durham, and was passed without a dissenting vote. Barker said that most schools use admissions for athletic contests for their athletic fund and that he did not think it proper for the State to penalize student athletic activities.
