Wire, Pullman, Theatre Companies and Bankers Object to Levies in McDonald-Lumpkin Substitute for Sales Tax; Gas Tax Diversion Is Now Sought

Raleigh, Feb. 21.—(AP)—Compulsory licensing of every driver of a motor vehicle in North Carolina moved another step nearer to becoming law today when the House passed on second reading a measure already approved by the Senate.

A few minor amendments were adopted, which will necessitate the bill going back to the Senate when it completes House passage. It will probably come up for third reading in the House tomorrow. The Senate passed a bill requiring all persons practicing midwifery to secure licenses from the State Board of Health and sent the measure to the House. It also approved a bill shortening the time for intervening in suits of bonds of contractors for public buildings from 12 months to six. Auto Tags Costs To Be Lower

Raleigh, Feb. 21.—The House is going to pass a bill to reduce the cost of automobile licenses, most observers here believe. While it declined to mix automobile license reduction question with driver's license bill, as Representative McDonald, of Forsyth, tried to get it to move and more observers are convinced that the House will pass a bill to reduce the cost of automobile licenses. "This House is going to pass a bill to reduce the cost of automobile licenses later on and I think it should," Representative Gregg Cherry, of Gastonia, said during the debate yesterday. Several others chimed in to the same effect. Even Chairman Tatem, of the House Committee on Roads,

Spending Spree Continues In Legislative Committees

these "free spenders" on the appropriations committees also seem to be entirely unconcerned as to where the revenue for meeting all these appropriations is to come from. This is not true of all the members, however. There is a group in the committee, composed mostly of members of previous sessions of the assembly, who realize the trouble into which the "free spenders" on the committee are heading and who are trying to apply the brakes. These members know both the futility and folly of appropriating more money than can be provided and how loudly the school forces, the university and all the State departments and institutions

Bitter Fight In Congress Looms Over NRA Extension

Washington, Feb. 21.—(AP)—President Roosevelt's recommendations for a two-year extension of NRA headed today straight into a legislative situation, bearing all the signs of bitter controversy. Observers "wondered whether the fight would be over much before June, when the present recovery act expires. Arrayed for the skirmishing were the forces of industry, union labor and those who accuse NRA of fostering "monopoly." They were all ready to press their demands. There was no doubt at all in the minds of legislators that one of the fiercest struggles probably would rage around Section 7-A, collective bargaining provision. They noted that President Roosevelt simply called for promotion of "the rights of employees freely to organize for the purpose of collective bargaining," and did not disclose whether he desires the section changed or left as it is.

Contending there had been a "break down" of Section 7-A, the labor section of the recovery act, Wagner said his measure would give notice to all that the solemn pledge made by Congress when it enacted Section 7-A cannot be ignored with impunity, and that "a cardinal principle of the new deal for all and not some of our people is going to be supported and preserved."

Think Reverse in Money Policy Would Aid Recovery; Many See In Statement Bid for Another G. O. P. Nomination for Presidency in 1936 Campaign

Washington, Feb. 21.—(AP)—A public statement by Herbert Hoover on money policies stirred political echoes in the Capitol today, but the administration stood pat on its program and just now was worried more by relief funds than by gold.

In the Senate President Roosevelt faced a crucial test as a vote neared on the McCarran amendment to require payment of prevailing local wages on all projects financed by the proposed 4,880,000,000 work-relief appropriation. It was on Carter Glass of Virginia—Mr. Roosevelt's "unreconstructed rebel"—that the administration leaned for aid in defeating this plan. Secretary Morgenthau said briefly that the administration was "satisfied" with its money policy. This was in reply to a request for comment on Mr. Hoover's suggestion that the government return to a gold standard as a recovery boost. Politically minded observers read in (Continued on Page Two.)
