

BOXING BOARD FOR STATE IS SOUGHT

Bill in House Would Name Members of Commission That Is Proposed

Daily Dispatch Bureau, In the Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, April 10.—A State boxing-wrestling commission would be established under the terms of a bill introduced in the State legislature by Senator A. Hall Johnston, of Buncombe, Broad powers would be granted to the commission which is named in the bill. The three members named are R. P. Steffey, of Charlotte; J. Y. Jordan, Jr., of Asheville and C. W. Stockard, of Greensboro.

Boxing bouts would be limited to 15 rounds with a maximum limit of three minutes for a round and wrestling matches would be limited to three hours, with no bouts or matches to be conducted on Sundays. Powers of licensing promoters, regulation of practices, and general supervision of all such sports would be conferred on the commission. The commission would name its own chairman, who would serve four years and the other two members would serve terms of three and two years respectively. At the expiration of two years and there after as vacancies occurred they would be filled through appointments by the governor. Local commissions, also consisting of three members, could be established wherever desired, but all appointments to local board membership would be subject to approval by the state commission. Whenever a local commission should be established in a city or town in which a state commissioner lived he would automatically become chairman of the local commission in addition to his duties as state commissioner.

A flat gross receipts tax of eight per cent would be levied on all bouts and contests. This levy would be in lieu of all other taxes, State or local, on such contests. Of the total eight per cent tax, five eighths of the amount would be allotted to the State commission, with the remaining three eighths going to the local commission. State and local commissioners would serve without pay, but would be reimbursed for expenses incurred as commissioners. The employment of a secretary by the State is authorized. Local commissions would be permitted to appoint a secretary, the pay of any such secretary to be not more than $10 for each contest or bout. Any person, firm, organization or corporation would have to be licensed by the State commission before they could promote contests.

Piles Go Quick

Without Salves or Cutting

Itching, bleeding, protruding piles are caused by bad circulation of the blood in the affected parts. The parts become weak, flabby, and lifeless. Only an internal remedy can remove the cause—that's why salves, suppositories and cutting fail. Dr. Leonard's prescription, HEM-ROID, succeeds because it removes congestion, restores circulation, heals and strengthens the diseased parts. HEM-ROID has given quick, safe and lasting relief to thousands of Pile sufferers. It will do the same for you or money back. Druggists everywhere sell Hem-Roid with this guarantee.—Adv.

TOURISTS WORK OUT DURING MORNING

Team Goes to Durham to See Detroit-Cincinnati Clash in Afternoon

The Henderson Tourists worked out this morning and journeyed to Durham this afternoon to witness the clash between the Detroit Tigers and the Cincinnati Reds in El Toro Park, according to Manager Pahlman. The boys made the best of what little sunshine they could get yesterday, and worked out at the park. Hitting, fielding and limbering up featured the workout, some of the boys slapping the apple on the nose as if in mid-season form.

Skipper Panman expects to make his Tourists travel at a high rate of speed in their training, realizing that only a few days remain before the big opener of the league here Saturday afternoon.

Players continue to report for workouts and all local baseball talent will be given a try if they will report for the workouts, according to Panman.

TENNIS TEAM WILL GO TO CHAPEL HILL

Haywood Phillips, Bits Watkins, Ed Beekham and Fred Hecht expected to go to Chapel Hill tomorrow where the first named three will take part in the annual high school tennis tournament, it was learned today.

The local school has been sending a tennis team to the annual affair each year for the past two or three years.

MIDDLEBURG TRIMS OXFORD 2 TO 1

Hendricks Masters Visitors As Middleburg Racks Up Their Fifth Straight

Middleburg racked up its fifth consecutive victory yesterday afternoon by defeating Oxford 2 to 1 with Hendricks mastering the visitors, allowing them only three hits, two of those coming in the first inning for the only run. Middleburg bunched hits in the sixth to push over two runs. Watkins' single in this frame sent the winning run trotting over the plate.

Hendricks has been setting up quite a record as a high school hurler. He has fanned 49 men in the last 31 innings he has pitched, thirty two of these being against Oxford. Hendricks is quite a biter, also snapping out two home runs so far this season. Score by innings: R.H.E. Oxford . . . . . 100 000 000-1 3 1 Middleburg . . . 000 002 00x-2 8 1 Batteries: Clements and Holmes; Hendricks and O. Short.

Auto Tag Cut Up For House Debate At Day's Session

Raleigh, April 10.—The bill, already passed by the Senate, which would reduce the per hundredweight tax on private automobiles from 55 to 45 cents and lower the minimum tag cost from $12 to 8 will face the lower House today. The measure appeared on the calendar yesterday, but legislators friendly to the highway department hastily moved, and successfully, to delay action until today. The reason for the delay was an amendment sent forward by Representative Jonas of Swain, which would have reduced the cost still more by making the hundredweight charge 40 cents, the minimum $7.

The present bill is a compromise effected in the Senate after much delay and argument. The compromise was accepted by Senator Rivers, Johnson, Senate leader of the tag reductionists and would save small car owners about $2.50 over present annual tag costs.

PEDDLERS' TAX IS BASIS FOR FIGHT

City and County Legislators at Odds in Debating That One Feature

Daily Dispatch Bureau, In the Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, April 10.—When the city meets the country there is a fight on the peddlers' tax. At least that is true in the North Carolina legislature, where the joint legislative finance committee spent three whole days this session in an effort to bring forth a peddlers' tax section which would be acceptable to a majority. No sooner, however, did the lower House get the revenue bill but it spent an entire day on the same section, making seven changes in it.

The badly-battered section limped back to the finance committee room where the Senate committee was in session. It proceeded to rip out all the House amendments except one. That one is the provision in the present revenue act which specifically permits Mecklenburg and Surry counties to levy special taxes on peddlers, "Special" meaning, of course, in this sense, higher. The Senate committee agreed that peddlers should be accorded the same privileges in all the 100 counties, but disagreed both with the House and itself when it reduced from the proposed $50 to the existing $25 levy the maximum tax on peddlers traveling in cars or trucks. Without dissent both the Senate and the House agreed that established manufacturers and jobbers who maintain warehouses and who sell to merchants for purposes of resale only should not be taxed as peddlers and that farmers should also be permitted to sell farm products of their own raising without being taxed.

The city-country setto is over the proposal to issue Statewide licenses to peddlers upon payment of a $25 fee. The city legislators want the levy higher because, they say, it may be higher in order to protect their license-paying merchant constituents. The rural legislators want it reduced to zero because, they say, the freedom from taxation of fruit and produce peddlers will create more peddlers and that in turn will result in more farm products being sold at higher prices.

Need For More Knowledge About Press Is Discussed

Dean Carl Ackerman, of Columbia School of Journalism, Says Public Should Know More About Great Public Service Newspapers Perform

One reason for the recent establishment of a graduate school of journalism at Columbia university, says Dean Carl W. Ackermann, is "to begin some constructive fact finding studies of the press today." The public, Dean Ackermann holds, knows too little "about the constructive work of newspapers" and he sees in this a danger to the free press. Dean Ackermann tells of the new program in the following article.

BY CARL W. ACKERMANN (Dean, School of Journalism, Columbia University)

New York, April 10.—As the press of the United States today is the most fearless and independent of our democratic institutions, it is being criticized more generally than before. The fact that news, editorials, features and cartoons deal so largely with public affairs at a time when people generally are critical adds to the tense feelings in regard to journalism.

If this criticism were studied much of it would disappear because the causes would be remedied. At least a beginning could be made if a fact-finding study of the press in public affairs were made. The need will be evident from the following facts:

Controlled Press Sought.

1. The desire for a governmentally controlled press in the United States is not centered exclusively in the government. A few educators and religious leaders are maintaining privately that both the press and radio should be governmentally controlled.

2. During the past 10 years one large university alone has spent $900,000 in research in the social sciences, and this is only a fraction of what has been spent by research agencies as a whole. Few of these research projects are concerned with journalism. Without exception the published reports which I have read have been indictments of the press.

One reason for establishing a graduate school of journalism at Columbia university is to begin some constructive fact-finding studies of the press of today. Very little is known about the relation of the press to local government, to national issues and to international problems.

Public Knows Little.

The public knows practically nothing about the constructive work of the newspapers today. If it were possible to republish all material received annually for consideration of the advisory board which awards the Pulitzer prize for public service, the people of the country would be surprised by the number of constructive achievements of the press.

Many pass unnoticed except for the one newspaper which received the Pulitzer gold medal because so many readers judge journalism by one or two examples. They have no opportunity to obtain a national perspective. While a newspaper is essentially a local business it is an important unit in a national institution which today is an indispensable factor in a democracy.

The danger to a free press today is the disposition of intelligent men and women to magnify the newspaper's mistakes and faults without knowing about its persisting public service.
