Mills Gets Another Homer In Overtime Encounter

Tourists Had A 9-2 Lead in the Fifth; Both Teams Score Twice In 13th

Henderson and Clarksville fought to a 12-12 deadlock for 13 innings yesterday in the Virginia city, the game being called on account of darkness.

Henderson got an early lead and was out in front 9 to 2 at the fifth inning but Clarksville pulled ahead by scoring three in the fifth and five in the seventh. Henderson tied things up in the eighth with one run. Both teams got two runs in the 13th.

Frank Mills continued his heavy hitting for the locals, getting a single, triple and a homer.

Jalong Wednesday

The Tourist will get a real test in the league tomorrow when they meet Jalong there. The Person county team boasts of a strong aggregation, and the locals will be pushed to the limit for a winning verdict.

Woodlief will probably occupy the mound for the locals, Pleasants and Boyd working the exhibition game in Clarksville yesterday.

What Do You Know About North Carolina?

By FRED H. MAY

- 1—What Newspaper editor was arrested in 1871 at Rutherfordton on Ku Klux charges?
- 2—What North Carolinian, an official of the Federal government, witnessed the first balloon ascension in America?
- 3—What outstanding service did the legislature of 1838-39 render the state?
- 4—Who was the first ordained Presbyterian minister to settle in North Carolina?
- 5—Where did North Carolina send her first troops in the Revolutionary War?
- 6—When and where was a German newspaper published in North Carolina?

ANSWERS

- 1—Randolph Abbott Shotwell, who edited a local paper, The Vindicator, until in 1869 he sold it and went to Asheville and established The Citizen. After selling The Citizen in 1870 he returned to Rutherfordton, where he was arrested July 5, 1871 and later driven to Marion and taken to Raleigh. The trial was before Judge Hugh L. Bond and a picked jury. Shotwell was sentenced to six years hard labor at Albany, N. Y., and taxed with a $5,000 fine. President Grant gave him an unconditional pardon in 1872. Shotwell was a real martyr and refused time and time again to give any information against others who took part in Ku Klux activities in order to secure his own freedom.
- 2—John Steele, of Salisbury. He was comptroller of the treasury, and with President Washington and others in Philadelphia were present when Jean Pierre Blanchard, a Frenchman, on January 9, 1792, made the first balloon flight in America.
- 3—It passed an act submitting the first statewide school law to the vote of the people. The vote was favorable. At no time since that year has North Carolina failed to take some part in conducting public schools, except in the year or two about the close of the Civil war.
- 4—Rev. James Campbell, who came from Scotland at Philadelphia in 1730. In 1757 he emigrated to North Carolina and settled on the Cape Fear River, just a few miles above Fayetteville.
- 5—North Carolina was the first colony to raise troops and send them outside of her own boundaries. A regiment of regulars under General Robert Howe was sent to Norfolk to aid in driving Lord Dunmore, British governor from Virginia. At the same time 220 regulars and 700 militia were sent to South Carolina to put down a rising of Tories.

6—In 1869 Julius A. Bostitz published the Die Sudliche Post, a weekly German paper, in Goldsboro. In all probability its circulation was outside of North Carolina, as there were very few German readers in the state at that time.
