

52 Golfers Qualify For West End Championship Play

Flight Pairings Made; Finals Next Week-End

Top Notch Golfers Gunning for Lee Averett's Title As Club Champion.

A total of 52 golfers have qualified for the annual club championship at West End Country Club, and were toeing their marks today as play in the different flights was to get underway.

First matches in all the flights must be played not later than Tuesday, and all stymies must be played, according to the rules of the tournament.

N. P. Strause turned in a brilliant 72 in qualifying to lead, and Lee Averett, present champion, has polished his game to perfection in anticipation of a real fight to hold his title.

Some fine scores were turned in during the qualifying rounds, serving ample notice on the champion that he must "dig out". His chief competition comes from Strause, E. F. Parham, J. H. Brodie, former champion of the club, Turner Wortham, O. T. Kirkland, E. G. Glenn, D. J. Cooper and Pitt Davis.

J. H. Brodie beat out E. F. Parham yesterday in the handicap tournament 2 and 1 to go into the finals with J. C. Cooper, Jr.

The tournament committee is E. F. Parham, chairman, O. T. Kirkland and E. F. Shaw, and it will decide all questions that arise during the play for the club's title.

Finals will be played next Saturday and Sunday, 18 holes being played each, making 36 holes for the finals.

A supper will be had at the club at the conclusion of the tournament at which the prizes won by the different players will be awarded. Each golfer may bring a lady, and each plate will be 50 cents.

The flights and their pairings follow:

HUBERT "RED" LEWIS IS TALKING "TURKEY"

Henderson Boy Making Good Showing as Coach Turkey's National Team

Parham, May 27.—Hubert M. (Red) Lewis, Henderson boy and former Duke university track star who early this year became coach of the Turkish national athletic team with headquarters at Istanbul, Turkey, is getting along well in his new, and unusual, position.

Lewis arrived in Istanbul the last of February and since that time has been working intensively to get the Turkish team in shape for the annual Balkan track meet, which will be held on May 31.

In his letter to Coach Carl Voyles, under whom he performed at Duke, the former Blue devil hero has discussed many of his problems and included many interesting developments in his work.

His chief trouble at the start was his inability to speak the Turkish language. Lewis has a speaking knowledge of French and when working with the Turkish track candidates he used a French interpreter. In his last letter, he wrote that he was rapidly becoming able to speak Turkish, and therefore, was able to get his suggestions across better.

The track which his candidates use for practice is also giving Lewis some trouble. On his arrival he found that a new track would have to be built and the weather has interfered with its getting into the best shape for the runners. He has written for the formula of the mixture of clay and cinders in the Duke stadium track—recognized as one of the nation's best—so that he could use the same in his cinder path.

From the performances of his boys in a squad meet held recently, Lewis is getting across some of his teachings in good style. Especially in the mile run, in which Lewis set and holds the Southern conference record, have the Turks become adept, one of the boys having run the 1,000 meters, corresponding to the mile, in 2 minutes 40 seconds—and that on a slow track!

Other good marks turned in were in the javelin, 196 feet; in the high jump, 6 feet 1 inch, in the discus 125 feet 3 inches, the shot put 43 feet 6 inches and the 100 yard dash in 17 seconds 1/4. The high jump mark was three-fourths of an inch better than that which won the conference meet at Duke last week.

Finalists in British Amateur

Lawson Little Jr., of San Francisco, holder of the British amateur golf crown, met a former champion in the final round at St. Anne's-on-the-Sea, England, in Dr. William Tweddell, local star and winner of the title in 1927.

Pahlman's Tourists Cop Two Games In A Row

Don Pleasants Blanks Hillsboro Saturday, 6-0, With Three Hits; Richards Hurls Win Over Tarboro There Sunday by 5-4 Score, Striking Out Eight Men

Otto Pahlman's Henderson Tourists showed themselves in fine style during the week-end, winning their Central State League game here Saturday from the Hillsboro Statesmen 3 to 0 as Don Pleasants was allowing the visitors only three scattered hits and then journeyed to Tarboro to whip George Whitted's Coastal Plains entry 5 to 4 by pushing over a run in the ninth inning.

Saturday's game was a beautiful exhibition of pitching by Don Pleasants as he mowed down eight visiting batters, and kept them popping the ball into the hands of his backstops. He allowed two base on balls.

Fletcher Langley was the big noise at last Saturday for the locals, getting a single and three two base hits. Pleasants helped himself to three hits out of four trips to the plate to add to his fine exhibition.

Although out hit seven to six, Henderson bunched their hits Sunday in Tarboro to give Richards his win. He fanned eight men, allowed two free passes to first and got two of his team's six hits. Cobb led the losers with two hits. One of Richards hits was a triple.

In other league games last Saturday, Oxford whipped Durham 5 to 4 and Ca-Vel walloped Jalong 8 to 4.

4-H BOYS, GIRLS TO SERVE AS MODELS

Given Big Place at Short Course at State College July 24-29

College Station, Raleigh, May 27.—Both boys and girls will model clothing in the dress revue to be held at the 4-H short course at State College, July 24-29, it was announced today.

The girls will model dresses they have made during the year for different occasions. The boys will show different types of clothes suitable for various occasions.

The 4-H honor club, composed of outstanding club members over the State, will sponsor the dress revue this year in cooperation with L. R. Harrell and Miss Ruth Current, state club leaders at State College, and Miss Willie N. Hunter, extension clothing specialist at the college.

The purpose of the revenue, says Miss Hunter, is to show appropriate clothes for different occasions for boy and girls as well as to arouse more interest in dressmaking by the girls.

The girls' costumes will include school outfits, dresses for general wear, sport clothes, "best" dresses, and evening dresses. The boys will model work outfits, school suits, sports clothes, "best" suits or general wear, and formal clothes.

The honor club is planning to present the revue in a novel manner that will make it of especial interest to all those attending the short course.

Fear Publication Ransom Notes Hamper Kidnapers

ed and copyrighted by the Seattle Post-Intelligencer, the newspaper in which Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Weyerhaeuser, parents of the child, were instructed to insert their reply to the note.

Officials said the original of the note, together with the envelope, on the back of which was scrawled the boy's signature of the missing boy, had been sent to Washington, D. C., where it was being studied by experts in the bureau of investigation of the Department of Justice.

It was believed, however, that copies of the note had been made for the various law enforcement agencies cooperating in the case.

No word came as to whether the kidnapers had again communicated with the parents, after the advertisement in Sunday's Post-Intelligencer appealing to them to find a new method to reach the Weyerhaeusers.

Detectives continued to watch the post office here in the belief the kidnapers might again use a special delivery letter to get their reply to the boy's parents.

Salient points in the ransom note follow:

Demand for $200,000 in cash in bills of various denominations and unmarked.

Five days in which to raise the money. Today was the third day.

A warning that the Weyerhaeusers were not to notify the police or any private detective agency and to keep it out of the newspapers. Another warning to "just follow the rules, we will get along fine; don't slip on your part, will be just too bad for some one else."

A boast was made that the police could not catch up with them and that they were educated and "fairly intelligent."

System Of Codes Of NRA Wiped Out By Supreme Court

The conspiracy count and given prison sentences, and their firms were found guilty of the remaining counts relating to trade practices.

The second circuit court of appeals approved the convictions on 17 counts, including conspiracy and set aside the conviction on two counts which charged violation of minimum wages and maximum hours provisions of the code. It held those two provisions unconstitutional.

With Donald R. Richberg, NRA chief who argued the case, sitting ten feet before him in a packed court room, Chief Justice Hughes held 96 percent of the live poultry marketed in New York came from other states.

"The defendants are slaughter house operators," he added. "They do not sell poultry in interstate commerce," he said.

The government, Mr. Hughes said, stressed the "grave national crisis" confronting the country.

"Extraordinary conditions may call for extraordinary remedies," he said, "but the argument stops short of the attempt to defend action outside of constitutional authority."

"Extraordinary conditions do not create constitutional power." The court declared Congress had not provided sufficient restrictions and had not laid down sufficient rules to guide the President in approving codes.

It ruled Section 3 of the act providing codes of fair competition was an illegal delegation of power by Congress.

"Congress," Mr. Hughes emphasized, cannot delegate to the President the right to do whatever he thinks desirable.

SNUB FOR CHAVEZ AIMED HIGHER UP

Walking Out On New Mexico Senator Was Defiance of Roosevelt

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

Washington, May 27.—The Progressives who ostentatiously got up and left the senate chamber recently when Dennis Chavez appeared, to be sworn in, as the late Senator Bronson Cutting's successor, did more than administer a mortal snub to the new senator from the southwest. They strongly implied a gesture of defiance in President Roosevelt's direction.

In fact, Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska did more than imply. He unmistakably explained his gesture as expressing resentment at the White House tenant's treatment of Senator Cutting, referring to it as "the worst example of ingratitude in American political history."

To recall the circumstances: Senator Cutting (New Mexico Progressive Republican) ardently supported the then Governor Roosevelt for the presidency in 1932, on the ground that, though a Democrat, he, too, was a Progressive. Subsequently he voted on Capitol Hill for all essential Rooseveltian policies except the bonus issue. Either because of this exception or for some other reason, the Democratic national machine made a conspicuously bitter fight for Chavez, as a Democrat, against Cutting, when Cutting was a candidate for re-election in 1934. Whether or not it was presidentially ordered, Progressives take the position that the President must have acquiesced in it. Cutting winning by a narrow margin. Chavez lodged a contest (described by Senator Hiram W. Johnson of California as "utterly unjustified"), which was still pending when Cutting was killed in an airplane crash, where upon Gov. Clyde Tingley of New Mexico (a Rooseveltian Democrat) appointed Chavez to succeed him, serving until next year's election.

LEGITIMATE APPOINTMENT
It was a perfectly legitimate appointment—technically.

Nevertheless, the preceding sequence of events had been such that the Progressives are furious.

This doesn't mean Republican Progressives alone; it means all Progressives.

It isn't their only present grievance, either.

To a man, they are pro-bonus-ites—and the President vetoed the bonus. They are outraged by the revelation of near-slavery conditions in shrew-cropperdom—abuses which evidently have been enormously aggravated by the AAA regime.

And President Roosevelt's schedule of wages for work relief—down to $19 a month—scandalize them.

In short, they think he is swinging to the right almost incredibly.

Thus the Progressive boycott of Senator Chavez's swearing-in was more of a warning to the executive mansion than of a slap at Senator Chavez—who, after all, isn't of much immediate consequence, except as his lone vote may count, out of 96, on approximately half a dozen of pending measures.

'Kerchief Might Be From Boy

The boy would have followed if he had decided to take a short cut to his home.

Efforts were being made to find some member of the Weyerhaeuser family to say whether the handkerchief belonged to the boy.

Scars on the smooth bark and a broken branch of a tree about six feet away from the handkerchief suggested the possibility that the kidnapers had used the tree to raise himself above a tall hedge to watch for the lad.

CHIEF LANGSTON TO BRING BACK KILLER

Chief of Police J. H. Langston will leave tonight for New York to bring back Robert Bullock Negro who was arrested there at the request of Henderson officers for the killing of Pinkie Winfield, a Negro, in the vicinity of the Vance county jail last October.

The chief said, before leaving, that he had received a "tip" that Bullock was in New York, and had sent a warrant for his arrest there last week.

House Committee Favors Extension NRA Two Years

approved today, would:

1. Extend the NRA until June 16, 1937.

2. Forbid price fixing, except for natural resource industries.

3. Permit application of codes to business "substantially affecting" interstate commerce as well as those actually engaged in interstate commerce.

4. Give the recovery unit and the President 90 days in which to revise existing codes.

There was apparent a general expectation among committee members that the court decision would be returned today.
