SEARCHING PARTY SAYS DESTRUCTION GREATEST ON KEYS

War Veterans' Construction Camp In Far Southern Peninsula Is Greatest Sufferer

STORM IS HEADED BACK TO MAINLAND

High Tide Forecast At Cedar Key, and Hurricane Force Will Not Diminish Much Until the Blow Moves Inland and Will Likely Strike Well Up In Georgia

Miami, Fla., Sept. 4.—(AP)—The destruction of war veterans' construction camps on the Florida keys, some of them struck by high walls of water rolling in from raging seas, brought today rapidly increasing fears of a terrific death toll from the hurricane roaring over the gulf area.

A searching party from Miami reported by radio, to the Red Cross an estimated loss of life between 400 and 500.

The devastation was heaviest in the camp of the veterans engaged in building a highway on the keys to Key West.

One of these camps was completely demolished. Another was a mass of wreckage. A rescue train sent down the keys Monday to bring back the veterans was reported wrecked.

This information came from a coast guard plane which surveyed the area early today.

Gordon E. Dunn, government meteorologist at Jacksonville, said at 10 a. m., the tropical hurricane, now in the Gulf of Mexico, probably will hit Cedar Key in a short time and may be followed by "a fairly high tide."

The storm, he said, still is of full hurricane intensity (more than 75 miles an hour winds), but probably will start diminishing in intensity as soon as it crosses the coast line into the Florida mainland.

He said the storm likely "will be attended shifting gales far up into Georgia."

A message from St. Petersburg, the first since the storm swerved up the west Florida coast, said the tide was
