

Stiff Scrimmage Preps Bulldogs For Oxford Game

Team Fired With Plenty Pep And Enthusiasm For Important Grid Game

Crosby Stressing Passing; Heavy Scrimmage Session Set for Today

With the entire pack fired with enthusiasm and determination, Coach Crosby sent his Bulldogs from Henderson high school through a heavy scrimmage session at League Park this afternoon, the last heavy work before they meet their ancient rival, Oxford, Friday afternoon 1:30 o'clock on the home grid.

While the second stringers were down at Norlina yesterday losing 19-7 in a nice game for them, the mentor had his regulars going through their paces on the essentials of the game and particular stress was laid on a pass offense, something the team has lacked all the season.

Today's drills will see them second stringers pitted against the regulars in a lengthy session, and a pass defense will be the order of the day.

The count in games in the won and lost columns between the schools is about the same, and regardless of the season's record thus far, the winner of this game regards the season a success.

Oxford has not been enjoying the best of luck on the grid this season. They got their first taste of victory last Friday by beating Cary high. They have struck some heavy opponents during their campaign, being outed by Raleigh high early in the season.

The Bulldogs are expected to live up to their past, being at their best in the game with Oxford, and plenty of support is expected from the student body as well as fans in the city.

ANDERSON DRILLS FOR PASS DEFENSE

Expect Spiders To Use Aerials Against State Saturday

College Station, Raleigh, Nov. 13—Anderson is drilling the Techs of North Carolina State on pass defense this week as he figures the Spiders of Richmond University may try passes frequently Saturday at Richmond since no team has been able to make any consistent gains through State's forwards this year.

State's defense last week against V. P. I. passes was just as good as its defense against running plays. The Gobblers attempted 13 passes, completed two for 17 yards, had three intercepted, and saw the others broken up by alert State players led by Steve Sabol, the Tech great center. Sabol intercepted one and broke up three others.

All Titles At Stake In Duke-N.C. Game Saturday

Durham, Nov. 13—With one exception, every possible championship angle a game in this section could have will be up when Duke and North Carolina stage their annual classic of classics in Duke Stadium Saturday.

The only way there could be more at stake in this game would be for Duke to be, like the Tar Heels, undefeated. But Georgia Tech and Auburn both downed the Blue Devils and that dream did not materialize this year although it looked for a while as if it might.

The football faithful in this section have waited a long time for both teams to enter the classic with clean records and it seems that the day is getting closer and closer.

In 1933, Duke was undefeated for the clash but the Tar Heels had lost several games at that time. This year, the Tar Heels are undefeated and the Blue Devils have had a good season despite their two reverses.

In making comparisons about the game, no one is denying that Duke has a good football team. They had a slump against Tech and Auburn got the only break of the game to defeat them. It is thought that Duke would be able to hold its own against any team in the south with the exception of the team it is facing this Saturday.

Many Duke followers and fans who have no feeling one way or the other about the situation will frankly admit that this 1935 Carolina team is one of the greatest they have ever seen. They are alert, powerful and smooth. They have the ideal situation of having a powerful line and a powerful driving fullback in Jim Hutchins, who, if the defense is set to stop, probably the nation's greatest passing attack, can smash through the line and gain the ground necessary to carry them on.

It is a great team Duke is facing Saturday. They are thought to be able, and may, roll up a big score on the Blue Devils and it will not be due to any lack of fight from the

Henderson Bullpups Lose To Norlina High By 19-7

Billy Alston Takes Pass for Touchdown and for Extra Point for Henderson; Mentor Pleased With Showing Boys Made Against Strong Norlina Team

Manager Thomas Rideout took the Henderson High Bullpups to Norlina yesterday afternoon while Coach Crosby remained at home with his regulars, drilling for Oxford, and the Pups lost to the Warren county team 19 to 7 in a pretty game.

The showing the subs made against Norlina's first stringers was very gratifying to the mentor.

Henderson rolled up three first downs to five for the winners. They completed four of six passes, one good for a touchdown, while Norlina could only connect two out of five.

Norlina made her touchdowns in the first, second and fourth quarters. Billy Alston, Henderson right end, took a pass for the counter and another for the extra point to account for the Bullpups scoring.

The team turned in a great defensive game, all of the locals playing a fine game for their first regulation contest.

The lineups:

Henderson	Norlina
LE Goodrich	Hecht
LT Cooper	P. Duke
LG Pinnell	B. Rose
RG Rideout	Harrison
RT Cooper	O. T. Rose
QB Alston	E. Brown
QB Beckham	Burton
RHB Dunn	A. Hayes
LHB Cochill	Daeke
FB Calloway	John Lee
Substitutions: Henderson, Dennis, S. Cooper and L. Neilson.

FEW ONE-SIDED GAMES IN DUKE-N. C. SERIES

Durham, Nov. 13—There have been few one-sided scores in the history of football games between Duke and North Carolina. In 1925, the Tar Heels won, 41-0, and in 1929, they belted the Blue Devils, 48-7. Since that 48-7 spree the games have gone thusly: 1930 and 1931, Duke 0, Carolina 0; 1932, Duke, 7, Carolina 0; 1933, Duke 21, Carolina 0; 1934, Duke 6, Carolina 7. Duke entered the 1935 game highly favored to trounce the Tar Heels but Coach Wallace Wade sent in his reserves after the first team had scored three touchdowns.

SPORTS WRITER TO SPEAK AT N. C. C. W.

Greensboro, Nov. 13—John R. Tunis nationally known sportswriter, will be guest speaker at a conference of athletic association for high school girls and their coaches which will be held at the Woman's College of the University of North Carolina Saturday, November 16.

Miss Christiana McFadyen, of Rafter, a senior at the Woman's College, is president of the Athletic Association there.

Coach Wade of Duke, who rarely commits himself about an opponent before playing them, believes the Tar Heels have one of the greatest teams in the history of the South.

SIT DOWN, MY FRIEND, AND TRY IT"

Yes, I'm of the old school... I probably made whiskey for your father, your grandfather and perhaps for your great grandfather. There are few of us left now of my age who are back in harness. But here I am, past 80 years old offering you a finer whiskey than you've ever tasted priced at about a dollar a pint.

It's my own Private Blend... I'm proud to have it bear my name. Try it, my friend, and discover its goodness. I think you'll say, "This is the product of a pastmaster... a distiller of the old school." Go to your nearest dealer and ask for Kessler's Private Blend. I promise you it is all I claim for it... a really good whiskey at a low price.
