THE FIRST EASTER

Luke 24: 1-12.

1 Now upon the first day of the week, very early in the morning, they came unto the sepulchre, bringing the spices which they had prepared, and certain others with them.

2 And they found the stone rolled away from the sepulchre.

3 And they entered in, and found not the body of the Lord Jesus.

4 And it came to pass, as they were much perplexed thereabout, behold, two men stood by them in shining garments:

5 And as they were afraid, and bowed down their faces to the earth, they said unto them, Why seek ye the living among the dead?

6 He is not here, but is risen: remember how he spake unto you when he was yet in Galilee.

7 Saying, The Son of man must be delivered into the hands of sinful men, and be crucified, and the third day rise again.

8 And they remembered his words.

9 And returned from the sepulchre, and told all these things unto the eleven, and to all the rest.

10 It was Mary Magdalene, and Joanna, and Mary the mother of James, which told these things unto the apostles.

11 And their words seemed to them as idle tales, and they believed them not.

12 Then arose Peter, and ran unto the sepulchre; and stooping down, he beheld the linen clothes laid by themselves, and departed, wondering in himself at that which was come to pass.

TODAY'S YESTERDAYS

April 11, 1713—A 63-year-old bishop (of the Church of England), John Robinson, 63, made the most important treaty in British history. He represented Britain at the Congress of Utrecht and secured as spoils of the war of the Spanish Succession, Hudson's Bay territory, Nova Scotia, Newfoundland and Gibraltar. The latter was what was important, for it gave Britain command of the Mediterranean and was the rock on which was founded Britain's naval and colonial supremacy.

April 11, 1783—Elias Boudinot, of New Jersey, as president of Continental Congress, proclaimed the cessation of war with Great Britain. Actually, no treaty had been completed. The war's end was announced prematurely to placate Washington's army, which was on the verge of revolt.

April 11, 1794—Edward Everett was born in Dorchester, Mass. The great oration he made at the dedication of Gettysburg is lost sight of because of Lincoln's, though he had a gift for turning phrases, too. An indignant Bostonian, a member of the Everett congregation, rushed to him for advice when the Bostonian became the subject of a vicious political attack which one newspaper reported in full. Should he demand a retraction and apology?

Everett said: "Do nothing! Half the people who read that paper never saw the article. Half of those who did see it failed to read it. Half those who read it did not understand it. Half those who understood it did not believe it. Half those who believe it were of no consequence, anyway."

75 Years Ago Today—Maj. Gen. P. T. Beauregard demanded the surrender of Fort Sumter, S. C.—the first act of war in the War between the States.

SUNDAY IS THE DAY

Easter Sunday, April 12; Halifax Resolutions Day in North Carolina. Zodiac sign: Aries. Birthstone: diamond, moon; first quarter Tuesday.

SUNDAY'S YESTERDAYS

The date of Easter is so variable—as early as March 22, as late as April 25—because in medieval times the devout needed moonlight to travel to the great annual Easter festivities. In those days Lent was only 40 hours.

It was in those days, too, that what is perhaps the most enduringly popular Easter hymn, "The Day of Resurrection," was written. It had its own burial and resurrection! It lay in the tomb of obscurity for centuries after it was written by St. John of Damascus.

What Do You Know About North Carolina?

By FRED H. MAY

- 1. What is the responsibility of a county for damages in the case of a lynching?
2. How many terms in congress has Major A. L. Bulwinkle served?
3. Under what circumstances may a state engage in actual warfare?
4. What was Governor Russell's reply to the criticism that he had appointed large numbers of Negroes to State offices?
5. Under what conditions are beds required to be two feet apart?
6. How may a citizen of North Carolina change his name?

ANSWERS

- 1. In case of danger of a lynching it is the duty of the sheriff to call on one or more of the county commissioners for guards for the jail. If the commissioners refuse to authorize the guards and the jail is entered and the prisoners killed then the county is responsible in damages to be recovered by the personal representative of the prisoner thus killed. These provisions are contained in an act of 1893.
2. Major Bulwinkle was elected to the Sixty-seventh congress which convened April 11, 1921, and was reelected to the next three terms. In 1929 he lost to Charles A. Jonas, of Lincoln, Republican, who was elected to the Seventy-first congress. Major Bulwinkle was successful again in the race for the Seventy-second, Seventy-third and the present congress, making seven terms.
3. Article 1, section 10, clause 3, of the Constitution of the United States provides that a state may engage in actual warfare, without the consent of Congress, only when actually invaded or in such imminent danger as will not admit of delay.
4. In his message to the legislature of 1899 he said, "I have appointed in two years to civil offices eight hundred and eighteen persons, of whom not more than eight were colored.
5. The legislature of 1921 adopted a public health measure requiring all beds in inns and hotels to be placed at least two feet apart, for the better circulation of air. Each bed must have 500 cubic feet of air space. Doubtless this is the act Ripley is said to have referred to a few weeks ago when it was claimed he stated that North Carolina had a law requiring twin beds to be two feet apart.
6. Through application to the clerk of superior court of his own county. First he has to publish notice of his intention at the court house for ten days prior to making application. The applicant must state his true name, the name he wishes it changed to, give the reasons, and show that his name has never been changed before. He must show good character by two or more persons. No person may change his name more than once.

mascus as part of an 8th century canon for Easter. The manuscript was not discovered until less than 100 years ago, but today it stands out among the world's 200,000 generally used hymns.

April 12, 1692—Guiseppe Tartini was born in Pirano, Italy, where he became the inventor of the modern violin bow and the greatest violinist of his time. He composed the Trillo del Diavolo, the Devil's Sonata, for which he is remembered today, in his sleep! He dreamed of a man playing a violin, playing "a sonata of such exquisite beauty as surpassed the boldest flights of my imagination." Awakening, he wrote down the music.

April 12, 1853—Wireless was born. Over and through water at Dundee, Scotland, James Bowman Lindsay demonstrated the feasibility of wireless communications between British and United States. Even Guglielmo Marconi acknowledges Lindsay as wireless' neglected father. But Lindsay, a Scottish schoolmaster who also devised an electric light 25 years before Edison and composed a dictionary in 107 languages, starved to death. The British War Office decided that because it had the semaphore system, it didn't need another communications system like wireless!

FIRST WORLD WAR DAY-BY-DAY

April 11-12, 1918.—The first complete division of New Zealand troops arrived in France, stiffening the morale of the British divisions, which had been shaken by the stalemate they had found in Flanders, and the Irish troubles. It was the longest distance any colonial troops had ever traveled to the defense of the empire, and New Zealanders had already showed themselves among the most redoubtable fighters in the world in the futile Dardanelles campaign.

IT'S TRUE

Roast skunk. Fried devil fish. Roast dog. Broiled snails. Broiled honey ants. Fried locusts. Cat kidneys. Minced crow pie. All these are eaten regularly by some of the world's human inhabitants. When burglars broke into a dog's home in Chicago and stole $200, the 300 canine inmates slept right through the raid.

Baldness is not a sign of mental power. There are just as many baldheads among the inmates of insane asylums as elsewhere.

It would take, each second, all the electricity contained in five ordinary bolts of lightning, to make your morning slice of toast!

H. N. Holmes, Erwin, Tenn., disagrees with our statement that there is no proof that criminality is inborn or inherited. He tells of 35 so-called criminals in one Tennessee family in a pamphlet he has published. But this circumstance might be due to environment rather than to inheritance.

ELECTRICITY'S USE IS BEING TAUGHT

Schools for Rural Customers Being Held in Parts of State

Daily Dispatch Bureau, In The Sir Walter Hotel, By J. P. BASHFORD

Raleigh, April 11—Schools for the users of electricity from rural electric lines either built or under construction, are being held in a number of counties in order to acquaint the people on these lines with the most economical methods of wiring their homes and farms so they will get maximum efficiency from the current used. These schools are being held under the direction of Mrs. J. M. McKimmon, chief of the home demonstration division of the Extension Service of State College, who is also a member of the North Carolina Rural Electrification Authority, with the assistance of others in the extension service and the authority.

The first of these schools for rural electricity users or prospective users, was held in Nashville, the county seat of Nash county, this week, and the second is scheduled to be held in Currituck county next week, on a date to be announced within a few days. Wide publicity is given to the schools in advance by the farm agents and extension workers and all the people in the county interested in electrification are invited and urged to attend the meetings, which last all day.

The principal subject discussed in these schools at the present time is proper wiring for homes and farms, together with an explanation of the best types of wiring, switches, fuse boxes, transformers, and so forth, in an effort to show these prospective users of electricity that it is cheaper in the end to install standard wiring and accessories. It is being pointed out that if the wiring is not properly installed and fails to pass inspection by fire underwriters, that their insurance rates may be increased. The point is stressed that standard wiring by approved contractors is the safest and the cheapest in the long run.

In addition to the various talks by the different ones assisting Mrs. McKimmon in these schools, a large number of panels and exhibits showing wiring homes and had methods of wiring homes, also meters, fuse boxes, switches of various types, conduit and different sizes of wire, are displayed so that those present may see and understand just what is being discussed.
