

HENDERSON WHIPS MIDDLEBURG, 10-9

Inscoe Gets Victory Despite Constant Bobbling Afield by Mates

Henderson high school rang down the curtain on a successful baseball season yesterday afternoon at League Park, whipping the strong Middleburg high school team 10 to 9 with Claiborne Inscoe pitching the victory.

Henderson errors flew thick and fast during the contest, the locals miscuing eight times to keep pitcher Inscoe in trouble much of the time.

Middleburg got off to an early lead scoring five runs in the second inning that seemed to assure them of victory.

Henderson unlimbered their heavy artillery in the third and fourth innings, scoring five runs in the two frames to add to their two in the first inning to pull ahead of the visitors, and were never headed again.

Turner and Coghill showed the way for Henderson batters, each getting three hits. Edwards got two hits, so did Inscoe, to aid in the scoring.

Henderson lost two games to Roanoke Rapids, one to Middleburg and Roxboro, and won the remainder of their games to bring a fine season to a close. The boys had to overcome many obstacles to have a team, but they displayed a fine fighting spirit that carried them to their victories.

Graduation will take seven of the first nine players this spring.

May Hurl Tomorrow

Carolina's only senior pitcher, Latch Webster, will likely see action in the Carolina-Duke varsity game Wednesday at Chapel Hill. This will not only be the final Big Five game of the season but also Webster's last game of his college career. This game will start at 4 o'clock. It is likely that Webster will be given a chance in his last college game. He will either start on the mound or will be called on for relief duties for either Humphries or Wright. Webster, a lanky right hander who has also earned his monogram as a basketball player, is from Leaksville.

VA-CAROLINA LOOP OPENS ON MAY 27

Full Schedule Be Released Tomorrow; Henderson Plays Oxford Opener

Ed Powell, manager of the Henderson Tobaccoists, local entry in the Virginia-Carolina baseball league, attended a meeting in South Hill, Va., last night at which time a schedule for the year was drawn up, showing a total of 30 games to be played during the split season, the first one May 27 and the closing game September 9.

The schedule calls for a split season, the first half ending July 15, the winners of the first and second halves playing for the league title.

Opening day will find Oxford at Henderson, Clover at Clarksville, and South Hill at Townsville.

Powell asks the support of fans in this section, saying that his team will present a fast brand of baseball, one that will be well worth seeing.

The entire schedule of play will be released tomorrow for publication, according to Skipper Powell.

HOG CHOLERA SCARE PROVES FALSE ONE

Winton, May 19.—A reported outbreak of hog cholera in Hertford county had Negro farmers greatly excited.

But W. C. Davenport, colored farm agent of the State College extension service, examined the hogs and rendered a verdict of "worms."

The farmers, still somewhat doubtful and uneasy, dosed their infected hogs according to Davenport's instructions. In a few days all were well.

Worms often cause hogs to act as though they had cholera, Davenport stated, thus causing needless scares.

utility companies that PWA was seeking to seize illegal control of intrastate power production.

The private power companies are asking an injunction to block PWA allotments for ten municipal power projects scattered through four states.

Ickes told the court he exercised the sole power in regard to PWA policies.

He defined the purpose of PWA as "fundamentally to put as many men to work as possible; secondarily, to stimulate the demand for goods of all sorts, and to aid in the economic recovery of the nation."

Ickes denied contentions of the power companies that he had delegated his authority to subordinates and had used PWA funds to dominate local power rates.

Experts Say Health Better During The Summer Season

If for no other reason, summer will be most welcomed this year for the better chances it will bring for escaping illness and living more healthful and happy lives. Last winter was hard on health. According to the vital statistics reports issued each month by the State Board of Health, deaths from diseases that are more prevalent in winter or are aggravated by cold weather conditions have been many more this year than last. Especially has this been true in the case of influenza, pneumonia, and tuberculosis. The report for April just issued shows 59 more deaths from influenza, 93 from pneumonia and 26 from tuberculosis than for the same month last year.

Generally speaking, summer is more healthful than winter, and it can be made entirely so, by taking certain precautions against the usual summer diseases. Unlike most winter diseases, which are largely affected by the severity of the weather, and about which there seems to be little one can do for his protection against them, diseases of hot weather can be guarded against and summer made a healthful, happy season for all.

Babies and young children as a rule find summer less safe from a health point of view than older people. But with a little foresight, energy and more applied health information, summer can be made as safe for babies as for older groups. Flies and mosquitoes can be kept under control, or at least kept from the baby, and the most careful attention given to his food and water supply, even to the extent of boiling the water he drinks.

Typhoid fever, which is more prevalent in summer than in winter, can be ruled out altogether by vaccination. The spring or early summer is the best time to take this immunizing treatment that one may have this safely not only during the remainder of the summer but for several years to come.

Malaria is another summer disease but one more difficult to handle than typhoid. The carrier of the infection, the Anopheles mosquito, is a perennial problem, and yet no vaccine has been discovered to set up immunity against the disease. Screening, draining, oiling and filling in swampy places are advocated as control measures against the mosquito, and treatment of the disease under the direction of a physician is persistently urged.
