May 23, 1805-Napoleon Bonaparte, a small town Italian boy who made good in the biggest French city, made himself king of Italy by placing the 13 century-old iron crown of Lombardy upon his head and declaring, "God has given it to me, let him beware who would touch it!" You know what happened to Bonaparte.

May 23, 1823—"Home, Sweet Home," perhaps the most enduringly popular American song, was first heard publicly in London, as part of an opera written by an Englishman! It was sung by Anna Maria Tree when the opera "Clari, Maid of Milan," had its initial performance. Ironically, the composer of Home, Sweet Home, Sir Henry Bishop, is as little known today a sthe opera, for John Howard Payne, the librettist, is usually given all of the credit for the song.

May 23, 1825-Rev. Mason Locke died at 66, having established an enduring reputation by creating a fictitious George Washington who overshadows the Washington portrayal by factual historians. This parson who gave Washington his fame as a truth teller, was himself an unconscionable liar! For instance, he repeatedly described himself as the "former rector of George Washington's parish," which he never was; and he invented the cherry tree story.

However, Brannon said, little red ants will not always take the above poison. For them he recommended: one pint of water, one pound of sugar, three ounces of honey, 27 grains of thallium sulfate, and 15 grains of tartaric acid. Boil the mixture, stir vigorously, then cool.

Thallium sulfate is a dangerous poison, Brannon warned, and should be handled with great caution.

SAFETY CAMPAIGN SOON FOR DURHAM

City Manager Hopes To Give City One of Best Traffic Records in the Country

Daily Dispatch Bureau, In The Sir Walter Hotel, By J. C. BASKERVILL

Raleigh, May 23-The city of Durham is planning to get the jump on all the other cities in the State in the matter of highway safety and is now making preparations to adopt a safety program which will make it the safest city in the State as far as automobile accidents and accidents to pedestrians are concerned, it was an-nounced today by Director Arthur:

Slain by Classmate

Robert Paul Henneberry Robert Paul Henneberry, 18-yearold student at Williams college, Williamstown, Mass., and son of a Chicago manufacturer, was shot and killed by a classmate as he entered the latter's dormitory room. The classmate, Lewis Jack Somers, 19-year-old freshman and wrestler on the school's team, wounded another student and then committed suicide. A fit of temporary insanity brought on by overstudy was given as the reason for the shootings.

"If the safety measures and regulations which we discussed are put into effect in Durham, as Yancey and Croom indicated, it should lead the State in the reduction of street and highway accidents within the next few months," Fulk said. "We are hoping that other cities will also become as interested as has Durham in traffic accident prevention and adopt similar programs. This division as well as the National Safety Council will give them the same assistance and cooperation as we are now trying to give Durham." A big step toward making the
