ANNOUNCEMENT

CONTEMPLATION.

I shall see birches quickening
To silver in the sun,
And casting fleeting shadows
When the day is done.
There will be nights of silence,
Or from a distant hill,
The melancholy echo
Of a whippoorwill.

And there will be the sunrise,
Each morning; and at noon
The breathless, gliding splendor
Of the deep lagoon.
But will it be, I wonder,
As desolate and wild,
As closely swathed in solitude
As when I was a child?

REVIVE ASHEVILLE FESTIVAL OF MUSIC

Aid of WPA Promised for Three-Day Program June 8-10, With Classical Features

Daily Dispatch Bureau, Asheville, N. C., May 23.—The annual music festival, for years a feature of the spring season in Asheville, and which attracted attention throughout the State, will be revived in June with the assistance of the WPA, the North Carolina Symphony Orchestra and Asheville musician, it was announced here today by Fred Cohn, assistant administrator of the Works Progress Administration in North Carolina.

The first concert of the festival will be on Monday, June 8, by the North Carolina Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Joseph DeNardo. The concert will continue through Wednesday, June 10, when the Asheville Festival Chorus, assisted by the symphony orchestra, will present Gault's famous oratorio, "The Holy City."

Tuesday night, June 6, the music festival attraction will be the presentation of Gilbert and Sullivan's tuneful operetta, "The Mikado," with Asheville singers comprising both the chorus and principals.

"It is a pleasure for us to be able to announce the resumption of the Asheville Music Festival, with all North Carolina talent, so that the long record of musical achievement in Asheville can continue," Mr. Cohn said. "For a number of years the Asheville Music Festival became one of the best known in the South and attracted visitors from far and wide. On several occasions it was assisted by members of the Philadelphia Symphony orchestra and by famous artists."

"In reviving the festival this year, only local singers will be heard, assisted by the North Carolina Symphony Orchestra, and all-North Carolina organization, which has been stationed in Asheville for several months. We are confident that the festival is going to be most worth while and that it will attract a great deal of attention."

The Asheville Recreation Council, Little Theater and the various WPA sewing teams have been cooperating with the directors of the music project in the presentation and costuming of the operetta which will be presented Tuesday night, June 9.

Pulitzer Prize Books Now At The Library

Each Spring when the Pulitzer Awards are made there is a great deal of discussion as to the merit of the books receiving the awards. The books which received these awards are at the H. Leslie Perry Memorial Library and patrons may read for themselves the books which won the prizes.

"Honey in the Horn" by H. L. Davis is a vigorous story of the pioneer days in Oregon. This is the first novel by this author.

The poetry award went to Robert P. Tristram Coffin for his volume of poems called "Strange Holiness." Mr. Coffin is well known for his novels and has written other volumes of poetry before this one which won for him the poetry award.

At a time when the constitutionality of every important issue before congress is questioned and so much emphasis is placed on the constitution it is significant that the history award went to Andrew C. McLaughlin for his "A Constitutional History of the United States."

There is always a controversy over the drama award. This year "Ibid's Delight" by Robert E. Sherwood was the play chosen. Mr. Sherwood was America's most adept and accomplished playwright has written an excellent anti-war drama.

Aside from the Pulitzer prize books there are other outstanding additions to the shelf of new books. "America strikes Back" by Gustavus Myers is a book about America in relation to the rest of the world. This was a gift of the Chemical Foundation.

Another gift to the library is Arthur Pound's "Industrial America: Its Way of Work and Thought." This contribution from Atlantic Monthly press is a readable history of the outstanding industries in the United States.

"The Next Hundred Years" by C. C. Furnas is a provocative survey of the fields of scientific endeavor. It is concerned primarily with what science hopes to do rather than what it has done.

A plea for peace or an indictment of war is H. M. Tomlinson's "Mars His Idiot." This is the second volume in the list of new books about war with the word idiot in the title.

"Beyond Sing the Woods" by Trygve Gulbransen is a story of Norwegian woodfolk covering a period of about fifty years.

A book of unusual richness and charm is Richard Blaker's "Here Lies a Most Beautiful Lady."

Romance, crime and hidden treasure are featured in Cecil Roberts' "Volcano." Daphne du Maurier's "Jamaica Inn" is another romantic adventure story.

Family life of the Hazeldines as seen through the eyes of the old gardener who worked for this English family on Saturdays is pleasantly revealed in "Saturday at Hazeldines" by Vera Wheatley.

A short novelette which brings to mind familiar songs, fads and events of the past ten years is Richard Sherman's "To Mary With Love."

Among the new mystery and detective stories are Frederick Nebel's "Fifty Roads To Town," H. Ashbrooks' "A Most Immoral Murder" and "Miss Mystery" by Sydney Horler.

"The Bright Hill, by Clarissa Cushman and "Coming Round the Mountain" by Barbara Webb are two light romances.

Miss Everett Improved
Miss Martha Everett, daughter of Mrs. W. B. Parham, of this city, is improving at University hospital in Philadelphia, following an illness of pneumonia.

"Activity" Reception For High School Had

Several hundred students, faculty members, school board officials and P-T. A. ladies attended the annual Activity Reception given at West End Country Club last night by the High School Parent-Teacher Association in honor of the extra-curricular activities of the school. Work of the various organizations during the year was presented in one form or another, and at the close refreshments were served.

Mrs. G. W. Knott, president of the P-T. A., welcomed the students and guests, after which a program of stunts was presented with Prof. W. D. Payne, principal of the high school as master of ceremonies.

Jimmy Cooper spoke for the journalism club, sponsored by Miss Shannon Morton, of the faculty, who was presented a gift by Miss Josephine Martin. The activity of public speaking, sponsored by Prof. Payne, was presented in a recitation by Miss Rowena Daniel, and Miss Frances Harrison was presented in two vocal numbers as representative of the glee club. She was accompanied by her brother, George Harrison. An impromptu selection was given at the piano by "Hunk" Coghill. Miss Ann Buchan gave a guitar and vocal number as representative of the mixed chorus. Gifts were presented by Miss Anne Watson to W. B. Harrison and Miss Maxine Taylor, sponsors of the two music groups, and gifts to both were presented by Mr. Payne on behalf of the P-T. A.

During the evening several selections were given by the high school orchestra, and Paul Patterson, member of the orchestra, presented a gift to F. E. Miller, director, and Miss Jessie Roth Stewart one to Mr. Denholm, business manager, while Miss Annie Hyman Bunn received a gift to Miss Iris Dickerson from the orchestra as she has been accompanist.

The athletic groups came in for their share of the program, with Miss Cordle and Prof. J. M. Pigford as sponsors of the girls' basketball, while Miss Nell Rowland presented a gift to Prof. Pigford and Miss Dorothy Stainback a gift to Miss Cordle. Boys' athletics activities were represented by Prof. Fallwell as sponsor. Football and basketball were mentioned by Prof. Payne, together also with the golf and tennis teams.

A stunt by the dramatic club was given with Miss Carolyn Duke reciting "Don't Cry, Little Girl," while several girls appeared in pantomime. A gift was presented by Council Pinnell to Mrs. Pigford, sponsor of the club. "Who's Who of Henderson High School" was a stunt given with the room darkened and a large spotlight thrown on outstanding students. Mr. Payne presented the Beta club work, a scholarship group. After a science club stunt, Miss Ruby King presented a gift to Prof. Fallwell, the sponsor.

In presenting the journalism club, Jimmy Cooper had the lights turned off and threw the spotlight on each member as he introduced them.

Miss Nell Rowland reported on the girls' basketball season and the stars were presented and letters presented by Prof. Pigford. In telling of boys athletics in general, Prof. Fallwell called the boys to the front and told of their individual work and presented letters.

In serving punch and wafers during the social hour, those in charge were Mesdames R. S. Johnson, Henry R. Mangum, R. F. Thompson, M. C. Miles and Joel T. Cheatham.

Members of the city school board and their wives were guests of the P-T. A. for the evening.

Dancing followed at the conclusion of the program.

Officers Elected By Teachers Group

The Classroom Teacher Organization held its final meeting in the Leslie Perry Library Thursday evening.

In the business session yearly reports from all the standing committees were read and accepted. The slate of officers for the coming year was elected as follows: Miss Beulah Thomas, president; Miss Mariel Gary, vice president; Miss Garnette Myers, secretary; and Miss Elizabeth Fox, treasurer. New members of the executive board were Mrs. R. J. Jones, Mrs. F. M. Barnhardt, and Mrs. C. M. Cooper.

A social committee was appointed to plan a social gathering for next fall.

Following the business, Miss Elizabeth Graham, who had charge of the program, had members read a statement made by local legislative candidates regarding their stand on education.

The meeting was adjourned until the fall session.
