INSPECTORS FOR TOBACCO WANTED

Civil Service Commission Outlines Duties and Pay for New Officers

While up to the present time compulsory grading of tobacco has not been inaugurated on any North Carolina tobacco market, so far as has been learned here, the United States Civil Service Commission is arranging for examinations for prospective graders. This leads to the speculation that referenda may shortly be undertaken in certain markets to determine the wishes of the growers patronizing the markets.

The examinations announced provide for "associate tobacco inspector" at a minimum salary of $3,200 per year; "assistant tobacco inspector," minimum salary of $2,500 per year, and an examination for "junior tobacco inspector," with a salary of $1,400 during a training period and $2,000 per annum after passing a practical test in tobacco grading. Applications must be on file with the commission in Washington not later than June 4, the announcement says, adding that full information may be obtained at any first class or second class post office or at the Civil Service Commission.

Appointments to be made under these examinations, it is stated, will be in the tobacco section, Bureau of Agricultural Economics, Department of Agriculture, and for the administration of the tobacco inspection act passed last year by Congress.

Appointees to the positions of associate and assistant inspectors will be selected for their demonstrated ability as judges of tobacco and will undergo a course of training in the United States standard tobacco grades. They will be required to pass practical tests before being entrusted with the inspection of tobacco on auction floors.

The position of junior inspector is rated as an apprenticeship. Preliminary to appointment in this grade, candidates who qualify in the civil service will be eligible for appointment as trainees at a salary of $1,400 per annum. In this capacity, they will perform various duties of such a nature if they have natural aptitude for tobacco work they may be given suitable training for inspection work. Those who are able later to pass a practical test will be eligible for appointment as junior inspectors at $2,000 per annum and may be retained for further training.

The bureau plans to expand its service on auction markets only as it can obtain or develop men competent to do the work, the announcement said. The demand for tobacco inspection and tobacco market news service is expected to increase rapidly as a result of the enactment of legislation at the last session of Congress, it is stated.

As a result of referendums among tobacco growers held under the provisions of the act, all fire-cured and two dark air-cured tobacco markets in Virginia, Kentucky and Tennessee have elected to have the service, says the announcement, adding that referendums will be held in other tobacco growing districts. Less than five percent of the votes cast in referendum to date have been unfavorable to the tobacco inspection service, says the bulletin of the commission.

STABLE BURNS AND LIVESTOCK IS LOST

Stable of H. V. Faulkner, route 1, Henderson, on the S. R. Harris plantation east of the city, burned last night, cremating two mules and killing a cow nearby as well as burning a quantity of feed stuff, some 30 barrels of corn, and farm implements, it was learned here today.

There was no one at home at the time of the fire, all of the family were attending commencement exercises at Acock school, and when they returned home about 10 o'clock, they found the stable had burned.

The cow, who was tied to a stake near the barn, was killed by the heat of the fire.

Mr. Faulkner was at loss to explain the cause of the fire.

ROSE EXPANSION IS BEING PRESSED ON

Two More Stores To Open In 30 Days; Many Others Remodeled

Rose's 5-10-25¢ Stores, operating in five southern states and with home offices here, where the chain was founded, is pushing its program of expansion, and by the end of the year expects to reach the total number of 100 stores. With the recent opening of stores in Mount Olive and Winder, Ga., a total of 91 stores are now operating in North Carolina, Virginia, South Carolina, Tennessee and Georgia.

A building is being remodeled at Belhaven and one is under construction at Maryville at Tenn., for new stores, which will open in the next 30 days. Properties have just been leased at Rutherfordton and Forest City, N. C., and Lebanon, Tenn., the first two to open around July 1 and the other August 1. These additions will make a total of 96.

Another building has recently been leased at Dunn, this one adjoining the present store, and when occupied will give the store 50 percent more sales space. The company expects to round out its full 100 stores by the early or mid-fall season. It is the largest chain of its kind operating exclusively in the South. Virtually the entire business is owned by Henderson people, headed by P. H. Rose, the founder and its president.

SAMPLES OF MILK MINUTELY TESTED

Analytical Report Given by Dr. Mitchell of Three Dairies Here

An analytical report on milk samples collected from dairies serving Henderson was announced today by Dr. Z. P. Mitchell, health officer. The sample was taken on May 18 from three dairies, all rated as Grade A.

Brookside Dairy, known as the Nelson dairy, showed a bacterial count of 211,000 per cubic centimeter, with butter fat and cream content of 3.7 percent. Pineview, or Hawkins dairy, showed a bacterial count of 67,500 per cubic centimeter, and butter fat or cream content of 4.1 percent. Pine State, or Southern Ice Cream Company's sample showed a bacterial count of 27,500 per cubic centimeter, and a butter fat cream content of 4.1 percent.

Dr. Mitchell explained that Grade "A" raw milk is milk for which the average bacteria count over a given period of time does not exceed 50,000 per cubic centimeter, each unit containing 15 drops. Among other requirements are that the temperature must not be above 50 degrees Fahrenheit prior to delivery, and the butter fat and cream content must be at least 3.25 percent.

The health office added this: "All cows must be tested for tuberculosis, and the entire herd was found free from this disease. This is the disease among milk cows that may cause undulant fever among those who drink the milk. This is the only herd in Vance county tested for the latter disease."

REGISTRATION FOR ELECTION IS ENDED

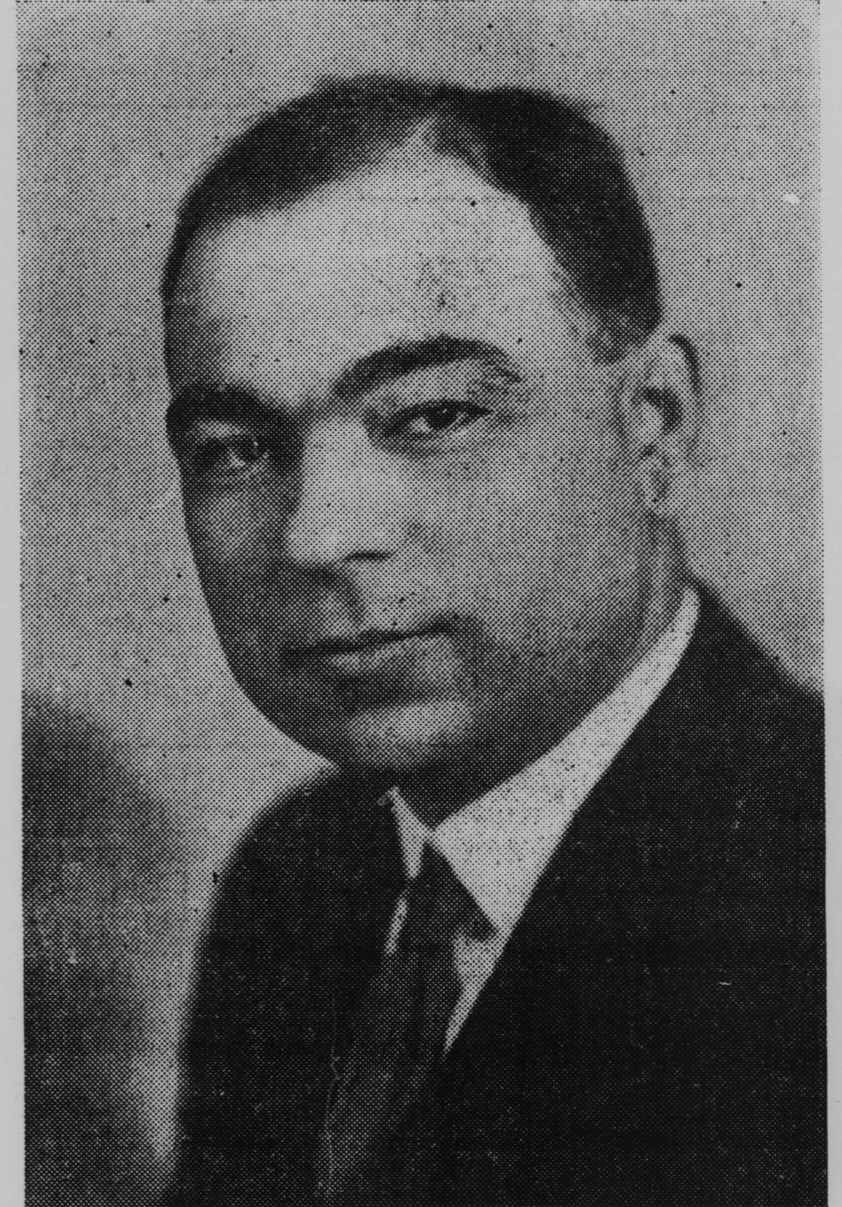

Many Names Added on Final Day Books Are Open for the Voters

Registration for the June 6 Democratic primary was ended today as books closed with many names added to the rosters for the coming battle of the ballots.

Registrars were at the polling places throughout the county to put names on the records of those who came to qualify.

On next Saturday the books will be open for challenges and a week thereafter the election will be held. Candidates were much interested today in getting voters qualified to cast ballots for their particular interests, and the lively contests being carried on assure what is expected to be perhaps the biggest vote ever cast in the county.

For The State Senate

In The Service Of The People

In becoming a candidate for the State Senate in the Democratic primary of Saturday, June 6, I do so in the desire to go to the legislature to serve to the best of my ability the people of Vance and Warren counties and the State.

I have never voted except in Vance county, having lived here virtually ever since becoming of voting age, and during that 21 years have never voted anything but the Democratic ticket for all offices, from President down to constable.

I think I know something of the struggle of most people for a livelihood, having been born of humble parentage and reared in an orphanage, and then working my way through college. Hard work has been my lot through these years, more than 21 of which have been spent in this county and among the people of this community.

In my connection with your local daily newspaper all of this time, I have always worked for the progress and advancement of this city, county and section, and have ever sought to be fair and square in my dealings with every one. And that would be my policy in the legislature.

It is easy to think up numerous questions that may face the 1937 General Assembly and to undertake to state one's views about them. Many of them would soon be forgotten if that were done.

Two of the big issues that now appear certain to claim a great deal of attention in the legislature next year are the sales tax and the problem of handling liquor.

I am uncompromisingly in favor of taking the sales tax off all the principal articles of food and removing all of it from every other commodity or article if possible to do so.

I am in favor of keeping liquor control and liquor revenue at home. I am opposed to State control of liquor stores and against the State taking any part of the revenue from county ABC stores.

No man can say definitely eight months before the legislature meets exactly what that body will be called upon to do in every case, nor the form in which the issues will present themselves. But on all these questions it will be my purpose to support or oppose them in the degree of their benefits toward the welfare and the good of the people of this district and of the State.

If you send me to the State Senate, I pledge my honest and conscientious efforts to serve your best interests in every way possible. I reiterate that I am not the tool or ally of any interest or organization or individual, have no ax to grind and no pet hobbies or measures to try to enact into law for the benefit of a favored few.

If you think I am the kind of a citizen you would like to send to the legislature, I ask and will appreciate your vote and your support.

HENRY A. DENNIS
