

Golden Belt Fair To Open In 2 Weeks

Elaborate Exhibits and Good Midway Promised by Management This Year

Final preparations are being made for the annual Golden Belt Fair, which opens two weeks from today, C. M. Hight, the secretary stated today. Workmen will be placed on the scene shortly to clear off the grounds in readiness for the arrival of the amusement enterprises and the setting up of exhibits by farmers and others who will compete for the large list of prizes to be offered.

The Midway will offer the best and finest attractions in years, including the free acts, Mr. Hight said. The Cotlin & Wilson organization will again furnish the shows, rides and concessions along this avenue of fun and frolic for those seeking a pastime while at the fair.

With hundreds of dollars more in premiums offered to exhibitors, it is expected there will be displays of quality and volume not equalled in recent seasons.

The fair will go modern and will emphasize exhibits containing a lesson in soil erosion prevention and in soil conservation, in keeping with State and Federal programs.

Mr. Hight expects all exhibit space to be taken this time and indications are that it will be engaged well in advance of the opening.

The date for the fair this year, which is its twentieth, is the week of October 19-23.

INSURANCE SUITS HAVE BEEN ENDED

Agreement Out of Court Reached in Death of Late N. R. White

A settlement out of court has been reached in suits against the New York Life Insurance Company, growing out of claims after the death of the late N. R. White, who died in the early summer, it was learned today at the office of E. O. Falkner, clerk of superior court.

The New York Life was defendant in two actions, in one of which Mrs. Moss E. White, the widow, and the First National Bank in Henderson were plaintiffs, and in the other of which Mrs. White alone was the plaintiff. The policies were for $3,000 each, but each carried the double indemnity clause for accidental death, which was alleged in the suits.

Settlement in each case was for $3,000.95. It had been understood at one time the suits would be transferred to Federal court, but necessity for this was avoided when the settlement was reached out of court.

modernize them—all it can do will be to patch them from year to year with maintenance funds. Many of these roads have already been patched, so much that there are more patches than original road.

Two Sides To It. A few people object to the bond issue plan on the grounds that the State should not issue any more road bonds until all the present ones are retired, Johnson said. But he pointed out that with an investment of $300,000,000 in highways, the State could well afford to issue $25,000,000 in bonds to keep them modern and preserve its original investment, just as a factory owner frequently has to issue new bonds to provide new and modern machinery before he can finish paying for his plant.

"There is no doubt that many people are interested in the plan," Johnson said.

help the county roads just as much as it would help the State highway system, since it would make available millions of dollars a year of maintenance funds now being used to patch old and worn out State highways, for use on the county roads. Another argument in favor of the bond issue plan is that the State will never have enough current revenue to rebuild many of these roads and

EDUCATION BOARD IN ROUTINE MEET

School Bus Crowding Declared Due to Scarcity of Trucks Here

A routine meeting of the Vance County Board of Education was held today, with only routine matters receiving attention, it was stated.

After the meeting, Chairman J. C. Cooper explained that the stir over the crowding of school buses at the Townsville school grew out of a shortage of bus equipment and an unexpected increase in enrollment at Townsville this year. A year ago the Board of Education advised the State School Commission that the 27 buses allotted this county were insufficient for the needs after the commission had ordered the reduction of trucks from 35. The commission was invited to send a representative here to make an inspection, and also to allot at least two more buses to the county, but no relief was granted.

The difficulty that has arisen is through no fault of the county board, it was stated.

"NELL GWYN" A GAY COLORFUL ROMANCE

Of the many historical romances which have lately been transferred to the screen, "Nell Gwyn," which comes to the Vance Theatre today and tomorrow with the lovely Anna Neagle playing the "pretty, witty Nell" and Sir Cedric Harwicke, the Bishop of "Les Miserables," as her royal lover Charles II, stands out as the most colorful and entertaining.

Handsomely mounted and superbly directed by the producer, Herbert Wilcox, "Nell Gwyn" lifts the gaudier and gayer incidents of Nell's career bodily from the pages of the matchless Diary of that arch-gossip, Samuel Pepys. A hint of how faithfully the film follows the facts is contained in the screen title which credits the dialogue to "Charles II, Samuel Pepys Nell Gwyn and Miles Malleon," the last-named being the scenarist who welded the incidents together.

Queen," comes into her own as the lovable, boisterous little orange vendor who, by her beauty, audacity and with won and held that royal flirt, King Charles, and Sir Cedric Harwicke's portrayal of the "merry monarch" is a magnificent and human characterization which surpasses even his superb work in "Les Miserables."

The story begins with the King's attendance at the Old Drury Lane theatre where "sweet Nell" is performing. Nell captivates him completely and the story follows the romance through to the King's untimely death.
