RECIPE.
(New England Memory—)
Here is a potion for enchantment; A wooded mile under the lifting trees, A spicy smell to make the nostrils tingle, Balsam and cedar and a salty breeze.
Throw in a curl of birch bark, and the chilly Flavors of moss on lichen stone, and season
With a cluster of scarlet bunchberries like holly, Making a Christmas gesture out of reason.
Lastly, a cabin clinging to a bluff, Hale and secure above a singing river And here's a dish with potency enough To nourish the hungriest memory forever!

Host to Friends
On 16th Birthday

Mae Arle Crews celebrated his sixteenth birthday on Friday by entertaining a number of friends at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs.
Claude Crews.
About forty-five boys and girls enjoyed the hosts hospitality. Many games and stunts were played and prizes were awarded to the lucky winners of contests.

At ten o'clock the guests were invited into the dining room, which was softly lighted by candles, and decorated with a profusion of fall flowers in pastel shades. In the center of the table was a large birthday cake, beautifully decorated in pink and green, and sixteen candles. The fresh-ments consisted of ice cream and cake, served in pink, green, and white water lilies.

Bridgers' Booths
In Formal Opening

Formal opening of Bridgers Beauty Booths was held last evening with a large number calling to inspect the new establishment on Garnett street, across from the Purd service station, many coming from Oxford, where Mrs. Nellie Daniel Bridgers, proprietor, is well known, having operated a similar establishment there.

The new beauty salon offers a most attractive appearance, and was well received by those who called.
During the evening, punch, wafers and mints were served.
Beauty work was awarded to the lucky persons attending the opening and the following were winners, Mrs.
C. O. King, permanent wave; Mrs.
Maurice Hicks, $2.50 pack; Mrs.
George Allen, $2.50 hair treatment; Mrs. H. W. Whitmore, $1 facial; Mrs.

Townsville Garden
Club Met Thursday

The Townsville Garden Club had its regular monthly meeting in the home of Miss Lizzie Taylor, Thursday afternoon, at 3:30 o'clock. Miss Taylor's home was beautifully decorated in fall flowers grown in her garden.
Mrs. E. F. Fox, president, presided.
After the devotionals, the minutes of the last meeting were read and the club song, "Rose of the Shawns" was sung.

The club members were delighted to know Mrs. Totten, State president of Garden Clubs, would be present at the next meeting and anticipate much pleasure at having her. The date for the Fall Flower Show was set for October 15, at Gupton's store in Townsville.

Mrs. W. B. Tarry, gave a vocal solo, "Marigolds" by Gustav Kellam, after which a contest on the leaves of trees was very much enjoyed. The prize was won by Mrs. E. B. Taylor.
Miss Taylor, assisted by Mrs. J. H.
Thomas and Mrs. E. B. Taylor, served a delicious salad course followed by a sweet course.

Missionary Group
Of White Memorial
Met Last Friday

The Woman's Missionary Society of White Memorial Methodist church, met at the home of Mrs. Clyde In-scoe on Lehman street Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock, with ten members and two visitors present.
Mrs. Henry Tucker presided over the meeting, which was opened with a prayer. The business session was then held. After the roll call and reading of minutes, plans for Rally Day exercises at the church November 8, also the mission study class and week of prayer observance in November were discussed. It was decided to sponsor a Hallowe'en party at the Community House for the benefit of the church also to sell Christmas cards during the next two months.
Several subscriptions were secured for the "World Outlook." The social service reports concluded the business half hour.

A brief devotional was conducted by the president. The program of study for the evening was a review of the work accomplished through various councils in Mexico, Brazil, China and Africa. At the close of the program and as a special feature a spiritual life group was organized.
After the meeting adjourned the usual social half-hour was enjoyed.

Mrs. Cooper Presides
At Exercises Monday

Mrs. Sydney P. Cooper presided at the unveiling of a memorial marker near South Boston, Va., Monday, under auspices of the United Daughters of 1812, and later in the day was present at conferences of members and leaders of the same organization in Durham.

The memorial marker was unveiled at noon at the grave of Notley Jordan an 1812 soldier, who is buried a short distance from South Boston on the Jordan plantation. Notley Jordan was the father of Mrs. Bettie Jordan Elliott, of Greensboro, and described as a "real daughter of 1812." James Samuel Jordan, a son, lives at the old homeplace, and the exercises were held in the family cemetery there.

Man Crouches In Church On Sunday
To Hear Preacher

A story that tugged at the heartstrings of those who heard it was told by a man who last Sunday slipped into the rear of the balcony of the First Methodist church and crouched out of sight through the services in order to hear the sermon.
Rev. R. E. Brown, pastor of the church, told the story today.

The man, whose name was not learned, was a Canadian by birth and residence, and was hitch-hiking to Texas. He walked into the front door and asked an usher if he might have a place somewhere in the church to listen in. He refused to go into the main auditorium and went up into the balcony and crouched as far back as he could. After the services, the pastor, who had observed the man as he entered, went to the balcony, introduced himself and offered to be of any service he could.

"Oh, no," said the man. "I just wanted to go to church; I was hungry to hear a sermon; and now I feel better, much better." He unfolded a story of sadness. He said it was one year to the day that his wife and baby were killed in an automobile accident. He had a picture of the family of three, indicating that he had seen better days.
Since then, however, he had wandered the country because he couldn't anchor anywhere, was restless and still grieving over his loss. He said he used to be a Christian and a church member. Offered a meal, he declined, and also refused money, paraded across the stage, bearing numbers, and the out of town judges picked them by numbers, eliminating the group to five from which they picked the three winners.

Miss Harrison, singing popular songs was picked to represent Henderson in the State amateur contest in the eliminations last night.
It was announced at last night's pageant that beauty winners from various cities in North Carolina, together with winners of various amateur contests held throughout the State would compete here October 26 and 27 for State honors, the most beautiful young lady being crowned "Miss North Carolina" and given a screen test, and the amateurs will compete for State honors also.

though the preacher slipped a greenback into his pockets. He wore clothes that bore the signs of the wear and tear of the highway. The man, apparently about 23 years of age, said he was waiting until every one left the church so he could get out without being noticed and be on his way.
He was just hungry to hear again the gospel story, and was grateful for the opportunity, and was cheered by the message he heard as he crouched out of sight high in the rear of the church balcony, he told the minister.
