1937 CHEVROLET HERE TOMORROW

New Models Will Be On Display Here At Show-room of Local Dealer

Henderson and vicinity will get their first view, tomorrow of the new 1937 Chevrolet. It will go on public display at the Scoggin Chevrolet Co., at 8:00 a. m., immediately after the breakfast which Mr. Scoggin is holding in honor of his organization.

The breakfast is one of some 10,000 similar affairs being held throughout the country just before the new models go on view. It was arranged in acknowledgment of the unusual cooperation displayed by Chevrolet dealer employees this past year. Their emphasis on owner satisfaction, Mr.

Scoggin asserted, has been an important factor, not only in the year's sales record, but in the unparalleled bank of advance orders received for 1937 models. An exceptionally large bank of such orders is on file this year, he said, as a result of the public's experience with the 1936 Chevrolet.

Immediately after the breakfast, the salesroom will be thrown open, and an open house atmosphere will prevail all day. Cars will be delivered to purchasers in the rotation in which the orders are received, Mr. Scoggin said, adding that production in the 10 Chevrolet assembly plants is now going on at a rate which assures prompt delivery on all orders.

Reece Hight was brought into court on a capias under a judgment in a non support case of October 12, and was given two weeks to pay costs.

and North Carolina, who with 7,000 others from all sections of the United States, will move into Detroit by special trains this week-end for a two-day gathering at the Ford Motor Company's factory, the first assembly of its kind in the history of the Ford organization, for an display of the forthcoming year's models of the Ford V-8. They will be guests of the Ford Motor Company while in Detroit.

Wives and members of the families will travel with the Ford dealers in this spectacular gathering at Detroit, which will last through Friday and Saturday, bringing every dealer in the country into personal contact with Henry Ford, creator of the gigantic industry that bears his name, and Edsel Ford, his son, who is President of The Ford Motor Company.

The high note of Friday's Program will be the first view of the 1937 model of the Ford V-8. The dealers and their guests will be taken through the Rouge and Linden plants of the Ford Motor Company for their first view of the car that will be offered to the public shortly.

This is the first time that Ford dealers have gathered at Detroit for an inspection of a new model. In the past the custom has been to assemble the dealers at the branch headquarters in the region where they operate, but this year the Ford Motor Company has had them assemble at Detroit where Mr. Ford can deliver personally a message that will outline his views on the business that is gathering top-notch speed. Outstanding in the ceremonies Friday, the opening day of the meeting, will be the presentation to Henry Ford of a huge old Cape Cod windmill, the gift of all the dealers in the United States.

The windmill has been standing on Cape Cod for generations but is still in an excellent state of preservation. It has been placed in Greenfield Village, the small city of original American builders and homes that Henry Ford has bought and assembled as a means of preserving living chapters out of old American history. The purchase, dismantling, moving and reconstruction of the old windmill was made possible by contributions from the dealers and it will be an engaging addition to the scenes in Greenfield Village.

Psychological research reveals that every impression however slight is recorded with infallible accuracy in the depths of the subconscious mind.
