Guilty! Edith Sobs—Her Hopes Crushed

Edith Maxwell sobs on shoulder of brother Earl in courtroom

Guilty, votes the jury! It is too much for Edith Maxwell, 22-year-old girl, convicted once more of the "curfew" slaying of her father and Edith sobs on the shoulder of her brother Earl in the courtroom at Wise, Va. It was Edith's second trial and she had hoped for vindication. Instead, the main jurors voted for conviction on second degree murder and Edith was sentenced to 20 years in prison. Edith, out on $15,000 bail, will ask for a third trial and a change of venue. She already has spent 14 months in jail. Club women all over America protested her first conviction.
