WINTER SONG.

Winter is best on a hill
At night when the brittle air is still
When taut and glassy branches mark
Luminous patterns on the dark.
And the stars are sharp and chill.

No winter is best in town,—
When towers pierce the dusk with a crown
Of lights and shop-windows glow
again
Like jewels on a frosty chain
Strung up the street and down.

Or is it best by the white
And frozen lake, when on the sight
These breaks at sunrise all the clear
Glitter of fire and ice? Or here
At the hearth, in candlelight?
Anita Laure Cushing.

Indications Are For A Successful Christmas Dance At Club Dec. 30

All indications point to a most successful dance at West End Country Club Wednesday evening when that social organization presents its annual Christmas dance for its membership and their guests.
Chairman Sam Alford, who is in charge of the arrangements, and his committee have mapped out plans that call for an outstanding event.
Chairman Alford has already contracted with Dan Gregory and his orchestra. Gregory and his band played here during the past summer for the annual June Cotillion of the club.

and he was most pleasing. The announcement that this popular band will furnish the syncopation did much to enliven the interest in the forthcoming affair.
Club members are expected to invite a large number of guests for the event, and the college set is in the city for the holidays, this being expected to almost double the attendance. This young group always adds a touch of gaiety to the festivities.
It is the plans of the dance committee to have refreshments available for those attending at the intermission hour.

Christmas Decorations Judged Last Saturday

Many Henderson homes were admired Saturday evening by the out-of-town judges, who were here to select the winners of prizes offered by the Henderson Garden Club for the best Christmas decorations.
Mrs. W. B. Daniel, Jr., on the Oxford Road was awarded the prize for the most beautifully decorated large house and Mrs. Walter Alston, on Chestnut street, for the best decorated small house. Both houses manifested the taste and originality with which they were decorated.
Especially attention was given this year to the decoration of doorways and the prizes were awarded to Mrs. D. Boyd Kimball, on West Garnett street for the large house, and Mrs. Edward Loughlin, on Jennette avenue for the small house.
Mrs. R. E. Clements, of Burwell avenue, was voted as having the prettiest tree.

The homes of members of the Garden Club were not eligible for prizes but honorable mention was given the lovely garden of Mrs. Kate Watkins, on Winder street, and the doorway of Mrs. Ralph Bruin, on Chestnut street, which was decorated to represent a Christmas package. Another attractive scene was the English house of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Finch, on Gholson avenue. Many others admired the porch and doorway of Mrs. Bennett Perry on Church street.
Every year since the outdoor Christmas decorations have become so popular, the Garden Club has increased the enthusiasm of home owners by offering prizes for the best decorations and this year more homes than ever before were beautifully decorated

Four Generations of Roosevelts Together for Holidays

Four generations of Roosevelts pose

Four generations of Roosevelts gather in Washington for the holidays and are seen in front of the White House. Two of President Roosevelt's children, Franklin D. Jr., convalescing in a Boston hospital, and Mrs. John Boettiger, in Seattle, were unable to be with the family over the Christmas week-end. The children, front, left to right, are Curtis (Buzzie) Dall and Eleanor (Sistie) Dall, son and daughter of Mrs. Boettiger; Ruth Chandler Roosevelt, daughter of Elliott, and Sara, daughter of James. Behind them, left to right, are John, Mrs. Franklin D., Mrs. J. R. Roosevelt, a sister-in-law of the president; the president, Elliott and his wife, James, Mrs. Sara Delano Roosevelt, the president's mother, and Mrs. James Roosevelt. Mrs. Roosevelt later went to Franklin's bedside in Boston.—Central Press.

Annie L. Rowland Weds Mr. Edwards

On December 25, at six-thirty o'clock in the evening, the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Rowland of the Bobbitt Community was the scene of a simple, but beautiful and impressive ceremony when their only daughter, Annie Laurie, became the bride of Talmadge Hight Edwards, of Raleigh.
The home was beautifully decorated with green pine and tall white candles, the only lights used throughout the ceremony being the soft glow from white candles. The bride and groom entered the living room unattended and the wedding vows were spoken before an improvised altar, in the presence of only the immediate families and a few close friends of the young couple. Rev. B. O. Merritt, pastor of the bride, officiated, using the ring ceremony of the Methodist church.
The bride, a very attractive blonde, was attired in a medium blue suit with navy accessories and wore a shoulder corsage of Talisman roses and lilies of the valley.
Immediately following the ceremony the young couple left for a wedding trip to points unknown. After January 1, they will be at home to their friends at 109 Seawall Avenue, Raleigh.
The bride is the attractive daughter of Mrs. and Mrs. B. L. Rowland, of the Bobbitt community. She received her education at Epsom high school, where she was salutatorian of her class. Since that time she has taken a business course. She was very active in the social and church work of the community and her sunny disposition and pleasing personality have won for her many friends.
The groom is the son of T. W. Edwards, of Franklin county. He received his education at Epsom high school, and now holds a position with the Raleigh Linen Supply company of Raleigh.
After the ceremony the bride's mother served sandwiches and coffee to those present.

Formal Garden of Mrs. Kate Watkins Is Complimented

Christmas decorations were much more in evidence and on a more elaborate scale this year than ever before in Henderson, but not any were more impressive than the formal garden of Mrs. Kate Watkins on Winder street with its originality in lighting and the natural beauty of the garden.
Varied colored spot lights shed a beautiful glow over the greens and on two very attractively decorated Christmas trees, while a large flood light shed a soft light over much of the garden. In the far recesses of the garden gleamed three electric stars. They were so ingeniously arranged that they appeared to be anchored in the firmament. In addition to the lovely lighting effects erected by Mrs. Watkins, nature added its bit to the beautiful scene Saturday night by turning the full glow of a beautiful moon.
Many people viewed the garden and all were impressed with its sheer, natural beauty of it, as well as the decorative art of Mrs. Watkins.
Mrs. Watkins has been an active member of the Henderson Garden Club for some years, and her garden was not in competition for the prizes offered by that club for the best decorations in the various classifications at Christmastide.

Christmas Program At Spring Valley

A Christmas program will be presented at Spring Valley Methodist Protestant church this evening at 7:30 o'clock, it was announced today, and the public is cordially invited to attend.
