Sale Is Light But Average Exceptionally Good For Day's Offerings

Tobacco sold on the Henderson market Monday set the highest daily average for any day on the local market since Mcnday, November 16, it was revealed in official figures announced today, showing 164,278, pounds disposed of for $39,224.38 for of $24.12 per hundred an average

Tobacco men say the weed is in good demand, that bidding is brisk and that prices are following a trend in keeping with that situation.

Monday's offerings here were smaller on account of the very bad weather over the week-end, which tended to keep growers away. The ferings were light.

Sales on Monday brought season totals within striking distance of the years. 21,000,000-pound mark, with a certainty now that the season total will reach and exceed that figure.
