

Flood Fund Here $814, Exceeding Doubled Quota

Spontaneous Outpouring Of Funds For Relief Is Greatest Since Wartime

Stream of Donations Almost Swamps Red Cross Officials; Money Is Given Almost Without Any Active Solicitation Being Carried On Anywhere

With probably the most generous outpouring of funds for a disaster at any time since the days of the World War, Henderson this afternoon far over-subscribed its doubled quota of money for the American Red Cross flood relief work in the Ohio and Mississippi valley regions, with reported cash contributions of $884.34. More money was being received hourly by the several agencies serving in the capacity of handling the funds, and it appeared certain that the total would go probably beyond the $1,000 figure tomorrow, and possibly even today.

And the response that has come has been almost entirely spontaneous. The double quota was more than realized even before the local campaign could be organized and gotten under way. Indeed, no active canvass has been at all. The magnitude and the seriousness of 600,000 persons homeless in what has been described as the greatest flood disaster in American history so impressed itself upon the people generally, that they have given out of a heartfelt desire to render some service, however small.

Mrs. Henry T. Morris, chairman of the Henderson chapter of the Red Cross, was asked in a telegram from Admiral Cary T. Grayson, in Washington, chairman of the national Red Cross, for a quota of $400. Today another telegram came asking for double that amount, or $800. The doubled quota was over-subscribed simultaneously with receipt of the telegram asking for the increased contribution.

Mrs. Morris said she had never seen people so willing to help in a real way. She had been literally swamped with cash donations, she said.

The same was virtually true as to Roy O. Rodwell, treasurer of the local chapter. At the Daily Dispatch, which is also serving as a receiving station for donations, there was a stream of contributions during the morning and on into the afternoon. All funds received were turned into the proper channels.

Mrs. Morris said that those desiring to give after office hours of those named could leave their contributions at Woolard's drug store. Coin boxes have been placed in several other drug stores also for the convenience of those desiring to help.

The local chapter made it plain that the magnitude of the disaster was growing hourly, and that the fact that the quota had been over-subscribed did not mean that additional funds were not needed. It is possible that a still further call may come from Red Cross headquarters in Washington.

The newest appeal from Admiral Grayson came to Mrs. Morris today as follows:

"Because relief needs in flooded areas of Ohio and Mississippi valleys, increasing every hour as continued rains send rivers to highest levels in history, with more than four hundred thousand persons driven from homes, urge you double your relief fund quota and go as far beyond the doubled figure as possible. We are contributing million dollars from national funds. Three hundred Red Cross relief workers now in disaster areas giving immediate emergency relief to flood refugees. Three hundred fifty Red Cross nurses in field engaged in battle against feared epidemic. Food, clothing, bedding, medical supplies being rushed by train, truck and auto. Rescues work continues at top speed. Please intensify your campaign efforts and keep me advised daily of amount raised. Feel confident your people will not fail in this great national emergency."

Henderson Tobacco Mart Will Close Season Here Upon Friday, February 5

The Henderson tobacco market will close for the season on Friday of next week, February 5, it was announced today by Wilson T. Smith, secretary of the Henderson Tobacco Board of Trade, following a further meeting of the board at which time a definite decision was reached.

Durham has announced it will close on that date, and it is understood Oxford will also. Announcement was carried in the Daily Dispatch Monday that the local market, together with Oxford, would close this Friday, January 29. A well known warehouseman advised twice during the afternoon that that date had been agreed on. Later in the day another tobacco man protested that the date had been set, and said the tobacco board had not even had a regularly constituted meeting at the time.

The conclusion that resulted was cleared up today, however, with a definite decision to close on February 5.

VANCE COUNTY YET WITHOUT CORONER

A. P. Paschall Duly Elected But Has Not Posted Bond or Taken Oath

Vance county appeared today to be without a coroner and to have been without one since early in December when all county officers chosen during the November general election were to take their oaths.

A. P. Paschall was elected coroner in November, after winning the Democratic nomination the run-off primary last July 4, but as far as was learned today, he has never qualified for the post.

County Attorney B. H. Perry was questioned concerning the matter, and he stated that he had never approved a bond for Mr. Paschall, and that one had not been presented him for his approval. The coroner must furnish a bond, and this must be passed on by the board of County Commissioners. The commissioners usually refer bonds to Mr. Perry.

Chairman S. M. Watkins, of the board, stated that as far as he knew, no bond had been posted by Mr. Paschall. E. O. Falkner, clerk of Superior Court, said that bond for Mr. Paschall had not been filed in his office, and that he had not given Mr. Paschall his oath of office.

Although duly elected, it appeared today that Mr. Paschall is without authority to act as coroner of the county, pending the posting of the bond and the taking of the oath of office. He has investigated one case, the death of a small Negro child in the Mobile section since his election to the office, but no jury was empanelled, the death being termed accidental from shot gun wounds in the legs.

An apparent truth which few people ever learn is that there is no law in frowning.
