MARCH FLOWERS.

Spring must be here, for I have seen today
The first pale petals of a primrose glowing.
And as I passed along the garden path,
I found some violets growing.
In England, long ago, beneath the trees
We watched spring sunshine through the bare boughs streaming;
And in the leafy mould beside our feet
Flowers such as these were gleaming.

Gwen Castle.

GALLEONS.

When the sky is gray,
My little thoughts,
Contented, stay
All cozily at home
And intimate.
They warm themselves
Before the grate
When the sky is gray.
On a dappled day,
My errant thoughts
All sail away.
Borne by the bellied clouds
On sea-blue skies,
To ports where they roam free
In pirate guise
On a dappled day.
Caroline Jennings Kunkel.

Miss Bagwell Gets High Point Honor

High Point, March 20.—Miss Elizabeth Bagwell, of Henderson, was given a signal honor on the High Point college campus Friday morning when she was admitted into the Order of the Lighted Lamp, the college honor society.

Miss Bagwell is now a junior at the Methodist Protestant institution, and has taken an active part in the campus life since she enrolled here. She holds several important offices on the campus, and has maintained a high scholastic average during the past two and half years of work.

Qualifications for membership into the society, now composed of seven students, are based on character, scholarship, service, and leadership.

Aycock P.-T. A. In Its March Meeting

The Parent-Teacher Association of the Charles B. Aycock school held its monthly meeting Thursday evening, March 18.

An excellent program was given by the second and fourth grades under the direction of Mrs. W. C. Poe, and Miss Frances Crowder. Misses Annie Leigh Puckett and Margaret McLeod were in charge of the music.

The devotional was led by the second grades; followed by songs appropriate to the spring season. A playlet, "Peter Rabbit Helps the Children," featured the traditional Peter Rabbit, and the coming of flowers and springtime.

The fourth grade, in costume gave a Japanese Fan Dance, with songs depicting customs of the island.

A business session followed during which the pre-school clinic was discussed. Miss Jane Clayton was appointed chairman of the committee on making arrangements for this day. A nominating committee was named for the appointment of officers next year as follows: Mrs. J. G. Puckett, chairman; Mrs. O. W. Weldon; Mrs. Jim Robertson; and Miss Jane Clayton.

Prizes for attendance were won by Mrs. W. C. Poe in the Primary department, and Miss Ada Thompson in the high school.

A large membership was present during the evening.

Cokesbury News

By MRS. ERNEST GILL.

We wish to extend our sympathy to the Wortham family in the loss of their husband and brother, B. A. Wortham, who died Tuesday at his home after being sick only a few days and was buried at Cokesbury church

Wednesday at 3:30. A very, very large host of friends attended the funeral rites, showing in what high esteem Mr. Wortham was held by the public. The flowers were many and very beautiful.

We are very glad to report Mrs. Claude Harris was able to return to her home last Friday, after undergoing a very serious operation at Maria Parham hospital Thursday, February 18th.

Miss Leona Wortham is spending a few days with her girl friend, Miss Janie Yurghen in Raleigh.

Miss Elizabeth Kimball from Manson, spent the past week-end with her aunt, Mrs. Fort Smithwick and attended services at Cokesbury church Sunday.

Friends will be glad to know that Mr. and Mrs. Alec Buchanan are both very much improved, after being very sick at their home for several weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Vaughan were host and hostess at a miscellaneous shower given at their home last Fri-

Dr. Archibald Rutledge Lecture Club Speaker

Dr. Archibald Rutledge, of the English Department of Mercersburg Academy, of Mercersburg, Pa., nationally known poet, story writer, and student of nature, and a native of South Carolina, was presented by the Lecture Club last night at the Holy Innocents Parish House in one of the most outstanding and entertaining informal talks of the year.

Dr. Rutledge was born near McClellansville, S. C., on a plantation rich in historical background. Here he became a close observer of nature and studied closely the wild life that he loved, and made himself familiar with the habits of birds, deer, and other animals. He was taught literature by his mother and was equipped early to become a writer of poetry and prose.

The speaker said that intelligence was not the first factor in writing but a love for and faith in the things written about. He told many delightful tales of heroism of God's creatures one particularly interesting of a tiny hummingbird's courage. Other stories were concerned with alertness and keen instinct of animals. Dr. Rutledge said that people might learn many things from observing wild life, that he never saw an animal over-eat, over-sleep, over-drink, stay up late or sleep late, and that they were creatures of reason as well as instinct.

Dr. Rutledge also told amusing stories of the old colored people that took care of his South Carolina plantation and during the evening he paid tribute to the Coker family of Hartsville, S. C., with a beautiful poem. Mrs. L. L. Cannon, of this city, is a member of that family.

Mrs. J. Y. Paris, of the program committee of the Lecture Club, presided over the meeting and presented, B. H. Perry, who introduced Dr. Rutledge to the audience.

day night, for Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Buchanan, recent bride and groom.

The room was full of young people which enjoyed games for a while. Then the crowd was invited into the gift room where a table was piled high with lovely gifts for the honorees which they opened and displayed.

The hostess served a delicious fruit course, and about ten o'clock everybody departed for their homes, wishing the newly weds many happy days together.

Mrs. Lizzie Ellis is visiting her sister, Mrs. L. E. Gill. Willie Gray Powell, who spent the winter in the South, is at his home here for a while.

We are glad to report Mr. John Buchanan did not have to undergo an operation, but took treatment at Maria Parham hospital for a few days and returned to his home last Tuesday. He is improving, but still confined to his bed.

Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt Hicks had as their guests very recently, Mr. and
