TODAY'S YESTERDAYS

May 25, 1776—Congress authorized employment of Amerindians as scalpers of whites! The measure was a retaliatory act, for the British, who invented scalping, were stirring up tribes to use it against the revolting colonists.

We said here last week that Emerson was author of the phrase "If a man write a better book, preach a better sermon or make a better mouse trap than his neighbor, though he builds his house in the woods, the world will make a beaten track to his door." This no doubt was a surprise to some folk who believe Elbert Hubbard wrote everything he claimed in his books.

What Do You Know About North Carolina?

By FRED H. MAY

- 1. When was Woodrow Wilson a student at Davidson College?
2. What was the first victory for public education in North Carolina?
3. Why were the people of the Cape Fear counties exempt from taxes following the Revolutionary War?
4. In what direction does the State Capitol face?
5. What native of Guilford County became governor of the State of Tennessee?
6. At what age did Walter Clark become a lieutenant in the Southern army?

ANSWERS

- 1. Woodrow Wilson entered Davidson College in the fall of 1873. He remained in college until after the spring examinations but left before commencement because of illness. He did not return to college the next year but kept up his studies at home.
2. It was the following provision in the constitution of 1776 which said, "a school or schools shall be established by the legislature, for the convenient instruction of youth, with such salaries to the masters, paid by the public, as may enable them to instruct at low prices." The founding of the University was a partial happy fulfillment of the provisions of this article. No schools of lower learning were established.
3. Because of the destruction of the property in the section by the British soldiers and Tories. The British had held the port of Wilmington and Brunswick and aided by the Tories had ravaged the whole Cape Fear Section.
4. It faces east. The first Capitol building begun in 1792 fronted east, down New Bern Avenue. At that time the idea prevailed that important public buildings should face toward Jerusalem. The original building was burned in 1831 and the present building which replaced it also was built to face the east.
5. Newton Cannon, born in Guilford county in 1781 was governor of Tennessee from 1835 to 1840. His chosen state first sent him to congress in 1813 to 1817 and again from 1819 to 1825. He was appointed by President Monroe as one of the two commissioners to treat with the Chickasaw Indians.
6. At the age of 15 he was lieutenant and adjutant in the 35th North Carolina regiment, and was wounded at Sharpsburg. He resigned his commission and entered the University where he graduated in 1864. Returning to the army he was elected lieutenant colonel, being the youngest man to attain this rank in either army.

casualties, 43 were women and 23 were children. In numbers slain and maimed it was the greatest aerial raid over England since the war began.

This German raid on Dover and the recent British bombing attack on Zebrugge, in both of which scores of civilians died, recalled Mark Twain's satirical prayer for war:

"O Lord our God, help us to tear their soldiers to bloody shreds with our shells; help us to cover their smiling fields with the pale forms of their patriot dead; help us to drown the thunder of their guns with the shrieks of the wounded, writhing in pain; help us to lay waste their humble homes with a hurricane of fire; help us to wring the hearts of their unoffending widows with unavailing grief; help us to turn them out roofless with their children to wander unfriended through the wastes of their desolated land for our sakes, who adore Thee, Lord, blast their hopes, blight their lives, protract their bitter pilgrimage, making heavy their steps, water their way with their tears, stain the white snow with the blood of their wounded feet. We ask of one who is the Spirit of love and who is the ever-faithful refuge and friend of all that are sore beset, and seek His aid with humble and contrite hearts. Grant our prayer, O Lord, and thine shall be the praise and honor and glory now and ever. Amen."

On the 25th, President Wilson made William S. Sims a vice admiral, so that he would be on equal terms with Allied naval commanders abroad. After a pause necessitated by a shortage of ammunition, Italian troops resumed the offensive and drove back the entire Austro-Hungarian battle front on the Carso Plateau, bringing them within 16 miles of Trieste. In a two day thrust the Italians took 9,000 prisoners, including 300 officers, one town, one village and three hills of vital strategic importance near the Gulf of Trieste, location of the most important port and naval base of Austria on the Adriatic.

Twin Drive For Bilbao Will Start

trian neighbors struggled shoulder to shoulder. Several thousand troops recently called into action aided the Basque defenders. Basque commanders declared Gladacono perhaps the most strategic point on the iron semi-circle of fortifications protecting Bilbao from the north, east and south had been sufficiently weakened to bring Mola's warriors to a definite halt, but continued doggedly to delay this final test.

Sectors to the northeast of the embattled capital lapsed into relative quiet.

looking good. Bud worms did considerable damage around the first of May.

Likewise, many farmers replanted cotton because rains drowned out their first efforts. The second planting is up to a good stand, Blair added.

Much of the credit for the good stands may be traced to the treatment of the cotton seed with Ceresan, the agronomist declared. More farmers than ever before have treated their cotton seed this season.

Most tobacco which has been set out is thriving, but the farmer's chief problem this year has been the securing of sufficient plants due to the ravages of blue mold.

Small grains are unusually good, as are vetch, red and crimson clover, Blair stated.

Prison System Is At Stake in Fight

break up the present Statewide prison plan and break the system down into divisions, with the highway commissioner in each division the head of the prison camps in his division as well as of the roads.

For several years now there has been a growing animosity between the "old timers" in the prison system, consisting chiefly of those which were inherited from the old State Prison, regime, when George Ross Pou was superintendent, and the hold-overs from the old county prison camps, and the personnel added after the prison system was consolidated with the highway system.

Under the administration of former Governor J. C. B. Ehringhaus, first under Chairman E. B. Jeffress and then under Chairman Capus M. Wayne, an entirely new note in prison administration and management was introduced in North Carolina. The first was that the prisoners must work on the roads and help pay the cost of maintaining the prison. The second was that the prison system is for the benefit of the State and of the prisoners in it, rather than for those running it, that the prisoners were human beings and must be treated as such.

The new order and new ideas injected into the prison system were well received by the public generally and immediately resulted in improved morale among the prisoners, with prison disorders and escapes falling off to the lowest figures ever recorded. The guards and other prison employees who had been inherited from the old prison camps and State Prison who were able to fall in line and get in step with the new administration, stayed on. Those who did not were fired. A few who thought enough of their jobs to conform with the new plan of prison administration to carry out orders, even though they were not in sympathy and harmony with the new system, managed to hold on and are still holding on.

But this latter group, together with the scores, if not hundreds, of former prison guards and employees who had been fired and hence cut off the State's payroll, early joined forces with the contractors and others who were out to get Wayne's scalp—and who got it—in the hope that any change in the administration of the highway commission would be better for them than Wayne and Oscar Pitts, acting director of the prison division. A good many felt that since the General Assembly definitely put the highway commission back on a district basis, it would be easy for the commission to put the prison administration on a district basis also, and thus open the way for the county politicians in the districts to get their fingers in the prison pie, as well as in the highway docket.

But whether this faction gets away with its far-flung plans remains to be seen, as both Governor Hoey and the new highway commission have the final say-so. Governor Hoey has already stated that he wants the same policies to be continued in the management and administration of the prison system as have prevailed during the past four years and if he makes this clear to the new highway commission, it will have little choice. For its members were appointed by the governor. Yet it is known that some of the commissioners are in hearty accord with the suggestion that the prisons as well as the roads be administered on a district instead of a Statewide basis.

TRADE IS SKIMPY IN STOCK EXCHANGE

Market in Sound Technical Position But Traders Keep Mostly to Sidelines

New York, May 25.—(AP)—Traders had a slightly chilly attitude toward the stock market today, and shares were allowed to shift for themselves at limited losses. Trading continued skimpily. That the market was in comparatively sound technical position was shown, brokers said, by the fact offerings did not swell on the decline. In the bond market, United States government obligations and low-yield corporates found favor.
