It also will support the court's right to refuse reviews to many petitions. The report itself will be comparatively brief, but voluminous data including speeches by the President about the proposal and Chief Justice Hughes' letter to the committee.

Lansing, Mich., June 7 (AP)—Governor Frank Murphy today ordered a conference of labor leaders and county and city authorities to settle "a general labor holiday" of several thousand automobile workers to protest against arrest of pickets.

Murphy, arriving at the capital from Detroit, looked over the crowd amassed by the U. A. W. A. in downtown Lansing and asserted "the situation in Lansing must be cleared at once."

He said at first that he wanted to determine how eight persons, six men and two women, were arrested in the early morning hours by sheriff's officers on warrants charging them with interfering with operation of the Capital City Wrecking Company.

The general labor holiday was called today. Several thousand persons marched behind banners to the United Automobile Workers of America and blockaded a square surrounding Michigan's Capital building, protesting against arrest of the pickets.

LEWIS WANTS LABOR AND INDUSTRY TO SET SCALE OF WAGE

Washington, June 7.—(AP)—C. I. O. Chief John L. Lewis advised Congress today to let industry and labor work out their own wage problem except for their rock-bottom standards.

Appearing before a Senate-House committee studying the administration proposed wage and hour law, Lewis voiced grateful support of the measure, but objected to a provision by which the government could determine "the fair wages" in industry poorly organized for collective bargaining. He expressed fear that if such a clause were enacted there would be a drift "toward the fixing of small wages by the Federal government."

The labor chief suggested that the bill set minimum pay of 40 cents an hour for a 35-hour week. This would mean a rock bottom wage of $14 a week or $700 a year.

New Price Puts Precious Yellow Metal Up 9.8 Cents on London Market

EXPORTERS PROFITS ARE CUT HEAVILY

London Price of Metal Pegged at $34.72 Fine Ounce; New York Price is $35; Unprecedented Flow of Gold to U. S. Past Two Weeks

London, June 7.—(AP)—The price of bar gold was pegged at $34.72 a fine ounce on the London market today in an effort to stem the flow of the precious metal to the United States.

The new price is an advance of 9.8 cents to the ounce. The new price cut the profits exporters stood to make by gold shipments to the United States.

At today's price for the pound sterling, shippers of the yellow metal stood to profit about five cents an ounce, compared to about 14 cents Saturday.

The narrowing of the margin between the London price and the government fixed price of $35 in New York shipments left profits intended to encourage selling on the London market. London sales today were 2262 bars, valued at about $3,663,000 as compared with 465 bars valued at about $6,484,000 Saturday.

Bullion dealers explained that it costs about 23 cents an ounce to ship to New York at the $35 price, so that shippers must buy at $34.77 an ounce in order to make a profit.

What part the British equalization might have played in the move today was not disclosed. The bullion brokers, who fixed the price, said it was the result of a "smaller supply and increased demand."

For two weeks on an unprecedented total of $84,000,000 in gold has been sold on the London market giving rise to the fear that the strain would be too great for the governments of Great Britain and the United States to handle.

Whether or not the night shift, also employing 175, would walk out was not made clear.

H. B. Jennings, president of the mills, said it had been found necessary to adjust working conditions since the mill went on eight hours a day instead of 11 at the request of employees.

At St. Elizabeth's hospital, where the 11 injured were taken, attaches said there was an "undetermined number" of first aid cases.

Police said they were told the explosion took place in a gas separating unit.
