Insurgent Officers Report Anarchist Rebellion Against Loyalist Government; British Protest Follows Report From Its Consul At Algiers

London, Aug. 7.—(AP)—Great Britain sent a strong note today to Spanish insurgent authorities at Palma, Mallorca, protesting yesterday's "mystery" plane attacks on the tanker British Corporal.

The protest followed a report from the British consul general at Algiers that the machine gun and bomb attacks "probably" were executed by anti-government aircraft.

The monoplane of unidentified nationalities dove at the British Corporal in the Mediterranean, 30 miles northwest of Algiers, sprayed the decks with machine gun fire and dropped bombs close to the vessel.

FRANCO'S TERUEL LINES MIGHT BE PUSHED BACK Hendaye, Franco-Spanish Frontier, Aug. 7.—(AP)—Government forces in eastern Spain threatened today to push General Francisco Franco's Teruel salient back in its tracks, Madrid-Valencia commanders reported.

They said frontal and flank attacks by infantry and artillery from the south and west of one sector of the Teruel front had gouged insurgents out of newly-won territory southwest of Teruel, Franco's lower Aragon base.

An insurgent communique said the intelligence service had learned General Jose Miaja, now commander of the government's Madrid defense, junta, Madrid central front, was to assume command of the loyalist army on the Aragon front northeast of Madrid.

Meantime, Spanish insurgent army officers at Iruin declared they had rebelled at Albacete and other important Spanish government centers. The insurgents said former Premier Francisco Caballero, extreme socialist leader, reportedly headed the anarchist movement.

Compromise Court Bill, Omitting All Reference To Supreme Court, Voted

Senate Thus Ends Its Bitter Six Months Battle Over Epochal Issue from FDR

RECORD VOTE NOT EVEN CALLED FOR

Only Two Voices in Opposition Heard; Lewis of Illinois, Against It Because It Deprives Lower Courts of Too Much of Their Real Authority

Washington, Aug. 7 (AP)—The Senate ended its bitter six months court controversy today by passing a compromise bill providing only for procedural changes in lower Federal tribunals.

A substitute for the President's original bill, which included the enlargement of the Supreme Court if justices over 70 did not retire, the measure approved did not even mention the Supreme Court.

It was passed without a record vote after a perfunctory debate. Since the court measure was attached as an amendment to an unimportant House Judiciary bill, it will now go back to the House for its approval. Little opposition was expected.

Administration spokesmen had agreed to the bill in principle, following collapse of their Supreme Court enlargement program.

Immediately after the bill's passage, Senator Guffey, Democrat, Pennsylvania, asked that his opposition be recorded. Vice-President Garner permitted him to note his opposition in the record.

The only opposition voiced on the floor was by Senator Lewis, Democrat, Illinois. He contended the measure was unconstitutional because it would prevent a single Federal district judge from restraining enforcement of the acts of Congress he deems invalid.

It was virtually the last piece of major legislation confronting the Senate. Administration leaders confidently predicted adjournment within two weeks after the Senate has "marked up a half dozen minor bills."

Consideration had begun a half year ago after Mr. Roosevelt's request for as many as six new high court justices started an epochal legislative upheaval.

Elsewhere in Washington, meanwhile, Elliott Kaplan, secretary of the National Civil Service Reform League, said personnel provisions of the Robinson government reorganization were "vague and contradictory." Kaplan testified at hearings on the bill by a special Senate committee.

Capital Gossip

Daily Dispatch Bureau, In The Sir Walter Hotel, Raleigh, Aug. 7.—Raleigh has had almost a full week to ponder publication of the fact that former Governor J. C. B. Ehringhaus made a $100,000 fee to the government for legal services, and the newest ex-chief executive hasn't yet been consigned to the "economic royalist" class — which speaks well for the popularity of Mr. Ehringhaus.

A. D. (Lon) Folger, Surry county political czar, and North Carolina's Democratic national committeeman, is in Raleigh; but if he has anything particular on his mind he hasn't divulged it yet. Just keeping busy on the political big wigs, it seems.

Many profess to see the fine hand of a real publicity genius behind the action of the Wake county liquor board chairman in posting Anti-Saloon League signs in the Raleigh stores. While some commentators and editors have scored him for the action, there are others who point out that he has advertised his stores not only in Raleigh and Wake county, but all over the United States. Those who hold the latter viewpoint contend, too, that the signs will increase sales on the well known principle that folks will usually want to do that which they are forbidden or warned not to do.

One of the fishermen who came here to complain about the co-operative fisheries said just before entering Governor Hoey's office, "I know he can't do anything about it, but we'll tell him anyhow." Another chap.

His Limit Attacked

Senator Harry S. Byrd An amendment placing a limit of $4,000 a family unit of each home to be built under the Wagner housing act, adopted following a plea by Senator Harry S. Byrd of Virginia is declared by advocates of the act to "hamstring" it.

The amendment, adopted by the senate 40 to 39, would withhold federal loans or subsidies from projects costing more than $4,000 a family unit or $1,000 a room.

NEW DEAL'S BILLS CONFUSINGLY MADE

Even Congressmen Don't Understand Them, Though They Pass Them

By CHARLES P. STEWART Central Press Columnist

Washington, Aug. 7.—One complaint against New Deal legislation is recognized even by many of the administration's friends in Congress as sound.

This complaint is that its bills, as submitted to the lawmakers, are badly, confusingly drafted; they seem to have been thrown together by amateurs, and, at that, in a desperate hurry.

So they were, in fact. Framing a proposed new statute is a job calling for considerable technical training. A senator or representative may be wholly in sympathy with its purpose but condemn it in details, as to its fashion of expressing itself.

Wrangle Over Phraseology Now, the White House apparently has been disinclined to leave this preliminary tinkering to experts.

Its policy has been to assign one or another of its "white-haired boys" to the task of preparing a desired enactment, and sending it, just as evolved by him, to Capitol Hill, with the mandate, "Pass this."

Thereupon congressmen, including pro-administrationists, have given the thing the "once over" and then commented, "Perhaps it's o. k., but we don't understand it." After which a long wrangle has started, not as to what the administration was trying to accomplish, but as to what its mixed-up phraseology meant.

Military Forces Steadily Spreading Out to Occupy Rich Region to Be Seized

PEACE IMPOSSIBLE, ATTACHE DECLARES

All Japanese Nationals Ordered to Evacuate Hankow Leaving Administration to Chinese Authorities; Japs Fear for Citizens in Central China

Peiping, China, Aug. 7.—(AP)—Japan's North China war machine, strengthened by 15,000 new troops in the Tientsin area, was estimated today by informed Asiatic observers to total 45,000 men, massed in the rich region around Peiping, destined to conquer all Japan's way.

Reliable reports said the 15,000 new troops arrived in Tientsin recently to reinforce the Japanese military forces steadily spreading out northwest and south through Hopei province, center of the vast area Japan intends to dominate.

Army reinforcements came as Japan disarmed the Chinese police of Peiping and Japanese nationals were allowed to leave their embassy compound where they sought sanctuary when the Sino-Japanese trouble arose.

An attache of the Japanese Embassy declared, however, Japanese would be required to return to the compound at night after transacting their customary affairs during the day.

The embassy attache told the Associated Press "peace is impossible in the Peiping area while central (Nanking) Chinese troops are operating in the vicinity of Hankow Pass, near the Great Wall, and maintain a challenging attitude toward the Japanese army."

Missing since Donald's real parents tore him from the arms of his foster mother last Tuesday, Ewart was seized shortly after midnight at the home of a brother. Police Sergeant told him he had driven the car during the abduction "as a favor," but later said he merely had borrowed it. Ewart declined to make a formal statement.

Applicants To Bar Face Long Wait

Raleigh, Aug. 7.—(AP)—The 189 persons who took examinations here this week seeking admission to the North Carolina Bar, must wait until around August 29 to find if they get licenses.

Henry London, secretary of the board of examiners, said a recess until August 27, was taken by the examiners late yesterday when it was found it would be impossible to finish grading all the papers at this sitting, on account of the large number of applicants and the resulting increase in the volume of papers.

Judge L. R. Varsar, of Lumberton, chairman of the board, announced, however, "the board is sufficiently advised to feel very much gratified at the very fine character of the papers generally, and it is likely that the percentage of those passing will exceed that of any previous examination given by this board."
