HOURS 9 A. M. TO 12 NOON

MY CALENDAR.

No dates are in my calendar
With which I mark the days—No more to be, can chart for The seasons' mystic maze.

For the calendar is a printed tale
To make it very clear That spring has come when lilacs Start to show their early cheer Of memories that end in mark the summer hours by songs Of birds in glen and glade—and all the years not one mistake Has any singer made.

and autumn has a tender word It writes across the sod—A shining word of faith and cheer
That may call goldenrod!
Arthur Wallace Peach.

CONFIDENCE.

The summer sky grows dark with threatened rain,
and gulls sweep inland hurriedly and low,
But through the meadow, warmth and sunlight rest in patches where the tiger lilies grow.
Sails cannot dull their gay vermilion heads,
The winds that bring the seagulls' warning cry—
and, half-amused, they turn themselves to hear.
The fretful thunder clouds go stamping by!
Virginia Grilley.

GREGG WARNS OF MOSQUITO MENACE

Present Weather Is Ideal for Breeding, Health Officer Declares

Dr. A. D. Gregg, Vance county health officer, today issued a warning to the public about the menace of mosquitoes at the present time as a result of the particular kind of weather now being experienced in this section. His statement follows:
"We are now having ideal weather for breeding and harboring mosquitoes. No control measure, we can use on breeding places are very effective in hot showery weather. The oiling of breeding places where found is carried out every week or ten days by agents of the Health Department.
The frequent heavy rains wash the oil away and we get poor results, also frequent showers enables mosquitoes to breed in little hidden pools and holes of water or mud, where ordinarily it would become dry too soon for the mosquito to reach adult stage.
A few days in water will hatch the eggs, the larvae, or pupae stage will survive a few days in wet shady soil, until another shower gives them water for farther maturity. In this way, old cans, broken jars and such vessels will breed mosquitoes.

"The cutting of weeds and bushes around houses and on vacant lots will do much to prevent mosquitoes from gathering around the homes. The cool, damp shade of the weeds and shrubbery protects the mosquitoes from the sunshine and also keep the wind from blowing them off. Mosquitoes do not breed in the weeds or shrubbery but gather in these places for protection from the weather.

"Effective screening is our only sure protection from being annoyed around our homes. Especially, is this true of the malaria carrying mosquitoes as they are night flyers and feeders, and will slip into our rooms at night through the open windows, like all criminals they like to work under cover of the dark."
