But Men in Both Camps Are Big Enough To Work Out Agreement If CIO Would Come Back, AFL Head Says; Frankly Admits He Is Not Hopeful

Atlantic City, Sept. 2.—(AP)—William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, said today the federation would welcome back the ten suspended CIO unions if they return without any conditions.

Their return, he said, would be the first step toward reuniting the American labor movement, divided into two bitterly warring camps since John Lewis started the CIO, in November, 1935.

If the CIO unions took this step, and Green frankly said he doubted they would, the next move toward final peace would be appointment of a joint committee of AFL and CIO leaders to work out a detailed settlement.

"I recognize that there would be many complicated problems to be solved," Green said. "The hardest of these probably would result from the CIO's recognition of dual unions in the radio and electrical and shipbuilding industries. Those unions never belonged to the American Federation of Labor.

"The radio and electrical workers union (CIO) is trying to organize a territory that belongs to the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers
