Andy and his trainers "Pa" and "Ma" Graham travel in their own palace car that contains tiled floors, Pullman berths, shower bath and many other modern improvements. According to the circus press agent, Andy's father was a chimpanzee and his mother a human being. He is 3 years old, takes a bath daily, is dressed and undresses himself, brushes his teeth, and is said to iron his own clothes. His offering is one of merriment. Working on a trampoline, he clowns throughout the act and it is said that every performance is different. He takes real pleasure in performing and at no time is it necessary for Mr. or Mrs. Graham to resort to a whip or offer any form of persuasion. Before the performance Andy is placed in the menagerie where he takes keen interest in every person entering the big tent. He refuses all food offered him and is said to live on a strict diet that is under the watchful eyes of his owners.

Capital Gossip

BY HENRY AVERILL

Daily Dispatch Bureau, In the Sir Walter Hotel, Raleigh, Sept. 7.—A convention book of the Young Democratic Clubs of American, recently issued for the Indianapolis convalescence of the Y. D. S., contained the pictures of numerous North Carolinians, a history of the N. C. club, and a two page advertisement of the State.

Right along toward the front there was a full page picture of Tyre Taylor, founder of the clubs and a former gubernatorial secretary. Up front too, was another full page portrait of J. A. (Lon) Bolich, Winston-Salem, who was heralded as having "started work for the Young Democrats by flying all over the United States for them." Lon was chairman of the national finance committee.

Then there was a page devoted to pictures of North Carolina Young Democratic officers, with Mae Oliver, vice president, in the middle. Other pictures were of J. T. Gresham, national committeeman; Mrs. George C. Brown, national committeewoman; J. Ed Butler, president; and Mrs. Neal Long, secretary.

An appeal which is being heard here today is that of the City of Wilson from a judgment for personal injuries to Miss Ellen Braswell. The city claims she contributed to her injury by her own negligence. On that phase, counsel for Miss Braswell says in her brief: "If it be negligence, for that a lady walking along the street of one of the most modern and up-to-date cities of North Carolina does not keep her eyes fastened on the sidewalk under her feet as she walks to the exclusion of all other things, celestial and terrestrial, then was her failure to do what no normal woman has ever done the proximate cause of her injury."

News reports tell us that framed copies of the Virginia Dare birth certificate have been presented the President and other distinguished persons by Dr. Carl V. Reynolds, of the Health Department. There's a Winston-Salem reporter who can swell with pride about this. He got the first copy of the certificate though it was other newsmen who were "framed," not the certificate.

"Our Bob" Reynolds has introduced a ringing resolution in some convention or other, denouncing the wicked weed from Mexico, marijuana. Next thing you know the courageous statesman from the mountains will be assailing forest fires and the boll weevil.

Under the head "What the State Press is Saying," Carl Goersch's State carries five clipped items. Two of them were the product of this bureau; whereas we grow a bit proud.

FALL BEST SEASON FOR FISHING HERE

State's Advertising Department Stressing That Pleasure for Tourists Coming

Daily Dispatch Bureau, In the Sir Walter Hotel, Raleigh, Sept. 7.—Fall is the finest fishing season in North Carolina, out-of-state anglers are being informed by the advertising division of the State Department of Conservation and Development; and so it might not be amiss for this bureau to inform some of the State's citizens who otherwise might be unaware of this fact.

"The fall of the year is North Carolina's most colorful season," bubbles the advertising division, "the foliage of hardwoods intermingling in riotous hues with the more somber tones of the pines."

But that isn't all. Getting around to the fishing angle or the fish angler, the division writer says, and says truly: "The early fall is a favorite fishing time for large numbers of surf-casters and deep sea fishermen along the North Carolina coast. The weather is milder at this time, hotels are less crowded, and the fisherman is treated to the inspiring spectacle of wedges of Canada geese, flights of ducks, clouds of white whistling swans, and herds of other wild fowl."

Fresh water fishing, too, gets its need of praise. "Fresh waters particularly recommended at this season are Currituck Sound, Pasquotank, Chowan and Roanoke rivers, Phelps and Mattamuskeet lakes, Little Alligator, Tar, Neuse, Trent, New, Cape Fear, Black, Waccamaw and Lumber rivers.

"Located in the coastal region these rivers and lakes are populated in large numbers by large black bass, striped bass, pike, red and blue bream, crappie white perch, calico bass, warmouth, striped perch, robin and redfish."

Yesterday afternoon, the aggregation went through calisthenics at High Price Warehouse, and the boys were on hand this morning for another try.

Lonnie Harris and Billy Alston were missed from yesterday's drill, but they are expected to come into the fold shortly.

Billy Peace, whom Miller is expecting to carry the burden in ball carrying this season, seemed to be in the pink of condition, having been in CMTC camp for 32 days previous to the opening of drills.

On the whole, the squad seems to be light, but by the time of the first game, some heavier boys may in the starting positions.

Squad Is Light But Some Have Not Reported, Peace Is Ready
