

Much Depends On This Week's Grid Drills Of The Henderson Bulldogs

Jack Mitchell Passes Off Conditions; Plenty of Work Facing Squad

This week's work will go a long way toward telling just what Henderson high school will put on the gridiron this fall. Coach Bing Miller completed his first full week of work last Friday with the toughest drill of the season, and was favorably impressed with what some of the boys showed, and others didn't quite measure up to his expectations.

A cheery note was sounded at the beginning of today's drill when "Toot" Mitchell, previously ineligible, reported, having worked off his conditions during the week-end. Miller is hoping that Billy Peace and Billy Dunn, backs, will be able to resume their drills. All three of the lads were dropped, due to scholastic difficulties, pending the removal of conditions on work last spring.

The Bulldogs will get plenty of hard work during the coming week as they prepare for what should be a tough season. Miller has not announced his schedule for the season pending arrangements in the conference. The highs are working out each afternoon at League Park, while work is being carried on at the athletic field to the rear of the new high school.

Nucleus of Carolina's 1937 Eleven

NORTH CAROLINA'S SCHEDULE
Sept. 25	South Carolina at Chapel Hill
Oct. 2	N. C. State at Raleigh
Oct. 9	New York University at New York
Oct. 16	Wake Forest at Wake Forest
Oct. 23	Tulane at Chapel Hill
Oct. 30	Fordham at Chapel Hill
Nov. 6	Davidson at Davidson
Nov. 13	Duke at Durham
Nov. 25	Virginia at Chapel Hill

The 10 lettermen pictured above will form the nucleus for the University of North Carolina 1937 football team which opens its season against the strong University of South Carolina team at Chapel Hill, September 25.

One other letterman—Randy Cooner, senior halfback is not in the picture, having reported late. Andy Bershak, end, and Crowell Little, quarter, are co-captains. The schedule, shown in the top centerpiece, is the hardest in modern football at North Carolina. The Tar Heels will engage such tartars as Fordham, N. Y. U.,

Tulane and Duke, and such capable Southern Conference teams as South Carolina, N. C. State, Wake Forest, and Davidson.

lacked by $7,249 equalling those of July, 1936, when a profit was shown, but the net receipts for seven months were $50,704.39 ahead of the same period last year. He said efforts were being made to secure freight for the railroad and that he had been "promised some of this business for the coming fall and winter."

He forecast a better showing for August. The board of directors of the railroad meets in an adjourned session in Goldsboro September 21 to hear recommendations from Governor Hoey about the railroad's operations and management.

CAROLINA ELEVEN FEARS GAMECOCKS

Squad Is In Fairly Good Condition But Reserve Strength Lacking

Chapel Hill, Sept. 13.—The North Carolina football squad today began the final two weeks of preparations for the opening contest with South Carolina here September 25.

The squad of 41 candidates appeared to be in fairly good physical condition. Wallace Winborne, junior reserve quarter, who suffered a shoulder displacement recently, has improved steadily, and should be able to take part in the rough work this week.

A leg injury which kept Tony Cernugie, an outstanding prospect, out of eight games during his sophomore year last season, is still giving him some trouble. He has attended every practice this fall but taken his work in short doses. It is doubtful if he will be ready for the opening game.

John Mulhern, sophomore tackle prospect, is expected back sometime this week. He had to return to his home on account of the illness of his mother.

And while the Tar Heels are bending every effort to be prepared for the Gamecock invasion, reports emanating from the South Carolina stronghold are still frankly optimistic about prospects. There the latest dope is that Coach Don McAllister will be blessed with several top-notch "coffin kickers."

Ed Clary of the Gaffney tribe has made his spirals check almost consistently between 50 and 60 yards. And he's been booting them where the opposition can't return them. Others well versed in coffin-corner tactics are Tommy Lonchar of Lexington, S. S. Heber Stroud, 168-pounder from Darlington; Lit Durham of Greenville; Gene Robinson sp. merchant from Chester; and Banjo Williams of Bishopville.

South Carolina's football stock took another jump recently with the announcement that Captain Jack Lyon, star halfback, who has been on the injury list, would be available for opening contests with Emory and Henry, and North Carolina.

NWA TO AID 175 AT GREENSBORO SCHOOL

Greensboro, Sept. 13.—About 175 girls will pay their way through the Woman's College this year with work under the National Youth Administration, according to C. W. Phillips, head of the Department of Public Relations. These girls are given appointments before the opening of college and will meet Wednesday evening, September 16 to receive their assignments. They will be given work in the Post Office, Bookstore, switchboard, library, laboratories, offices, etc.

N. Y. A. assistance is given to the college as a supplement to employment given girls by the college. In this manner the college will give employment to about 100 girls in the same kind of work and through the office of the secretary of the college about 75 more girls will be given work in the dining room. This will make it possible for almost 400 girls to work during the college year.

The number of N. Y. A. students has been cut this year, according to Mr. Phillips, to about 8 per cent of the student body. There have been twice as many applications for this assistance as it has been possible to fill.

Dead Reckoning

By BRUCE HAMILTON

Lying on the ground in suffocating pain, helpless, Tim Kennedy felt the man going over his pockets. If he could keep the damaging letter, no jury in the world could convict Kennedy of his wife's death. When Tim recovered, he felt in his coat pocket. The letter was gone!

A unique murder story in which you see the plot unfold through the other end of the telescope. You see murder planned . . . you see it done . . . and you want to cry out a warning, to point an accusing finger at the killer.
