

DUKE AND DURHAM PLAN FOR BIG GAME

"Battle of the South" Between Devils and Vols Attracts Attention

Durham, Sept. 20.—The greatest celebration in the history of a football game in this section will be staged around the Duke-Tennessee "Battle of the South" in Duke stadium on October 9, according to plans being completed by Duke and Durham organizations.

The morning parade which has been a feature of Duke Homecoming Day games since 1933 will break all records, officials of the Chamber of Commerce which is sponsoring the parade, report.

Many floats have already been entered by civic and business organizations of Durham and by student groups at Duke. The number entered at this date breaks all records and, according to reports from those entering, the battle for the prize float will be a great one.

The Duke and Tennessee bands and other such organizations in this section will furnish music for the parade and at the game that afternoon. While plans for the parade are being completed, the Duke alumni office announces that advance indications are that a record-breaking number of former students will return to the campus for that week-end. A full program, featured by the annual alumni barbecue on the campus, has been arranged for the former students.

Orders for tickets to the contest have been coming in at the rate of 500 a day for the past week and this indicates that the game will be played before a capacity crowd.

The game, another of the Duke-Tennessee series which is famous in all parts of the country, looms as "another natural". The Volunteers are heavily favored to capture the Southeastern conference crown this season while Duke is being given the nod in the Southern conference causing sports writers to term the game as "The Battle for the Southern Championship."

HENDERSON POINTS TO FRIDAY'S GAME

Dragons Expected to Be Heavy and Plenty Tough for Local Lads

Henderson high school Bulldogs went to work this afternoon earnestly feeling certain that they will have their hands full if they handle the South Hill Dragons here Friday afternoon.

The Dragons are tutored by C. G. Chaffey, former star at Washington College, Maryland, and reports from the Virginia town indicate that the eleven will be a heavy one, the average weight being placed at 162 pounds per man.

Henderson whipped South Hill here last year when the visitors were tutored by Tom Fallwell, and they are well acquainted with the foe they are to meet. As a warning to the local eleven, it was said that "the barefoot boy" was back again this year and ready to do plenty of running. The Bulldogs remember him as the lad who took a long touchdown jaunt on a muddy field to score a marker for South Hill.

Miller has counted on Peace to be his outstanding performer and has built his attack around him, but the boy has as yet to come up to what the mentor had expected of him.

Rough work will be the menu through Wednesday, and the eleven will taper off Thursday with a signal drill.

Market Leaders Hit Down Trail, With Many in New Low Territory for 18 Months

New York, Sept. 20 (AP)—Stock market leaders hit the down trail today, many crashing into new low territory for the past 18 months or longer. Losses of one to four points were numerous. There were a few setbacks of six to eight. Volume was heaviest at the opening, with blocks of 1,000 to 5,000 shares changing hands. Activity dwindled on mild recovery moves and extreme declines were shaded in some instances near the fourth hour. Depressing copper issues was a sharp fall in futures of the red metal to under 12 cents a pound, compared with the current domestic spot price of 14 cents. The export rate also dipped and there was further talk of a possible cut in the American quotation as production increased and consumption continued to lag.

A cloud in the business skies also was curtailment in some issues, omission of dividends here and there and the suggestion from statistical quarters that company profits estimates may have to be revised downward. Rails did better relatively than other categories as predictions were advanced by financial observers that the granting of higher basic commodity freight charges is entirely probable as a means of offsetting the loss of emergency rates at the end of last year. Losses were substantially reduced or cancelled in many instances in the final hour, as some bargain hunting buying and short covering made its appearance.

Transfers were around 1,650,000 shares.

Southport Offers Deep Sea Fishing For Its Visitors

Daily Dispatch Bureau, in the Sir Walter Hotel, Raleigh, Sept. 20.—A big sign with one word, "Wanted," has been hung out by the city of Southport down where the Cape Fear meets the Atlantic Ocean, according to reports reaching the advertising committee of the Department of Conservation and Development here.

It all came about in this manner. Several weeks ago a local expedition sailed out of Southport to the Cape Fear shoals to check up on rumors that re-roaring gamesters of the deep were putting on the feed bag where the warm currents of the Gulf Stream served up tons of small fish as bait.

They made one mistake, however, did the members of this expedition. They carried only small-calibre tackle made for thirty-five pound lightweights. The big ones bit all right, no mistake about that, but the only result was a parted line and a prize fish flagging good-bye.

Nevertheless the fishermen came back with a goodly catch of barracudas, amberjack, dolphin, king mackerel and bonito; but they were not as enthusiastic about the fish they caught as they were about those which got away. Tuna, tarpon and sailfish of full girth and length were hooked, but the 35-pound line just couldn't take it. To prove that it was no fluke, a second party sailed out into the briny and came back with the same story of great schools of tropical fish.

And so Southport's "Wanted" sign offers to fishermen of the country an opportunity to do some much needed pioneering off the coast at that point. Southport wants to know what kind of tackle is needed, what sort of special rig is required and just what constitutes the technique of landing fish that crack a 35-pound line as if it were made of wrapping twine.

To fishermen willing to make some demonstrations for the home-towners Southport offers to take these visitors to its new fishing hole.
