

Friday Tobacco Sale Biggest Of Season For Henderson

457,466 Pounds Of Leaf Averages Near 28 Cents

Total of $127,355.50 Paid Growers for Leaf Handled on Market for One Day

SEASON TOTAL NOW AT 1,972,972 POUNDS

Season Average Is $26.90 Per Hundred, With $530,-874.44 Paid; Heavy Sales Looked for All Next Week; Farmers Continue Pleased at Prices

Friday's sale of 457,466 pounds was the largest for any single day on the Henderson tobacco market this season, exceeding by nearly 25,000 pounds the actual sale on opening day, when there was a block, and, being some 44,000 pounds larger than last Monday's transactions, it was shown today in the official report of the market.

Friday's average was $27.83, second highest of the season, being topped only by the record of $28.06 made on Wednesday. Total money paid on Friday was $127,355.50, by long odds the most for any day so far.

Sales for the past week, first full week of the season, aggregated 1,416,612 pounds for $387,754.22 for an average of $27.37 per hundred pounds. This brought the season totals to 1,972,972 pounds, selling for $530,784.44, for an average of $26.90 per hundred.

Prices have been considered unusually good and very satisfactory so far on the Henderson market, believed to be one of the highest if not the highest in the Middle Belt, and perhaps anywhere else in the State. General satisfaction has been expressed by growers at the prices paid for their leaf. Very few sales tickets have been turned on this market this season.

Tobacco has been sold on the local warehouse floors so far from 20-odd counties of North Carolina and Virginia, according to R. W. McFarland, sales supervisor, and growers are almost unanimous in their satisfaction. Offerings up to now have been rather light, in view of the somewhat earlier opening, and due to the fact that very little tobacco had been stripped and prepared for market. The season's biggest sales are looked for Monday, and from now on farmers are expected to bring in their offerings in heavy volume.

162 ARE EXAMINED DURING 'TB' CLINIC

Only Small Percentage Found Infected; Treatments Are Prescribed

Four new active cases of tuberculosis were discovered and several others of a milder nature found and advised to take varying treatments during the five-day tuberculosis clinic held this week at the Scott Parker Sanatorium here, it was announced today by Miss Edna Oliver, nurse with the Vance County Health Department, who assisted Dr. D. S. Denholm, of the State Sanatorium staff, in conducting the clinic. A total of 162 patients were examined, 116 being white and 46 colored.

Two of the new active cases were white and two colored. In addition the tuberculin test was given to 12 children.

Eighteen persons who had been previously examined and found to be infected came back for new examinations, and in most instances their cases were arrested. Four patients were advised to rest at home.

Two patients were sent to Duke hospital for treatment, one of them being an 18-year-old boy suffering with a heart ailment, and the other a man who has cancer of the lungs. One white woman was admitted to the Parker Sanatorium for treatment.

Dr. Denholm finished his work Friday and left the city. He did all of the examination work, using the new and modern fluoroscope method, which made it possible for many more patients to be examined in the same length of time that has hitherto required longer hours.

All examinations were entirely free to the patient unless an X-ray examination was made. The clinic was made possible through the cooperation of the county and State health departments.

JAIL BOND ISSUE IN WARREN LOSES

Voters Turn Thumbs Down on $20,000 Obligation for New Prison

A bond issue proposal for the issuance of $20,000 of bonds for a new jail was defeated by the voters of Warren county in an election held this week, according to advices from Warrenton. A total of 824 persons voted, 665 being against the proposal.

The bond issue was called by the Warren county commissioners after members of that body had been indicted for not carrying out recommendations of the grand jury for repairs to the jail, which had been characterized as "inadequate, unsafe, unsanitary and unfit for use."

In one township where only 21 votes were cast all were in opposition. Every township in the county voted against the proposal, including the two in the town of Warrenton.

During the session of superior court in Warren county the past week the county commissioners were put on trial under grand jury indictments for failure to comply with previous recommendations about the jail. Judge J. Paul Fritzsche, presiding, halted the trial and ordered a mistrial after two witnesses had testified. The jurist expressed the belief that due to the prominence of the officials and the office they held it would be impossible to get an impartial trial. The judge felt it would be impossible to divorce politics from the trial, he said.

Jos. P. Pippin, assisting in the prosecution with Solicitor Ernest R. Tyler, told the court he was personally not in sympathy with the prosecution of the commissioners, because he understood the circumstances surrounding the case and felt that the commissioners had done what they could to carry out grand jury recommendations. Defeat of the bond issue election was also called to the attention of the court.

The grand jury serving at this term of Warren Superior Court, mindful of the result of the bond issue election, recommended the commissioners spend $5,000 on jail repairs if the money could be had, but if it were not done, that all white prisoners be sent to some other jail.
