ONE SUMMER DAY.

A prim little heliotrope,
A purple, scented heliotrope, Grew in a quaint old garden beside the tumbling sea;
But to her friend the Marigold
(Cheerful flower with heart of gold)
The heliotrope one summer day complained quite bitterly.

Just hear the great waves dashing,
and see the white foam splashing;
every time the wind blows I feel its spray on me!

How I wish that I might bloom
within some quiet, peaceful room,
and from wind and weather and this wild, tumbling sea.

A wild, red honeysuckle,
A laughter-shaken honeysuckle, growing on a grassy bank where great rains thundered by,
said to her friend the bumblebee
who hovered round her merrily, just this the grandest place beneath the great blue sky?

I've had such a happy day; I've had such a thrilling day!
I've wanted every single train that went roaring by;
The whistles sound so loud and clear,
There's so much to see and hear,
So other flowers in all the world has half such fun as I!"

Meeting Tuesday Sans Souci Club

Mrs. D. P. McDuffee was hostess to the Sans Souci Club in its first meeting of the year, on Tuesday afternoon. Fall flowers and an open fire added charm to her home.

Mrs. R. G. Young, the new president brought greetings to the club, after which a business session was held. The topic for the programs for the year is "Below the Equator," with yesterday's subject, "The Arabian Faith." A number of interesting papers were given, including "The Old South," by Mrs. J. C. Mann; "The Southern Pioneer," by Mrs. H. A. Newell, for which she used "The Long Hunt," by James Boyd; Mrs. R. G. Young gave "Generation After Generation," using "The Tides of Malvern," by Francis Griswald, to discuss the aristocracy of the South from 1700 through the World War.

A salad course and coffee were served to the guests: Mesdames E. M. Rollins, C. H. Eppes; E. L. Brantley; and to the following members: Mesdames F. M. Barnhart, W. H. Blacknall, H. L. Candler, W. M. Coffin, C. S. Dodd, R. F. Johnson, E. A. Latta, J. C. Mann, D. P. McDuffee, D. E. Nanny, H. A. Newell, R. F. Sprinkle, J. L. Wester, and R. G. Young.

Annual Fall Dance Outstanding Event

The Junior Woman's Club's annual dance was an outstanding event when presented last evening in the ball room of West End Country Club, and was largely attended from this city and surrounding towns.

Tal Henry's famous orchestra furnished the syncope for the dancers, and Henry's band lived up to its reputation, bringing the dancers tuneful melodies that kept rhythm flowing through their bodies.

Miss Helen Lane was a featured singer with the band, and her renditions of the popular hits of the day were more than pleasing. Several members of the orchestra contributed vocal bits, all of them being most enjoyable.

Prior to the intermission hour, Dickie Mitchell, talented dancer of Raleigh, entertained with a tap dance, accompanied at the piano by Miss Margaret Candler.

The dance was in keeping with all others presented by this organization, enjoyable, friendly and well attended. This club has made itself a grand reputation by its dances, the proceeds of which are used in its charity work among the underprivileged children attending the city schools.

Middleburg P.-T. A. Had First Meeting

The first regular meeting of the Middleburg P.-T. A. was held last Wednesday night, in the high school auditorium. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Henry White, after which "Onward Christian Soldiers" was sung by the audience. Mr. Young led the opening prayer. Then Miss Duncan, the secretary, read the minutes of the last meeting. The organization voted to continue to give one dollar each to both the high school and grammar school grades having the greatest number of parents present at the meetings.

The program followed by the singing of "School Days." There were three main talks of the evening on the subject, "Our School—the Past, the Present, and the Future." Mrs. Flummer spoke about the past days of Middleburg. Miss Eugenia Boyd told about the present school, and Mr. Young discussed the future plans for the improvement of the school. The school is very anxious for four new rooms, which will enable its having a home economics department.

Mrs. White appointed the following chairmen of three committees: program, Mrs. Petty; publicity, Miss Honeycutt; membership, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Reavis. The meeting adjourned with high hopes for a good school year.

Tuesday Club Met With Mrs. Allen

The subject of study for the afternoon was "The Feminist Revolt."—When you educate a woman, you educate the whole family." Mrs. J. C. Cooper gave a most interesting paper on "The Women Novelists Take Up Arms." "How Women Won the Vote" was given by Mrs. G. A. Rose. Mrs. J. T. Alderman's paper on "Women's Clubs" was enjoyed by every one present.

The hostess, assisted by her daughter, Miss Neita Allen, served a delicious salad course, followed by coffee, nuts, and candy; to Mrs. J. R. Singleton, of Washington, N. C.; Mrs. J. T. ### PROBATION WORKERS INFORMED OF DUTY

Will Be Integral Part of Whole State Plan of Criminal Justice, Sample Says

Daily Dispatch Bureau, in the Sir Walter Hotel, Raleigh, Sept. 29.—The probation service in the courts of North Carolina is an integral part of our whole plan of State criminal justice. At its best it is a well-balanced process of salvaging human materials, or transforming bad-citizen liabilities into good-citizen assets, says "A General Outline of the North Carolina Probation Law and System," 22-page pamphlet now in the hands of the State's newly named probation officers.

The mimeographed book of instructions has been sent out by J. Harry Sample, director of probation, as a forerunner of a school of instruction to be established here soon for training the men and women who will direct the new system in the field.

It covers the subject very thoroughly, outlining the origin and history of probation, discussing at length the duties and responsibilities of the probation officers, setting out the aims and objectives, and quoting in full the Probation Law unanimously adopted by the 1937 General Assembly.

"Legally sanctioned probation originated in Massachusetts where, in

Capital Gossip

BY HENRY AVERILL

Raleigh, Sept. 29.—Nobody has yet made any charges or cast any very serious insinuations, but if revenues from the beverage tax do not show a sharp increase there is likely to be a suspicion, at least, that there is something not so fresh about 3,000 miles this side of Denmark.

With the State's sales tax on hard liquor upped from three per cent to seven, with new gallonage taxes on liquor, nearly twice as many liquor stores in operation, there was good reason to suppose that receipts from beverage taxes would at least double last year's figures; but to date the increase has been less than fifty percent.

In the first 26 days of September, 1936, the beverage tax yielded $92,122.71, while in the same period this year the figure was $130,967.71. So far during the first quarter of the fiscal year a total of $396,458.43 has been collected, while for the corresponding period of 1936, returns were $271,922.24.

Meantime, sales tax receipts, which this year are less exemptions on basic foods but plus a new building materials tax, continue to exceed those for 1936. For the first twenty-six days of September the score was $528,388.12 for 1937 against $314,102.52 for 1936.

"I haven't announced anything yet, have I?" countered Gregg Cherry, speaker of the 1937 House and now chairman of the State Democratic

The treatise sees no soft snap for the new officers:

"And their probationers will probably be scattered over a wide area. Because of the element of time and distance in the travel from headquarters to the homes and the communities of the probationers, the probation officer is faced with a hard task."

PULP MILLS WANT TIMBER PROTECTED

Buying Fire Prevention Equipment With State

Daily Dispatch Bureau, in the Sir Walter Hotel, Raleigh, Sept. 29.—Much more interest is being taken in the protection of privately owned timber lands against forest fires than ever before, largely as a result of the steadily increasing demand for pine pulp wood in North Carolina from pulp plants both in this and other states, according to W. C. McCormick, chief of the forest fire prevention section of the forestry division of the Department of Conservation and Development.

Last week the forestry division just completed a cooperative agreement with the Dugal Paper Corporation, now building a pulp mill at Acme, in Columbus county, to protect an area of 130,000 acres covering almost 200 square miles, recently purchased by this company. The cost of the fire protection work will be paid almost entirely by this company, although it will be done under the supervision of the State forestry division. This company has purchased, or is going to purchase, some $15,000 worth of fire-fighting equipment and will build a series of forest fire observation towers with intercommunicating telephone lines.

During the past week, the forest fire prevention section has received another request from a concern owning a 40,000-acre tract of pulp wood and timber land, asking if it will inspect this tract and take over the supervision of the fire protection work at the cost of the work. This tract will be surveyed just as soon as possible, McCormick said. But with the many requests for additional protection and for new surveys, it is becoming difficult to do all this work with the limited personnel in the division.

Owners of these lands who sign cooperative agreements with the forestry division of the Conservation Department really get double protection, since they get the regular state-county-federal protection and the additional protection from their own privately maintained fire protection forces, McCormick pointed out.

to work half-hour later in the afternoons, so there's some question whether they gain or not. The usual change of office hours, which will be from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. has been announced, effective October 1.

Judging from "Letters to the Editor" in various and sundry newspapers (and it's a pretty fair criterion) Senator Josiah W. Bailey and his reputed opposition to the New Deal are far more interesting political questions in the opinion of North Carolina voters than are Robert R. Reynolds and the possibility that he will have opposition in next year's senatorial primary.

CARDUI

In this modern time something wonderfully worth while can be done for practically every woman who suffers from functional pains of menstruation. Certain cases can be relieved by taking Cardui. Others may need a physician's treatment.

Cardui has two widely demonstrated uses: (1) To ease the immediate pain and nervousness of the monthly period; and (2) to aid in building up the whole system by helping women to get more strength from their food.
