Today is the Day

Thursday, June 9. Called the King's Birthday and observed as a holiday in Britain and Dominions and possessions; actually, however, George VI was born Dec. 14, 1895. It's observed in June so the weather will be ruder for the parades. Neptune and Sun quartile.

ONCE UPON JUNE 9th
The favorite marriage service song of American brides has its golden anniversary this year. A wedding would hardly be official without a soprano thrilling "O Promise Me." One day in 1888, in Vienna, Reginald DeKoven sat down and wrote out the song's music in 20 minutes. That wasn't such an exceptional feat, because he didn't compose much of the melody. He sandwiched a theme of his own between portions of Wagner and Mendelssohn wedding marches. A few days later, using words authored by Clement Scott, a London drama critic, DeKoven sang its first public performance by singing it himself at a reception given by Baron d'Anethan.

It did not reach the general public until two years later, when DeKoven's "Robin Hood" had its first performance in Chicago. The premiere was received indifferently, and the contract, Jessie Bartlett Davis, complained that one of the songs given her role was so badly suited to her voice, she would leave the show unless a better one was provided. DeKoven remembered the song he had written in Vienna—"O Promise Me." Miss Davis liked it, and it was interpolated in "Robin Hood" in its second performance. The reception the song got made the operetta a hit. Today "Robin Hood" as a whole or any other song in it, is rarely heard. "Home, Sweet Home" was similarly written for a now forgotten opera, "Clari or the Maid of Milan," John Howard Payne, who wrote the words of "Home, Sweet Home" (the music was by Sir Henry Bishop, Englishman) was born 147 years ago today.

AMERICA AT WAR DAY-BY-DAY
20 Years Ago Today—As bombardment of Paris by the 70-mile "Big Bertha" resumed, the German offensive entered its fourth phase, with a major attack in the Montdidier-Noyon area. Fifteen divisions on a 25-mile front advanced with initial success toward Compeigne, between the salients created by the first and third phases. The American First Division, holding the Cantigny sector, was

ANSWERS.

- 1. In that year Willie P. Mangum and William A. Graham were elected as North Carolina's two senators to the United States Senate. Both were from Orange county. Since Orange at that time was considered a western county the eastern politicians raised a great disturbance over the fact that both senators were from the west.
2. The following advertisement was published in the North Carolina Gazette, Hillsborough, February 16, 1786: "Any person that will dispose of their Front Teeth (slaves excepted) may receive Two Guinea for each by calling on Dr. Laymeur."
3. In 1921 an appropriation of $5,000 was provided, and the Council of State authorized to have an elevator installed.
4. North Carolina appointed the following: Thomas Ruffin, Sr., D. M. Barringer, David S. Reid, George Davis and John M. Morehead. The conference was held in Washington but failed of its purpose.
5. By special act in 1821 Mrs. Jarvis was the wife of Governor Thomas J. Jarvis who served six consecutive years beginning February 1819, as governor. The first two years were part of the unexpired term of Governor Vance. Governor Jarvis died in 1915. The pension was $150 per month.

British Freighter and French Vessel Bombed Off Spain

gent Spanish air attacks on her shipping. The bombing of the French freighter Brisbane at Demia and an attack which disabled the British vessel Isadora, heightened official British concern over mounting casualties. The government was expected to act both alone and with other nations to bring pressure on General Franco, the insurgent chief. Definite plans awaited reports from British diplomats at Barcelona and Burgos, the Spanish capital. Britain was reported studying a proposal for an international air patrol similar to the naval patrol already operating, and to be considering putting the question of the insurgent attack squarely up to Premier Mussolini of Italy.

thrown on the defensive. The battle for Compeigne wore itself out, on heavy losses to both sides, leaving Von Hantier's troops 35 miles as the crow flies from the outskirts of Paris, and as close as he would ever get. Ludendorff had driven a salient into the French front, had got a somewhat precarious footing on the north bank of the Marne, and was still threatening Paris down the Oise and Marne; but his way along the Oise was blocked north of Compeigne now, and along the Marne was blocked west of Chateau Thierry by the Americans. On the central road between the two rivers he was held up in the Villers-Cotteret forest. American steamer Pinar del Rio was sunk off the Maryland coast.

Miss Ruth Hoyle, of the Middleburg club, and Alton LeMay, of the Dabney club, have been officially designated as winners of the annual 4-H club health contest, it was announced today by Mrs. Hattie F. Plummer, home demonstration agent of the county.

A number of boys and girls from the several 4-H groups over the county were examined by Dr. A. D. Gregg, county health officer, in the process of elimination before the "healthiest" boy and girl were determined. Miss Hoyle and LeMay will be crowned king and queen of health at the annual Achievement Day program to be held in the county next month, the exact date for which has not yet been announced.

Man Loses Hair On Election Bet

Frank Hancock carried Vance county in last Saturday's Democratic Primary for U. S. Senator, but lost out in the state race with Robert R. Reynolds, incumbent, but his victory in this county meant the loss of practically all of Millard Renn's hair.

Millard wagered barbers at Henry Daniel's barber shop at North Henderson that Bob Reynolds would carry Vance county in the primary, the bet being a haircut any style. He lost, and now he is walking about looking as if a whole tribe of Sioux Indians had taken a whack at his scalp. Only a small patch of hair is left at the base of the head, the remainder of his head resembling a billiard ball.

Philatheas Meet With Mrs. Falkner

The Philatheas class of the Methodist Protestant church met Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. W. T. Nuckles; Mrs. E. O. Falkner and Mrs. Alvin Nuckles were associate hostesses. Mrs. R. J. Daniel, vice-president, presided over the meeting. There was a good attendance, with Mrs. R. G. Cawthorn the guest of the class. Mrs. Clyde Finch led the devotional exercises. The treasurer gave her report, and collection of dues took place. Reports from standing committees were heard, and the relief committee showed flowers ten times, 4 trays, and 32 visits.

During the business session the class voted to invite Mrs. J. Franklin Mills, state president of the Philatheas-Baraca Union, to speak to the class at some future time. A committee to prepare a program for the birthday celebration of the Children's Home in the local church was appointed. The class voted to help pay the expenses for a delegate to the leadership training school at High Point. An enjoyable social hour was held after which the hostesses served refreshments.
