

Others to Be Named in Trial of James Hines, Tammany Leader?

Thomas Dewey
Prosecutor . . . anti-Tammanyite

Justice Ferdinand Pecora
New Dealer . . . trial judge

James J. Hines
Tammany leader . . . central figure

Lloyd Paul Stryker
. . . heads defense counsel

J. Richard (Dixie) Davis
. . . turns state's evidence

New York has been waiting with unusual interest disclosure of names of judges allegedly influenced in the case of James J. Hines, Tammany leader, accused of participation in a huge policy racket. Justice Ferdinand Pecora, New Dealer, brushing aside argument arguments of Hines' defense counsel, Lloyd Paul Stryker, ordered a special "blue ribbon" jury. Then the justice directed that District Attorney Thomas Dewey supply by August 2 a list of judges as being subject to the alleged influence, coercion of bribery of Hines or others. Dewey has not desired to make these names public until Hines' trial, August 15. Hines' counsel, asserting the defense was entitled to a knowledge of all charges, pleaded for the names. Meanwhile, J. Richard (Dixie) Davis, one-time lawyer for the late Dutch Schultz and accused with Hines and two others in the policy racket case, has turned state's evidence in the prosecution of Hines. Davis made the move after a series of bargaining conferences with Dewey. Davis was promised leniency and allowed to visit his sweetheart. Since, he has been paroled. If the trial should result in a conviction, it is presumed that Dewey would be nominated by the Republicans for governor.

OHIO CANDIDATES AT RALLY

Charles Sawyer, Robert Bulkeley and Judge Hugh L. Nichol

Ohio political spotlight centers on Charles Sawyer, left, of Cincinnati, opposing Gov. Martin L. Davey for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination at the primary, Aug. 9, and on Senator Robert J. Bulkeley, center, who is opposed by former Gov. George White. Sawyer and Bulkeley, together with Judge Hugh L. Nichol, right, Sawyer's campaign manager, are seen at a rally at Coney Island, near Cincinnati.

Peace — Liberty — Justice

What's in a name? Here are six of the eight daughters of Santiago Iglesias, Puerto Rican resident commissioner in Washington. Posing against the capitol, the ladies are Peace, Victory, Liberty, America, Justice and Liberty. The two daughters in Puerto Rico are named Equality and Fraternity. The family should be an extraordinarily happy one. (Central Press)

Mother of 2 Held as Gungirl

Grace Marano, 23, weeps as a detective escorts her from police headquarters in New York, where she appeared in the line-up. The mother of two children and her ex-convict sweetheart, Henry Schleicher, 30, are held for a series of tavern and lunch wagon holdups. (Central Press)

Lost Her Ring

Mrs. E. H. Newton, wife of a prominent Dallas, Texas, physician, is pictured at the sheriff's office in Dallas, where she was questioned in the bizarre imprisonment of Mickey Ricketts, her Negro ex-yardman. He was imprisoned five days in the Newton attic while an attempt at "superpsychology" sought to solve the theft of a rare jade ring from Mrs. Newton.

Actress Turns Cupid

Charlie Holden, Dorothy Lamour
Thanks to Screen Actress Dorothy Lamour, right, now recuperating in a Hollywood hospital from an emergency appendicitis operation, Charlie Holden, Miss Lamour's secretary, will have a glamorous wedding. The actress arranged for the bridegroom-to-be, Knowles Smith, Jr., to obtain time off from his job at Cadillac, Mich., and come to Hollywood. Miss Lamour will attend the bride and give the reception. (Central Press)

The Store That Tells of Its Goods Is Proud of The Goods It Has To Sell

Through store news it brings its goods before the buyer in the home, which after all, is where most goods are sold.

The store that tells of its goods is a store where you like to buy. It is a store that means much to the welfare and growth of the community.

Buy In The Stores That Tell What They Have To Sell

MR. MERCHANT YOUR BEST ADVERTISING MEDIUM IN VANCE COUNTY AND BEYOND IS

Henderson Daily Dispatch