

Roth-Stewart Will Open Women's Store Tonight

Everything New, Including Decorations and Arrangements to Newest and Latest Women's Wearing Apparel; Inspections Only, No Sales Tonight

Roth-Stewart Women's Shop, Henderson's newest and most modernistic shop for ladies' ready-to-wear, will have its formal opening this evening from 8 to 10 o'clock. Those who have seen the new store since the remodeling and alterations were completed have pictured it as a dream of beauty and attractiveness.

For two months the store building has been undergoing complete interior repairs and renovations. It is the old Roth-Stewart women's store, but would not be so recognized in its entirety new dress. There is no change in ownership, but an entirely new and different dress.

Decorations that have been installed, together with equipment for display of dresses, coats and the like, are new and like those to be found in metropolitan cities. The atmosphere is inviting and enticing.

Lighting effects are all new and artistic. Shades of light are so produced as to enable a customer to get the full effects of daylight in inspecting merchandise.

From one end to the other the entire shop is filled with brand new fall goods. The sale that was conducted before the store closed for remodeling was disposed of then, or the remnants transferred to the store in the other side of the building. Everything in the new store is new. Styles are the latest and designs are the newest from the fashion centers.

At the formal opening tonight, there will be no sales. The women of the community and section are invited to come in and look and make a thorough inspection of the store and its contents. The store will be open tomorrow for sales, and it is expected that it will be thronged with women customers seeking the new merchandise.

Motorized Artillery Unit Passes Here In Forenoon

Equipment Enroute to Fort Bragg from Fort Totten, N. Y., as Part of Annual Maneuvers Following Summer Training of Reserve Units

Scores of trucks passed through Henderson during the forenoon today carrying units of the 62nd Coast Artillery to Fort Bragg from their home station at Fort Totten, New York City. The regiment was participating in annual training maneuvers, following a summer spent in training and instructing reservists and National Guard troops in military activities.

Thousands of people lined the streets to see this unit of the nation's artillery force on parade. The regiment passed in sections, the first going early in the morning before most people had come to their places of business and comparatively few saw this section, which contained most of the big guns. Others followed at intervals until the last had gone through about the noon hour.

The soldiers spent last night en-campment at Richmond, and were due at Fort Bragg late this afternoon.

That is one of the nation's greatest concentrations of field artillery. The regiment passing here today was in command of Colonel Henry W. T. Egin, and consisted of 35 officers and 750 soldiers. Some 100 heavy, specially-designed, high-speed military motor vehicles were in the cavalcade that passed here.

Henderson was particularly interested in the passing of the artillerymen. The big guns of the regiment were towed by Corbitt trucks specially built in Henderson in 1933 for the army. Many of these were spotted in the parade by citizens looking on from the sidewalks.

It was the greatest cavalcade of Federal troops to pass here in motorized equipment in years. Everything was spick and span and in the pink of condition. The men were well dressed in bright, clean uniforms, and appeared in a jovial, holiday mood.

Clayton Farmer Brings First Load Of Tobacco

The first load of tobacco for sale on the Henderson market the coming season came to town late Wednesday, and was brought in by J. S. Pace, of Route 1, Clayton. It weighed in excess of 2,000 pounds, and was laid away in the warehouse to which it was taken to await the start of sales on next Tuesday, when the season opens in the Middle Belt.

Mr. Pace brought this leaf to Henderson by truck. He left it here and returned home to come back Saturday of this week with additional tobacco for sale on the local market.

The first load indicated that these efforts are meeting with some success.

The truckload brought in Wednesday was mostly of primings and had the appearance of being fairly good leaf. It is expected it will command a good price when it goes on sale Tuesday.

The fact that the first load for the season came from a considerable distance led market observers to believe that Henderson would draw tobacco this year from the far reaches of the market's territory. Efforts are being made to branch out the territory to be served by this market, and the

HIGH SCHOOL BAND TO LEAF FESTIVAL

The Henderson high school band which won praise and commendation in the parades at Rocky Mount's Gallopade last spring and Wilson's tobacco festival last month, will go to South Boston, Va., tomorrow to participate in the National Tobacco Festival in that city, it was announced today. It was the only North Carolina high school band invited to the Virginia city's big event. The boys will play in the parade at 2:30 p. m. at South Boston, and has a chance to win a prize of $100, or $50 or $25. The band consists of 40 pieces, and is directed by A. T. Hearne. Frances Perry is drum major and Jane Thompson is flag-bearer. Members of the organization will receive free tickets to the dance tomorrow night, when the music will be furnished by Hal Kemp's orchestra.

RELIEF LOAD FOR COUNTY IS LOWER

Number Being Aided and Cash Outlay Less During Month of August

A heavy decline in the relief load borne by Vance county was shown in August, as compared with July. Mrs. E. R. Austin, county welfare superintendent, revealed in her monthly report to the Vance Board of County Commissioners. Most of the relief went to textile families as the result of short time at the local cotton mills.

The report listed $862.37 spent for groceries, drugs, fuel, clothing, rent and doctor bills. There was no expenditure for pensions or burials, but hospitalization took $636.20. Work relief of $228.31 and aid to the blind in the sum of $44 were listed. Unpaid bills at the end of the month were given as $31.79.

Outside general relief was $325 in August, compared with $260.20 in July and $292.63 in June. Textile family relief was only $537.37 in August, compared with $1,340.74 in July and $1,573.72 in June.

Emergency expenditures altogether amounted to $1,866.35 in June, $1,620.94 in July and $862.37 in August. Hospitalization was $649.80 in June, $263 in August. The pension-burial item was $36 in June, and none in July and August.

Old age assistance payments were $289.55 in August, $347.05 in July and $352.68 in June. Aid to dependent children amount to $188 in August, $173.08 in July and $173.08 in June. Aid to the blind was $44 each of the three months.

Mrs. Austin reported 140 persons receiving county aid in August, with 72 families provided with clothing. At the end of the month, 38 were on the relief rolls. Hospitalization was provided for 28, but assistance was denied to 56 applicants. At the end of the month there were 13 persons in the county home and 12 in the sanatorium.
