CHURCH SOCIETIES
ANNOUNCEMENT

THE BEST BLESSING.

When I walk through my boys' room
at bedtime
And see those young faces at rest,
I know that of all God's blessings
I still have the dearest and best.

Tough winds of misfortune may hit me
And blow me on poverty's rocks,
When I take a post-graduate course
In the old-fashioned school of hard knocks:

Yet God in his merciful kindness
Leaves me of all men the most blest.
That I walk through my boys' room
at bedtime
And see those dear faces at rest.

—Wm. M. O'Donnell.

Ambassador Dance Is Thoroughly Enjoyed

The fall dance of the Ambassador Club last evening at the Armory on the Dabney Road was well in keeping with the aim of the organization, the presentation of good dances.

The decorating committee did itself proud in making the huge auditorium a fit setting for the dance.

Skeets Morris and The Auburn Cavaliers lived up to their advance reputation. The band had everything the dancers desired. Skeets the director, did his bit with r's trumpet. Miss Judy Murphy, talented songstress, delighted all with music in the modern way.

In addition to the membership, there were numerous out of town guests who enjoyed the occasion.

The next event on the Ambassadors program will be a dance around Hal-lowe'en season.

Parham-Newell Nuptial Solemnized In Oxford

A wedding beautiful in its simplicity was solemnized at five o'clock Saturday afternoon in the First Bap-tist church of Oxford, when Miss Jeannie Williams ("Billie") Newell became the bride of William Brooks Parham, Jr., of Henderson. The vows were spoken before the Rev. M. L. Bannister, pastor and friends of the couple, who used the beautiful ring ceremony.

The bride was becomingly attired in a lovely feathered costume suit her blue with matching accessories. Her suit was smartly designed with a full length flared coat of a youthful and flattering style. Her corsage was of bride's roses and valley lilies, the contrasting colors creating an en-hancing effect.

Mrs. Parham is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. John Oliver Newell, of Franklinton, and is a popular member of the younger society of the State. She received her education at East Carolina Teachers College, gradu-ating with the class of 1936, and since then has furthered her study at Wake Forest college and the Univer-sity of North Carolina. She is a mem-ber of Kappa Delta Phi sorority.

Mr. Parham is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Brooks Parham, of Henderson, and received his educa-tion at Fishbourne Military School. He is now holding a responsible posi-tion with the Citizens' Bank and Trust Company of Henderson.

This marriage will be of interest to a wide circle of friends throughout this and adjoining states, for it unites two prominent and widely known families of the State. After a wed-ding trip the couple returned to Warrenton to reside, where Mrs. Parham is a member of the faculty of the John Graham high school.

Miss Knott's Engagement To Bill Hight Announced

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Knott delight-fully entertained at Knottingham, their home on the Oxford road, Wed-nesday evening, announcing the en-gagement of their daughter, Betty to Milton ("Bill") Hight.

The lawn was lighted with Japanese lanterns, and the house was attrac-tively decorated with dahlias and mixed fall flowers.

Refreshments, consisting of ices cakes, nuts and mints were served to the guests.

Claybrook, of Baltimore, Maryland, Mrs. W. C. Hight, Hubert Hight, and Henry Hight, and Mr. and Mrs. Ed-ward C. Loughlin.

The following announcement is made: "Mr. and Mrs. Gaither Wilson Knott announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daugh-ter, Betty Christian, to Milton Lan-caster Hight. The wedding will take place in November."

Miss Virginia Hunt Is Honored at Party

Tuesday afternoon, at her home on the Oxford road, Miss Pauline Mc-Neny was hostess to a group of sub-debs at a delightful "going-away" party for Miss Virginia Hunt, Miss Hunt leaves shortly to enter Stewart Hall, in Virginia.

After a game, the guests were invited to the dining room where a shower of dainty gifts awaited the honoree. The table was lace covered and held a large bowl of pink roses with pink tapers.

A delicious ice course was served by the hostess' mother, Mrs. A. T. McNeny, assisted by Mrs. W. P. Ghoison.

Initial Meeting of Jr. Tuesday Club With Mrs. Cooper

Mrs. D. Morgan Cooper was hostess to the Junior Tuesday club Tuesday evening at their first meeting for the fall. Miss Alice Hughes, newly elected president, presided over the meeting.

The evening's program, with the title "We Set Sail", consisted of the following attractive papers: "Sailing, Sailing", by Mrs. D. Boyd Kimball; "Aboard the Tuesdania", by Mrs. Lee Marbury; and "Here in England", given by Mrs. George A. Rose, Jr.

Mrs. Cooper served a salad course to the following members: Mrs. Thomas Badger, Mrs. Hartwell Bass, Mrs. Waddill Ghoison, Miss Alice Hughes, Mrs. D. Boyd Kimball, Mrs. Lee Marbury, Mrs. Roy O. Rodwell, Mrs. George A. Rose, Jr., Miss Helen Royster, Miss Reba Singleton, Mrs. William Waddill, and Mrs. Edmund Waddill.

—By—
REV. J. EVERETTE NEESE
Pastor
First Congregational-Christian Church

GOD BLESS THE HANDS.
God, bless this food
Unto our need
And keep us from Unseemly greed.

God, bless the rooftree
Over our heads,
The hearth that warmth
And comfort sheds.

God, bless the hands
That have prepared
This meal that is
So freely shared.

God, make this home
Thy dwelling place,
And to its fulness
Add thy grace.

Grits and Gravel

By T. MOSES JONES

Some days ago when the Jones Twins went with me over to Henderson, we went by the lumber plant to call on our Cousins John B. Watkins, Jr. He seemed very glad to see us, took us over to the house to meet his wife. She was formerly Miss Augusta McCully, of New Jersey. Then we went on next door to see his mother, who sat patiently in a rocker on the front porch. She has not been able to see for several years.

His mother, now 86, was Miss Annie C. Bullock, and was raised at Stovall, and married John B. Watkins. I remarked that she resembled Cousin Bettie Booker, and found that they were first cousins. She was a bridesmaid at Cousin Bettie's wedding, when she was only fourteen. At the wedding supper was served a big turkey gobbler, garnished with par-tidges.

The intended gobbler flew into the pig pen and was devoured by same, and another gobbler had to be se-cured for the occasion.

John Francis helps his father in the lumber business and, another son, Meredith, is head bookkeeper at the First National Bank.

R. B. Green, the Metropolitan man, came by and spoke while we were talk-ing. He used to come over to Oxford working some years ago.

Then we crossed the street to the City Fuel Company where Cousin John introduced me to Mrs. Katherine Ralston, the young lady coal dealer. I told her some one should give her a big write-up in the American Maga-zine, as I see lots of big business folks written up in it.

And since that time I have at last received a nice letter for this column from Cousin John, I have intend-ed letting him proof-read it, but have not. So if I have mis-copied it, it is my fault, and not his. Here is the letter: Cousin T. Moses:

You keep asking about Oak Hill homes—I can't go that far with you, but here is a story of "Tranquility," which is two-thirds of the distance towards "Oak Hill." Captain William Daniel was governor of Ayre, Scot-land, and later in 1664, he won an im-portant victory in Spain, leading the English army.

He moved 1669 to Middlesex County, Va. His descendants moved to Granville county, N. C. Of these, in 1760, Chesley Daniel and wife, Judith Christian, bought 1250 acres eight miles northwest of Oxford, on present Oak Hill road—which they named "Tranquility," after their Uncle Travis Daniel's home in Virginia.

The "Tranquility graveyard" is half a mile beyond the Puckett place and Frederick school on same side of the road, and here the above couple and many of their descendants are buried —also General Evans, of the Revolu-tionary Army.

Their home was just beyond the grave yard. This place was left to son James Daniel, who, with wife, Ann Venable, (seventh of fourteen children of Col. Nathaniel Venable of Revolutionary fame) lived at "Booker Place," east of Soudan. James Daniel owned "Waterloo" also, and after his death, his two sons drew straws, and son James got Waterloo near Stovall (of which place you have written), and son Nathaniel Chesley Daniel got Tranquility.

He built a new home west of the first place, where "Big Nat" Daniel now lives. He married, 1828, Nancy Bullock from Drewry, and had a large family.

Their oldest daughter married Joseph Morton, of whom I am mak-ing a separate story. Another daugh-ter, Sarah Virginia, married William H. Boyd, which is the Nat, Jim, John, Early etc. Boyd family of Townsville. Another daughter Frances Catherine married William C. Bullock, of near Stovall, and they are my mother's parents.

The farm was divided about 1870 and Nat B. Daniel got the home and land on west side of the road, and his son "Big Nat" lives there now.

Capt. George Daniel got land on east side of road, and started "Moun-tain View," where his son, John Dan-iel, now lives. Dr. Nat Daniel, of Ox-ford; Greighton Daniel, of Stovall, and others were raised here.

Capt. George Daniel got up a com-pany during the Civil War, who shot-ed him as their captain, and Clark's history has a record of "Captain Dan-iel waving his sword and urging his men forward in a battle."

John B. Watkins, Jr.

And let me say, "Many thanks!" for the nice letter.

A word about papa's condition, and

I will close. This is Wednesday morning. He seemed to get on as well as possible yesterday, although he is gradually growing weaker. He did not have a good night last night. Friends and kinsfolks have brought him many nice things to fix for him—chickens for soup, fruit juice, and other things, to drink. He does not eat any solid food.

T. MOSES JONES.

Bird Club to Meet

Members of the Henderson Bird Club were asked to meet in the garden of Mrs. A. J. Davis this even-ing at 8 o'clock.

Another War Would Make Times Worse

ian days and, in very discreet lan-guage, he advised investors to "hunt their holes"—for something was com-ing.

It came—with a bang!
Roosevelt got in and certainly re-lieved the situation somewhat—but times assuredly haven't remained so satisfactory subsequently.

It's astonishing to me that J. P. Morgan and his satellites didn't see what was impending. Why, at the Senate's banking and currency inves-tigation, subsequently, I heard them testify that they'd no notion the depression would be so serious.

Why! I, with only a few nickels to dicker with, had realized it.

Beware Another War!
If Woodrow Wilson had kept us out of the war, we still would have felt the subsequent economic backwash.

I think our times would be rotten anyway.

They will be, anyway, for world
reasons.
But, as between Republicans and Democrats, as between New and Old
Dealers?—hokey!
We'll have had world times for a
long while to come.
We'll have had world times for a
long while to come.
And worse, if we have another
World War.
