

Tulane-Carolina Game Draws Spotlight Again

Chapel Hill, Oct. 3.—Successive week-end games with two of football's elite in the South and East are the immediate objectives ahead of the Carolina eleven.

Tulane's mighty "Giants Of The South" pay their second visit to Chapel Hill in as many years Saturday to provide the feature of the Tar Heels' Homecoming festivities. On the following week-end North Carolina invades New York City for the third consecutive year to match the speed and skill with the formidable NYU Violets.

The Tulane-Carolina game will be the fourth between these traditional southern institutions. Each of the three preceding contests was close and colorful throughout. Carolina's 1922 South Atlantic champs invaded New Orleans and won a bitterly-contested affair 19-12. Two years ago the Tar Heels went into the Mardi Gras City and returned on the short end of a 21-7 count.

Last season Tulane took the long 1300 mile trek for the first time and was defeated 13-0. The 1937 Tar Heel team, which lost only to Fordham, displayed one of its best performances of the season and capitalized on the only two scoring opportunities the game presented.

Tulane's 1938 "Giants" are rated even heavier, smarter, and more powerful than last season's vaunted outfit. From end to end the Green Wave will average 203 pounds—15 more per man than the Tar Heels.

Captains Green Wave Of Tulane

Ray Miller, 207-pounder and one of the Southeastern Conference's leading tacklers, captains the Tulane team which meets Carolina at Chapel Hill Saturday in an outstanding Inter-Conference game. The contest is the ranking attraction of Carolina's annual Homecoming Day. Whatever it is Miller has it in plenty. A terror at piling up plays, he is a fast charger and an excellent blocker. Miller is alert and aggressive on offense and defense and has unshakable, iron-nerved poise.

Miller Changes Line, Davis Put In Backfield

Coach Bing Miller set about this afternoon to bolster the Henderson high school Bulldogs for their encounter with Mt. Airy there Friday night.

The mentor was not at all pleased with the showing the lads made in their 18-0 loss to Fuquay Springs here Friday afternoon.

The entire right side of the Bulldog line, including center, will undergo changes during the week. Miller says he will give Terry and Sanders a shot at center position, move Chick Stewart back into the line from the backfield, putting Jimmy Davis into the first string backfield. Guy Sumpter, the much shifted ball player, will be given a shot at right end, and the mentor will work several boys in other positions, hoping to uncover a combination that will work to suit him.

Mt. Airy has one of the best high school teams in the west, and the Bulldogs will have one of their toughest contests there.

DEACONS POINTING TO THE GAMECOCKS

Wake Forest, Oct. 3.—Wake Forest's rampaging Demon Deacons, with two days rest after their triumphant Citadel game in Charlotte last Friday night, settled down to serious business this afternoon without losing any time, preparing for the coming conference tilt with South Carolina's Gamecocks in Columbia, S. C., next Saturday afternoon.

Coach Peahead Walker and his assistants, Murray Greason and Tom Rogers of Wake Forest have said that they intend putting their boys through the hardest week of work-

Tuffy Is Still Lug 'Em

'Tuffy' Leemans

Heading the parade of stellar ball carriers for leadership in the National Football League is Tuffy Leemans, former stellar performer for George Washington U. Tuffy, now an ace performer with the New York Giants, will come back to his former scene of glory when he takes the field in Griffith Stadium on Sunday, October 9, against the championship Washington Redskins. This will be Tuffy's third season in professional football and he is staging a great return to the form which made him an outstanding performer in 1936, his first in the National League.

outs thus far this season, beginning with Monday's practice.

The Citadel's Light Brigade offered but little opposition to the fast traveling Wake Forest sophomores last week, and they will be out to continue their conference drive against the Gamecocks, although they will be the underdogs in the fray.

WOLFPACK TAKES ON ALABAMA SATURDAY

Raleigh, Oct. 3.—The N. C. State college Wolfpack this week engages the only Southeastern conference foe on its hard 1938 football schedule. The University of Alabama, eastern contender in the most recent Rose Bowl game, is that foe and the game will be played at Tuscaloosa, Ala., Saturday afternoon.

The Pack has had little or no time up to now to think about the Red Elephants of Alabama, for only last week did it get the all-important clash with the University of North Carolina behind it. Earlier in the season, with the hardest schedule in Wolfpack history starting the Wolfpack in the face Coach Newton instructed his boys to think about only one foe at the time.

Alabama and State will be meeting for the first time. The game will be the occasion of the Alabama grads' homecoming. It also will be sort of a homecoming for Coach Williams (Doc) Newton, who formerly coached freshman teams at Howard and Birmingham-Southern in nearby Birmingham.

Alabama has been touted as one of the leading contenders for the Southeastern conference championship and opened its season auspiciously with a victory over Southern California in Los Angeles.

While State is the decided underdog, its players are looking forward to the clash with the old fashioned Alabama glory-gusher that boasts such stars as Henry Mosley, who, in action, looks like the famous Dixie Howell. Charley Holm, brother of another Alabama all-America player (Tony Holm), George Zivich, Charley Boswell and Bill Slessoms are other backs with whom the Pack has to contend.

State will be outweighed considerably, therefore Newton is expected to depend on his trickiness, including his noted bootleg play.

er well-known stars of the big top. Others who will appear are Pitcher Buck Newsome of the St. Louis Browns, Mace Brown and Floyd Young of the Pittsburgh Pirates, Dusty Cooke and Lew Riggs of the Cincinnati Reds, Enos Slaughter of the St. Louis Cardinals and Chubby Dean of the Philadelphia Athletics.

Paul Dunlap, Jack Lindley, Buster Maynard and other minor league lights of the Tar Heel state will be included in the lineups. The teams will be managed by Jack Coombs and Bunn Horn, baseball coaches at Duke and the University of North Carolina.

The game is to be called at 3 o'clock and general admission will be 50 cents and grandstand 75 cents.

Feedstuff Market Firmer Past Week; Fruit Prices Low

Raleigh, Oct. 3.—Feedstuff markets strengthened further since last week's summary, according to the United States and North Carolina Departments of Agriculture. Inquiry for feedstuffs was a little more active and holders of supplies were asking higher prices. Production of wheat millfeeds was quite heavy but large quantities were applied on previous orders and market offerings were rather light on higher quotations. Cottonseed meal sold 1.00 per ton higher at southern markets. Linseed meal held steady. Most other feeds were firmer. The index of whole sale feedstuff prices advanced to 97.2 (1935-36-100) compared with 95.4, the week previous and 90.8 two weeks previous.

Fruit prices during the past week have continued relatively low, owing largely to weak consumer demand. Domestic demand for all fruits, however, is expected to show some improvement during the fall and winter as a result of prospective increases in consumer incomes. Foreign demand for United States fruits may be somewhat better than last season because of the relatively light fruit crops in England and most European countries.

THIS STATE LEADS IN OAT PRODUCTION

North Carolina produces nearly 5,000,000 bushels of oats each year, more than any other middle Atlantic State. Comparable figures for the 1937 crop, compiled by the United States Department of Agriculture, are as follows:

Acs. in Oats	Production
N. C.	230,000 4,830,000 bu.
Va.	80,000 1,680,000 bu.
W. Va.	76,000 1,530,000 bu.
Maryland	38,000 1,083,000 bu.

Although the average yield for the state was only 21 bushels per acre, this yield could have been increased materially if the seed had been treated before planting, and if the entire acreage had been sown with the improved variety known as Fulgrain, which made the highest yield in a state experiment station test, 94.1 bushels per acre, while Fulgrain, the most popular local variety, yielded 60.9 bushels per acre.

WARNS ALL HOMES OF FIRE HAZARDS

Premises Should Be Inspected Before Heating Is Started

College Station, Raleigh, Oct. 3.—Approaching winter brought a warning today from D. S. Weaver, extension agricultural engineer at State College, that every rural family should inspect its home for fire hazards.

Of the known causes of fire, eight are responsible for almost 85 per cent of all farm fire losses. They are: defective chimneys and flues, sparks on combustible roofs, lightning, spontaneous combustion, careless use of matches and smoking; careless use of gasoline and kerosene; defective and improperly installed stoves and furnaces; and faulty wiring and misuse of electrical appliances.

Weaver pointed out that fire loss on farms amounted to approximately $90,000,000 and 3,500 lives in 1937, or practically one-third of the fire loss sustained for the entire United States.

In order to bring focus on the importance of checking hazards, the week of October 9-15 has been set aside as Fire Prevention Week. The entire country will join in observing fire precautions and aiding in other ways to make homes safer from fire.

Most fires can be prevented, Weaver said, if home owners will make a systematic check of their homes and farm buildings. When fire hazards are detected, they should be remedied at once.

Because of the lack of fire-fighting facilities in rural areas, flames invariably consume whole dwellings once they get started. This is all the more reason why rural people should be extra cautious in preventing fires.

Weaver pointed out that farmers and others living in rural communities may secure information on the elimination of fire hazards and the fighting of fires by writing to State College or to the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Electric Co-Op Will Organize

Daily Dispatch Bureau, In the Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, Oct. 3.—Dudley Bagley, director of the State Rural Electrification Authority, plans to get the rural electric cooperatives of the state together to form a statewide association of co-ops.

Efforts are already under way to hold a meeting in Raleigh at which representatives of the seven cooperatives now operating, or almost ready to operate, rural systems will form such an organization.

Primary purpose of the proposed statewide association of cooperatives would be the exchange of information and full discussion of the various problems which have confronted the various groups.

Mr. Bagley is also planning together meetings of private utility companies and of municipalities which are interested in rural electrification.

Plans are not yet definite enough to fix any precise dates for these meetings, but the REA head is hopeful they can be held sometime within the next month or two.

He is primarily concerned with the cooperatives, whose heads are not as experienced in operation of electrical systems as are those of the private companies and the municipalities.

The seven cooperatives which are to be invited to attend the session are Caldwell, Rutherford, Pitt, Wilson, Tarboro, Sampson and the Farms Security Administration project in Halifax.

Other cooperatives, when and as formed, will be invited to join any association which is perfected, Mr. Bagley said.

EXPERIMENT STATION WILL ASK INCREASE

College Station, Raleigh, Oct. 3.—The North Carolina Experiment Station will request the governor's advisory budget committee for an additional $2,735 yearly during the next biennium to meet demands for increased agricultural research in the State, I. O. Schaub, director, revealed today.

Present income of the Experiment Station from State sources amounts to $5,000 from the general fund for apple research; $26,350 from the agricultural fund; and an estimated $14,200 from miscellaneous receipts.

If the increase is granted, Dean Schaub explained, it will provide the necessary offset of $128,285 in Federal funds authorized under the Bankhead-Jones Act.

VAND' MEER COMING TO DURHAM SUNDAY

Southpaw Hurler To Pitch In All-Star Game At Durham Athletic Park

Durham, Oct. 3.—(Special)—Diamond fans of North Carolina will be able to witness one of the few post-season appearances of Pitcher Johnny VanderMeer of the Cincinnati Reds. The stellar southpaw who made baseball history during the 1938 campaign by pitching two consecutive no-hit games in the National League, will hurl in an all-star game to be staged at Durham Athletic park here, Sunday October 9.

VanderMeer, whose services have been in great demand for post-season engagements, turned down two offers to appear on the above date in order to re-visit the scene of his former triumphs.

The rosy-cheeked Hollander was an ace with the Durham Bulls of the Piedmont League in 1936 and he accepted the Durham date because it offered the opportunity to visit his many friends in this section.

The sensational young pitcher will not be the only attraction, for the two teams which have been recruited for the clash list names of many oth-
