ANNOUNCEMENT

TIDE OF TAILS.

Alice Gertrude Field.
Oh look, there's a ripple Far back in that tree,
A singular stipple—Why, what can it be?

There's an undulant flicker
Of light and of dark,
And something moves quicker Than eye, on the bark.

As by waves of the ocean
The trunk has been stirred,
Not shadows in motion,
Nor is it a bird.

But now there's a plopping Of beaks, furry-gray.
The squirrels are dropping;
The tide flows away.

Missionary Groups Hear Miss Josephine Dameron

The Lucy Closs Parker Missionary Society of the First Methodist church met in extraordinary session in the church auditorium on Monday afternoon, with Miss Josephine Dameron, missionary in Korea, as guest speaker. Circle No. 1 of the society of which Mrs. Mary Green is chairman, arranged to present the topic of monthly study, "Bringing Christ to Korea" in a very special way.
Invitations were sent to all the women's church auxiliaries in Henderson and the immediate section to attend the meeting. The response was gratifying, with every church in Henderson being represented: Women's Auxiliary of the Episcopal church, those of the Baptist, Presbyterian, and Methodist Protestant coming in groups from their own abbreviated meetings. There were representatives from the North and South Henderson churches and the Christian church; the auxiliaries of Flank Chapel, Shocc, Middleburg, Flat Rock, and Trinity church were represented, with a large group coming from Louisiana.
The church was beautifully decorated with handsome dahlias from the gardens of Mrs. W. P. Gholson and Mrs. S. T. Peace. The exhibit of Korean curios was arranged about the chancel.
Mesdames Mary Green, R. S. Johnson, J. W. Sanders, R. E. Powell, C.
G. Patterson, and Miss Rosa Long Thomas welcomed the visiting women, and served as ushers. Mrs. John Lee Wester, president of the hostess auxiliary, presided, and Mrs. G. W.
Holden, organist, played several selections as the women assembled.
After the opening hymn, "From All That Dwell Below the Skies," Mrs.
A. B. Deans offered prayer. Mrs. F.
E. Roberts read the Scripture lesson, taken from Matthew 25:31-46. Mrs. F.
M. Barnhart closed the worship service with a beautiful prayer in song, "I Do Not Ask, O Lord."
The special guest of the afternoon, Miss Josephine Dameron, of Seoul, Korea, since 1927 a teacher of music in Ewha college, the only college for girls in Korea, was introduced by Mrs.
Wester as "our neighbor from Warrenton."
Miss Dameron, by way of introducing her Korean people, had a boy and girl come to the platform dressed in the colorful native costume, Frank Robards, Jr., and Martha Jane New-comb, being the young impersonators.
With them as "local color," Miss Dameron gave interesting sidelights on the Korean home, the family life, child life, their customs and manners in general.
She thrilled her audience with her recital of her own work in Ewha college, stressing the passionate love of the Korean for music and for beauty, however expressed. She told of their culture, reaching back authentically for more than 2,000 years. She showed a picture of the wall city of Seoul, a city of 140,000 people, saying the wall, 50 feet wide, was built before Columbus discovered America. She vividly pictured this country, with its 25 million people, owned and governed by Japan since 1910, as a needy and fruitful field of service.

At the close of her informative and inspirational talk, she paid special tribute to the work of the Henderson auxiliary in having for ten years or more, contributed so generously to the support of the leper colony in Korea. This work was very dear to the heart of Mrs. H. W. Tucker, for so long president of the society. As a memorial to her, Miss Dameron presented to the society a beautiful standing brass candle stick, hand made and hammered. It stands four feet high, having a reflector engraved with Korean characters. Mrs. Wester received this gift, with grateful appreciation for the society.
The meeting closed with singing "From All the Dark Places," followed by prayer and benediction by Miss Dameron.

TEMPERATURE GOES DOWN MUCH LOWER

Old Man Winter bit just a little harder Monday night than on Sunday night, and minimum temperatures dropped to 37 degrees three or four below the night before, according to the official Weather Bureau report by H. L. Allen, observer. The day's maximum temperature was 64 degrees, about the same as that for Sunday. It didn't feel as cold Monday night as the night before, but things are like that. It was apparently just a matter of getting used to it.
