ANNOUNCEMENT

IN THE HIGH SIERRA.

This is a still and silent world to-night. The snow has muted every sound: the trees like wreaths are covered in a winter shroud: their forms disguised and unfamiliar stand as those who breathless wait on some event: While all around like giant sentinels terrific mountains guard this solitude and far above, beyond the highest peak, A pageantry of stars parades the sky. Gwen Castle.

THE LONG VIEW.

The opened door showed night as night is said to be: A mystery as great as earth's immensity. We gazed into the dark and named it by its name and saw it melt away— We saw the darkness river, The light of stars display Remembered heaven. John Ritchey.

Wall, Mrs. Judson Knott, Mrs. E. B. Taylor, Miss Judith Boyd, Mrs. S. R. Adams, Mrs. Henry B. White, Mrs. W. J. Alston, Mrs. K. L. Burton, Mrs. H. M. Robinson, Miss Pauline Edwards, Miss Dare

Wyatt, Miss Clyde Hunter, Miss Alma Kimball, Miss Sallie Lou Davis, Miss Gladys Asbury, Miss Katherine Baxter, and Miss Sue Hunt Boyd, and Mrs. W. M. Young. After several progressions, Miss Alma Kimball was awarded prize for high score and the honor prize. Mrs. White's gift was silver, and bud vases were given to Mrs. Young. Mrs. Katherine Baxter, also an honor guest, was presented salad plates by the hostesses. A dainty ice course, of white ices containing red hearts, and fancy decorated cakes, was served to the guests.

Bryan-Allen Vows Are Spoken This Afternoon

An outstanding social event of the late winter will take place this afternoon, when Miss Katherine Celine Allen becomes the bride of James Harry Bryan, Jr. The ceremony will be performed at the First Presbyterian church at 5 o'clock, with Rev. James A. Jones officiating. Mrs. J. B. Martin will have charge of the wedding music, with Mrs. James P. E. Connell and Master David Mangum singing solos.

Miss Allen has chosen as her attendants Mrs. Arthur J. Garick, Jr., of Columbia, S. C., who will be dame of honor; Miss Sadie B. Boyd, of Raleigh, and Miss Mary Crawford, of Columbia, S. C., as bridesmaids. Mr. Bryan will be attended by his brother, William Y. Bryan, as best man, and the groomsmen will be Benjamin T. Gunter, Jr., of Accomac,

Pre-Nuptial Affairs Given For Miss Allen

Mrs. John Pearson Harris, of Oxford, and Mrs. Benjamin T. Gunter, Jr., of Accomac, Virginia, entertained the Bryan-Allen wedding party and out-of-town guests at a luncheon here today, preceding the ceremony. The guests, other than the bridal party who were seated at the bride's table, found their places at individual tables by attractive place cards carrying out the bridal motif. The white centerpiece at the bride's table was of carnations, alium, lilies, and fern. Each of the small tables was centered with an arrangement of white flowers in silver vases. A three-course luncheon was served to about thirty guests. Last night, immediately following the marriage rehearsal, Mrs. James M. Young and Mrs. James P. E. Connell were hostesses to the wedding party and out-of-town guests, at their home on Garnett street.

The two living rooms were decorated with baskets of red gladioli and vases of red carnations. In the dining room, a beautiful handmade lace cloth covered the table, on which a three-tiered bridal cake was used as the central arrangement. Two three-branched silver candelabra holding burning tapers were placed at the ends of the table. An arrangement of carnations and sweetpeas was on the sideboard, and the mantel, banked with evergreens, held fuchsias. The hostesses served ice cream in bridal molds decorated cakes, and nuts. During the evening the bride's cake was cut. About sixty guests were present for the entertainment.

Townsville Club Meeting Is Held

The February meeting of the Townsville Garden club was held with Mrs. E. B. Taylor Thursday morning at 11 o'clock. Mrs. S. R. Adams presided over the session. February 22 was set as the date for the tree planting of dogwood, redbud, and mimosa, on the Townsville highway. Each member has been instructed to take four trees, and have them planted. The Little Theatre group of Raleigh wants the North Carolina Garden clubs to contribute bulbs, shrubs, roses, and other flowers. The Townsville club will send theirs on February 25. Mrs. Judson Knott was appointed to attend the conference February 17 of the North Carolina Garden club, in Raleigh. The resignation of Mrs. Louis Taylor from the club was accepted with regrets. During the program, Thomas Fox played selections on his violin, accompanied by Mrs. W. B. Barry. Mrs. E. B. Taylor read a paper on "Interesting Legend of Flowers," followed by an instructive talk by Mrs. J. K. Plummer on "Believe it or not in the plant world." Mrs. Knott read a very appropriate poem which was composed by Mrs. J. P. Kimball for the meeting. Guests for the afternoon were Mrs. Sam Peace, Mrs. S. B. Furwel, Mrs. J. H. Brodie, Mrs. R. T. Upchurch, of Henderson, and Miss Ailyn Taylor, of Townsville. The hostess served a delicious salad plate to the club members and guests.

Payne Speaks Before West End P.-T. A. Body

Prof. W. D. Payne, principal of the Henderson high school, was the chief speaker Thursday night at the annual Fathers' Night program of West End Parent-Teacher association, held at the school. His subject was the cooperation of the home and the school in the training of the child. The speaker cited retarding influences in this cooperation. He said the schools attempted to teach the children the rights of others, the respect for property of others and of the school, and an appreciation of the training they receive. He deplored smoking and drinking by parents in the presence of children as an unwholesome influence, and stressed the instruction of the child in the proper attitude toward his home, the school and the community. The meeting was presided over by Mrs. L. T. Harris, president of the association. Several numbers were given by a quartette consisting of G. W. Knott, Jr., Miss Elizabeth Shaw, Mrs. Charles Sellars and George Harrison, accompanied at the piano by Miss Margaret Candler. The invocation was by Miss Sue Kelly, principal of the school. Mrs. Harris presented Mr. Payne, and at the conclusion of his address, comments were made by Miss Kelly and others. Mrs. L. D. Wall, district chairman of the P.-T. A., called attention to the fact that a dinner is to be held in Raleigh next week in honor of the president of the national association president, and urged as many as possible to attend. She also urged the association to strive toward attainment of State recognition and Mrs. Harris said the only remaining requirement was the conduct of a study class, which is to start next week. The meeting was largely attended by fathers as well as mothers.

BEEKEEPERS HOPING FOR BETTER SEASON

College Station, Raleigh, Feb. 11.—Beekeepers of North Carolina are hoping 1939 won't be as wet in the mountain and upper Piedmont counties and as hot and dry in Eastern North Carolina as in 1938. Yes, beekeepers are troubled by wet and dry seasons just like any other farmers, says C. L. Sams, apiarist of the State College Extension service. Too much moisture, or not enough, affects the flow of nectar from honey-producing plants, and nectar is fundamental in honey production. Because 1938 was for the most part unfavorable, the honey production in the state last year was only about 50 percent of a normal yield.

HAY FOR SALE MADE BY PERSON FARMER

Roxboro, Feb. 11.—North Carolina farmers will not only stop buying hay from other states, but will produce it as a cash crop if they follow the advice of B. G. Crompton, of the A. Leno section of Person county. H. K. Sanders, county farm agent of the State College Extension Service, reports that Mr. Crompton sold 408 bales of hay at $1 per bale from a 15-acre field he treated with lime and superphosphate for two years. This was in addition to about 20 tons of unbaled hay stored in his barns. The cost of seed, labor, lime and superphosphate was $150 for the two-year period, and the 408 bales produced in 1938 cost 10 cents a bale, or $40.80, to have baled.
