BEAUTIFUL SPRING.

The time has now come
When the robin has returned to sing
And bring glad tidings
Of the opening of spring.
The little violets are peeping out
And pushing back their winter dome.
Now it seems that they are just beginning
To live in their new spring home.
We also see tulips and buttercups
As they fill the air with spring,
As it seems to bring new life
To every living thing.
Can you imagine a better time
To get out and enjoy your play?
Why not go out of doors in the sun
And enjoy a lovely spring day.

You're missing something, my friend
Whether you are young or old,
So go out in the breezy winds
For every minute's valuable as gold.
Ramble around in the woods and watch
The robin and the wren as they sing.
Watch the blooming of the wild flowers
And the change of every living thing.
I like to wander out in the woods
And by the rippling brook;
There to watch the little fish
As they swim by every nook.
Everything seems to be happy
Like the butterfly with the golden wing
As he goes fluttering around
Decorating spring.

You could take off just a little while
Without leaving out anything.
So why not go out just one time
And enjoy beautiful spring.

Tobacco Now Being Set In Border Belt

College Station, Raleigh April 21.—Tobacco transplanting is expected to go into high gear this week in the border counties, and scattered settings will begin as far north as Pitt and Wilson counties, Dr. Luther Shaw, plant pathologist of the State College Extension Service, said today.
Transferring of plants from the bed to the field began in the border counties of Columbus and Robeson two weeks ago, but the work did not become general until last week. This week these southern counties will hit their stride unless delayed by adverse weather conditions. Blue mold has become widespread throughout the Border and New Bright Belts, Dr. Shaw said. Although serious damage was done in plant beds struck early, the disease will not seriously curtail transplanting.
"Most of the reports which have been issued on the ravages this disease have probably been exaggerated," the State College man said. "Earlier in the season frost bite injury was commonly mistaken for mold."
Where gassing treatments have been used properly, the mold has not only been checked, but the infected plants have been cured, Dr. Shaw declared. Benzol and paradichlorobenzene have been the two agents used in gassing plant beds. "One of the reasons why a few of the growers who used these gas-liberating substances failed to obtain complete control was their use of ordinary covering on the bed," Dr. Shaw explained. "To get positive results, a cover about the weight of dead sheeting is necessary."

Completion Of Parkway Aided

Daily Dispatch Bureau, In the Sir Walter Hotel.
Raleigh, April 21.—Action of the United States Senate in adding a million to the proposed parkway appropriation, which would make available $3,500,000 for construction work on the Blue Ridge Parkway has boosted hopes in official circles here that the entire route can and will be completed before 1945, the date which has been tentatively accepted as likely.
Fate of the increase in the House, which must accept the Senate amendment in order to make the full sum available, will be watched with more than a little interest because of the fact that the Parkway, when completed, will be travelled annually by an estimated 2,000,000 people, with North Carolina sharing bountifully in the business bound to result from such traffic. More than 700,000 persons visited the Great Smoky Mountain national park last year, and completion of the Parkway is expected to treble that figure at a conservative estimate.
Whatever the fate of the appropriation increase, however, it is safe to forecast that the parkway should be completed all the way through Virginia and as far west as Asheville in North Carolina by the summer of 1940, or 1941 at the very latest.

The route will extend from Front Royal, in Virginia, to the Great Smoky Park and will be between 480 and 500 miles in length when finished. Virginia and North Carolina will share almost equally in the mileage. At present about 160 miles have been completed in Virginia including the Sky Line drive.
In North Carolina, 128 miles either have been constructed or are under construction. The section from the Virginia line to Deep Gap, about 60 miles, has been graded and surfacing work should be completed by July 1, the latest Highway Commission detour bulletin estimates.

The man at the next desk says the only commendable feature of the latest college craze is that, at last, it gives the goldfish some privacy.
