

Courtesy Car Will Warn Of Violations

If you're double parking on Garnett street on Friday and a voice comes out of nowhere and says, "Do not double park!", don't be surprised! The voice will be coming from a Courtesy Crusader car loaned to the police department to help rid the streets of discourteous drivers.

The sound car, cream colored, with a red streamline around the body, is loaned to the city by O. T. Kirkland and B. P. Rose, agents for Shell Oil Company, Inc., in connection with a courteous-driving crusade being conducted from coast to coast. One of the local police officers will ride in the car and broadcast traffic violations to those motorists who are not driving with the consideration of others in mind.

"We are conducting this crusade," says Kirkland, "to rid the streets and highways of 'screwdrivers' whose discourtesies are responsible for 25 per cent of needless stop and go driving. When these thoughtless and discourteous drivers, who double park, turn from wrong lane, park on an angle and beat traffic lights, are removed, the courteous driver will save up to 25 per cent of his driving cost."

The Shell dealers in Henderson are serving as the headquarters for the Share-the-road club, and will supply free metal car emblems and membership cards to all local motorists who signify their intention to use common courtesy in their driving.

LEWIS CIO INVADES AFL BUILDING FIELD

Washington, July 26.—(AP)—CIO Leader John L. Lewis today invaded the building construction field, long dominated by powerful and closely-knit building trades unions of the American Federation of Labor.

In a formal statement, Lewis announced that he would organize a new industrial union among the 3,000,000 wage earners he estimated were in the industry.

His move, which may bring the CIO and AFL into bitter conflict on a new front, will be carried out by an organizing committee headed by his brother, A. D. Lewis, and a staff of some of the top ranking CIO leaders.

The new unit will be known as the United Construction Workers Organizing committee. Besides A. D. Lewis, the staff will include Philip Murray, CIO vice-president and chief of the steel workers organization; James B. Carey, president of the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers union; R. J. Thomas, head of CIO's United Auto Workers union, and Dalrymple, president of the United Rubber Workers union.

"The aim," John L. Lewis said, "will be to organize all construction workers into a powerful industrial union which will abolish the many evils and abuses that have beset the industry in the past and improve wages and working conditions of all those employed in it."

"Special provisions will be made by the committee for the elimination of unauthorized strikes, jurisdictional disputes and lockouts, and the peaceful adjudication of labor disputes."

Lewis estimated that out of the 3,000,000 workers in the construction industry, less than one-third had been organized by the AFL.

His invasion of the construction field was regarded as highly significant since some of his strongest opponents within the AFL are the leaders of the building trades unions. The move was considered a blow to chances for any early settlement of the long war between CIO and AFL.

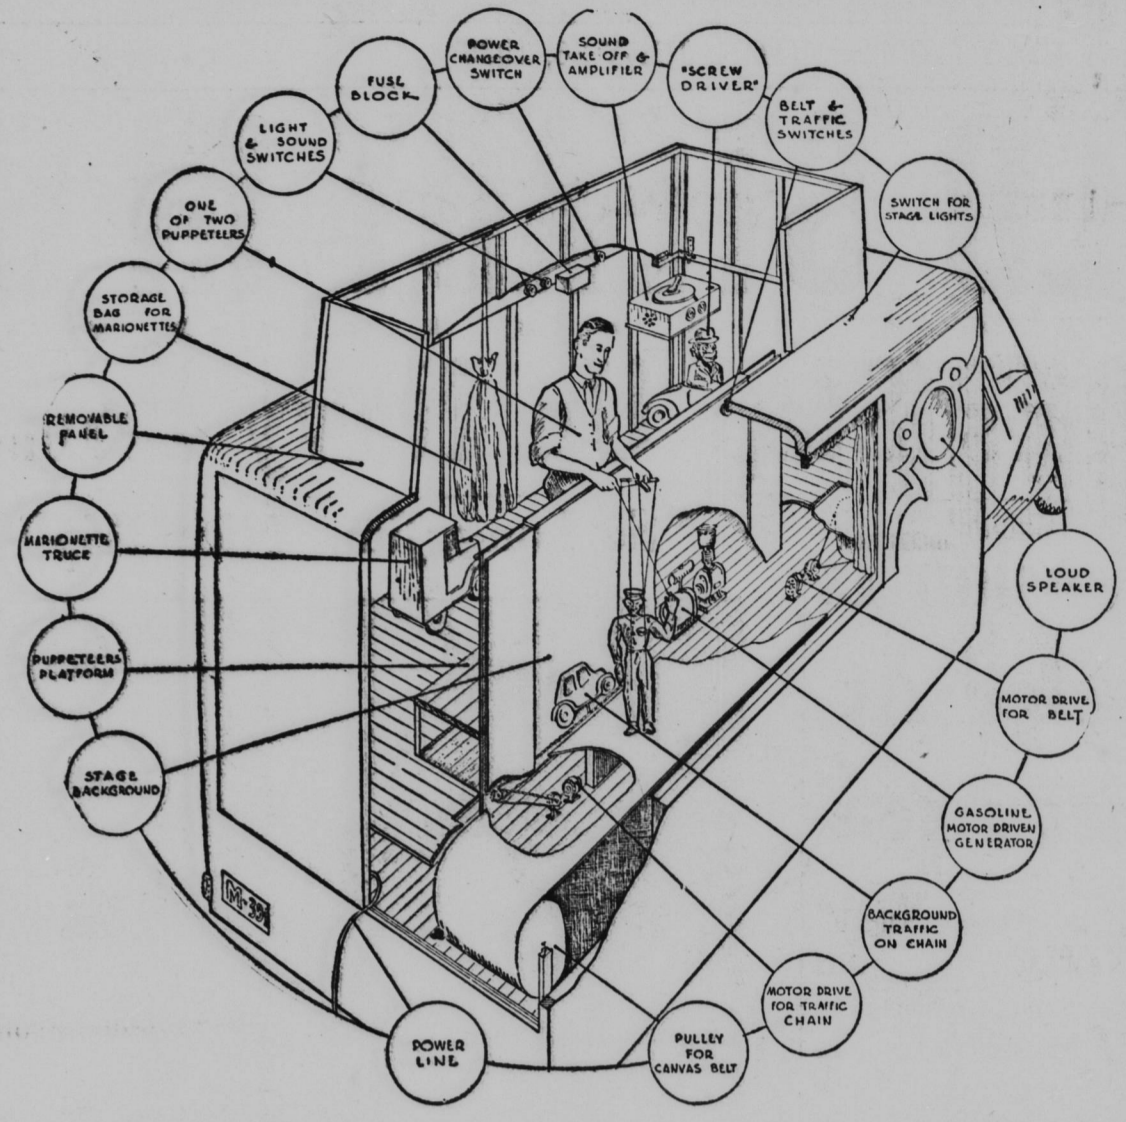

LEAVES WORLD FAIR TO PLOW HIS CORN
New York, July 26.—The world of tomorrow may be important in New York, but Indian corn is still the staff of life on the Cherokee Reservation in North Carolina.

That's why Paul Lambert, a member of the Cherokee tribe, and one of the attendants at the North Carolina Exhibit at the World's Fair, begged a brief leave of absence the other day. Lambert, who is called "chief" by his fellow attendants, had been squinting at the summer sky and restlessly pacing the exhibit for some days.

When he came back to work last week, it was learned that he had arrived at his In an farm on the previous Tuesday morning at 7 o'clock, climbed aboard his tractor, and worked his corn crop 14 hours a day until 7:30 Saturday night.

Back in New York Monday he said his 100-acres of corn looked fair to middling now.

Indict Desperado For Kidnaping And Slaying Hamilton

Chicago, July 26.—(AP)—Oliver Lawrence Dressler, alias Jack Russell, Oklahoma desperado, was indicted by a Federal grand jury today for kidnaping and murdering William Scott Hamilton, of Arkansas City, Kans.

The indictment was returned before Judge James H. Wilkerson, almost simultaneously with an announcement in McAlester, Okla., by Warden J. Dunn that Russell had confessed killing Hamilton.

Seven counts were contained in the indictment. Each charged a separate offense in connection with Russell's alleged seizure of Hamilton at Pittsburg, Kans., on July 12, and his transportation to Ringwood, Ill., McHenry county. The indictment accused Russell of shooting Hamilton to death at Ringwood July 14.

The counts covered kidnaping, forcible detention, transportation and crossing of state lines in a stolen automobile incident to abduction and alleged murder.

14 Suffer In Blast Blamed on Irish Army

Hoare's dramatic recital of the "terrorist plans" in the House of Commons, set off a lunch-time panic in the King's Cross station of the London and Northeastern Railroad.

Broken glass and litter were blown over an area nearly 40 yards square. A check-room attendant had his hand mangled. Three customers, two of them women, and two other employees felt the full force of the blast.

Scores of checked suitcases and parcels were torn apart and their contents scattered.

The force of the explosion was felt several hundred yards from the check room, reaching out to the station platforms and to parked automobiles in the streets.

Police believe the bomb was planted in a parcel or a suitcase checked in the station.

MORE DATA FOUND ON 'LOST COLONY'

Gainesville, Ga., July 26.—(AP)—Possible solution of one of the major mysteries of American history was announced today by two college authorities who reported discovery of stones which record the fate of the famed "Lost Colony" of Roanoke.

Dr. H. J. Pearce, president of Brenau college, and his son, Dr. H. J. Pearce, Jr., professor of history at Emory university, reported 13 stones found near Greenville, S. C., tell of the burial of 64 members of the lost colony.

The stones, bearing the dates 1589, 1590 and 1591, relate that Sir Walter Raleigh's lost colonists travelled about 350 miles southwest from the North Carolina coast and established a graveyard and apparently a camp or stockyard. They remained there two years.

Discovery of these 13 stones in its with similar discoveries which purportedly unfold events in connection with the disappearance of the lost colony and the birth of Virginia Dare, first white child born in America.

The Drs. Pearce said they wished to state that "no claims are being made as to the authenticity of stones. They are still under investigation."
