

UNC Coaching School Opens For Sunday Next Monday

Chapel Hill, Aug. 19.—The University of North Carolina's 13th annual Coaching School will open here Monday with indications for a large and representative enrollment.

The list of the instructional staff had come in today, including Coach Ray Wolf who has just returned from Texas, where he handled the football camp in the Texas High School Football Coaches Association school, and everything was in readiness for the opening Monday.

Registration will be held at the office of the secretary, E. R. Rankin, in South Building, Monday morning, and classes will start promptly at 1 o'clock.

Robert A. Fetzer, Director of Athletics at North Carolina, will serve as Director of the School, which drew a record attendance last year of 125 coaches, representing 16 states, Cuba and Canada.

The program for the first week will be devoted to classes and drills in football, training and conditioning, and boxing and wrestling. The second week will be given over to basketball and track.

Coach Vaught has also just returned from Texas, where he assisted Mr. Wolf in the Texas coaching school, and helped coach one of the All-Star High School teams for the annual game which climaxes the school, and which ended this year in a 6-6 tie after a thrilling contest.

Two Contests For Sunday

Baseball fans will be given their choice of two games Sunday afternoon with Epsom playing Pilot at Epsom, and the Greystone Rockies being at home to a Ca-Vel team. The starting times are 3:30 o'clock.

The Epsom-Pilot contest is a Tri-County league engagement.

The Rockies and Epsom have strong ball club, and good contests are expected.

Williamsburg Has Visitors From All Of the 48 States

Williamsburg, Aug. 19.—Each of the forty-eight states, the District of Columbia and twenty-nine foreign countries were represented in registrations at the Governor's Palace during July, according to an announcement today at the offices of the Williamsburg Restoration.

Excluding Virginia, the first ten states ranked as follows: Pennsylvania, New York, Ohio, District of Columbia, North Carolina, New Jersey, Maryland, Georgia and Texas.

As an indication of a greater volume of traffic from southern and southwestern states is the fact that the next group includes Alabama, Florida, South Carolina and Tennessee with substantial representation from California, Missouri and Indiana.

England led the registrations from foreign countries. This group also included visitors from Canada, Hawaii, Scotland, China, Africa Australia, Germany and Sweden.

GREENSBORO COLLEGE GETS MUSIC TEACHER

Greensboro, Aug. 19.—Miss Alia Josephine Ross, of 903 West Market street, Greensboro, has been chosen as instructor in public school music in Greensboro college, and will begin her duties at the opening of the next scholastic year on September 4. The announcement of Miss Ross' appointment was made by Dr. Luther L. Gobbel, president of the college, who stated that Miss Ross would succeed Miss Frances F. Fields, of Nebraska City, Nebraska.

Miss Ross holds the B. M. degree from Greensboro college and M. A. from Teachers college, Columbia University. She has also done summer school work in the Woman's college of the University of North Carolina, Kansas University, in the Teachers College Music Seminar in Europe in 1937, and at the Christiansen Choral school in 1938.

45 Hopefuls Get Football Call At UNC

Chapel Hill, Aug. 19.—The coveted call to return for early practice went out this week to 45 candidates for the University of North Carolina's 1939 football team.

The two score hopefuls will gather here the first of September to start the race for prized berths—starting and relief—on the 1939 eleven, which opens against The Citadel here September 23.

Coach Ray Wolf will be beginning his fourth season here.

The number to receive the early practice call included a veteran nucleus of 12 lettermen, covering every position except right halfback.

Tar Heel supporters are expecting a team about as strong as last year's which won six games, lost two, and tied one. However, the off-season loss of Dan Desich, Walter Palanske and Jim Leaming has created some knotty problems around guard and tackle.

The consensus seems to be that as the guards get tackled develop, so will go the Tar Heels. The ends appear to be well fortified, center adequate, and the backfield fast and versatile, though not heavy.

The list of leading prospects to receive the early practice call follows:

Fullback: Sid Sadoff, Harry Dunke, Charlie Idol.

Vance County Weekly Extension News

Sponsored by J. W. Sanders, County Agent; J. T. Richardson, Assistant County Agent; and Hattie F. Plummer, Home Demonstration Agent.

Land-scaping and yard beautification have been the theme of the week's work. Mr. John Harris, Extension Landscape Specialist from State College, was in the county for three days drawing up yard plans and advising men and women about planting. This was furthering our major project for the year, which will be carried through 1940. Plans for fourteen yards were made during the three days.

On Thursday afternoon Mr. Harris held a county meeting at the Middleburg Community House on landscaping the home yard. "Each individual plant," he said, "should be planted for a definite purpose. It should meet one of these five requirements:

1. Foundation planting, to tie the house to the yard.
2. Forming boundaries and separating areas.
3. Screening, to shut out undesirable views.
4. Shade trees.
5. Corner planting.

If each plant does not answer one of these five purposes it is out of place. How does your plant arrangement measure up?

According to Mr. Harris the three fundamentals that are absolutely essential for all yards are: underpinning the house, a good lawn, and shade trees.

Mr. Harris also discussed lawns, explaining the preparation of the soil that is necessary before sowing the seed and giving proportions of seed mixture suitable for various regions. He advised those interested in this subject to write to him for the pamphlet entitled "Better Lawns in North Carolina". One point that was particularly stressed was that it is an erroneous idea that grass, especially Italian Rye, allowed to grow up in tall shoots, withers, and dies, leaving no grass for the next year. Grass should be cut as soon as it is high enough to be cut with the mower set at high. The more often it is cut the thicker the grass becomes and the heavier the turf.

A few of the subjects in this phase of study which will be taken up next year by the home demonstrations clubs will be pruning of shrubs, insects and plant diseases, outdoor living rooms, pools, rock gardens, and plant identification.

Hay Should Be Cut At "Just Right Time"

No phase of farming requires better timing than the cutting of hay. Much of the hay being fed in North Carolina is of low quality, and has a correspondingly low nutritive value, often due to being cut in the wrong stage of growth.

The proper time to cut hay crops is when the greatest quantity of digestible nutrients can be obtained. With most crops, the percentage of leanness and protein content are highest soon after the plant begins to bloom. A little later the protein moves toward the seed, the stems become woody, and the leaves next to the ground begin to fall.

The best time to cut lespedeza is when the crop is about one-half in bloom; soybeans, when the pods are well-informed and the seed are about one-half developed; cowpeas, when the first pods begin to yellow; and small grain crops such as wheat, barley, and oats, when in late bloom or the early milk stage.

The grasses, such as sudan and millet should be cut in the early bloom stage. The blooming period of these grasses is short and a few days delay in cutting may result in a coarse, stemmy, unpalatable hay.

Weeds and other foreign materials is usually the result of a poor stand of hay crops. Heavy seeding, therefore, is one of the first essentials in producing good hay. Thin stands promote a growth of a coarse stemmed hay in which there is a high percentage of waste when it is fed.

Value of Turning Under Legumes. An average growth of legumes turned under will add to the soil the equivalent of 500 to 750 pounds of nitrate of soda per acre, or 1,400 to 2,000 pounds of cottonseed meal. This is substantially true whether the seed are harvested or the entire plant turned under.

If legumes which have been inoculated are plowed under, the organic matter of the soil will be increased by the tons of dry material turned in, and the nitrogen by about 40 pounds for each ton of dry material (roots, stems, leaves, etc.) added to the soil.

This means an addition to the soil of the equivalent of 250 pounds of nitrate of soda, or about 700 pounds of cottonseed meal, for each ton of dry material. A good growth of legumes turned under should supply at least two or three tons of dry organic matter.

When legume crops are removed from the soil for hay or otherwise, the best that can be done would be to about maintain the original nitrogen reserves of the soil, and sustain a loss of the phosphoric acid and potash that would require, in the case of soybeans, applications of 50 pounds of 1 per cent superphosphate and 53 pounds of 50 per cent muriate of potash, for each ton of material removed.

The replacements of phosphoric acid and potash required in the case of other legumes removed would not be any less than soybeans, in most cases more.

Barter Theatre Is In Seventh Season At Abingdon, Va.

Abingdon, Va., Aug. 19.—Robert Porterfield's Barter Theatre is nearing the end of its seventh summer season. Started seven years ago with a small group of actors who were willing to trade their talents for whatever barter patrons had to offer, this theatre has grown to a group of more than eighty actors and technicians, with three companies that troupe the surrounding towns and present a new show in Abingdon each week. At some time during the summer Porterfield manages to try out several experimental plays, to produce new plays by American authors and even to encourage the writing of theater pieces by the members of his company. Costume design and scene painting is, of course, an integral part of every Barter summer program.

"This year 'susquenanna 7' and 'We'll take the Highroad' were new plays tried out, the latter having already been bought by Max Gordon for production this fall in New York. 'Henry IV' represents this season's fling at Shakespeare, while 'Lady Baltimore' is the summer's contribution to the field of music, being an opera by Fred Stewart who wrote the music for 'Everywhere I Roam' which will be repeated against this year.

Barter offers a variety of activities and opportunities to young actors, for each play is the responsibility of every member of the group.

Rain Washes Out Softball

Rain played havoc with the softball schedule in the city league during the past week, and what days could be played, some of the teams failed to muster enough strength to fill out a team, and forfeits were a rule for the week.

Not a regularly scheduled game was played during the entire week, the last of the schedule.

The Gro-Swifts, winner of the first half hunting, coasted through to cop the second half, resulting in no playoff.

There has been some talk in the softball circles of a series between the Gro-Swifts and an all-star aggregation.

Fugitive Lepke the Leopard seems to keep one jump ahead of the cops. Proving that he not only changes his spots but does it fast.
