IMPERSONATOR CATBIRD.
Theodora Bates Cogswell, whose actor in the leaves is he, shows a slender shape through outwardly a slender shape that slips from shade to sun.

By turns he feigns an oriole, a grosbeak, or a thrush. Perching from dawn to dusk a-swing on the branch of lilac-bush.

He whistles charm the weary air from August's rays beat down—never through his sweetest lilt an undernote of clown.

Amused, and mischievous, He does this role or that—But always, when the rain descends, He mew—just wet, gray cat.

COVER CROPS FOR WARREN THIS FALL
Warrenton, Sept. 4.—Although farmers will not be able to secure winter legume seed as grants of aid under the Agricultural Conservation program this year, Warren county growers are going ahead acreage of these cover crops. A plan has been worked out with seed dealers through which growers will be able to obtain crimson clover, vetch, and Austrian winter peas, reports R. H. Bright, farm agent of the State College Extension Service. Growers expect to use 75,000 pounds of clover, 10,000 pounds of Austrian peas, and 10,000 pounds of vetch.

Pattern 9063
So you want to make a dress! This Marian Martin house-frock Pattern 9063, is a perfect "beginner's luck" style—it's simple, gay and easy to stitch up as saying your ABC's, particularly with the Sew Chart's aid. The straight, graceful princess lines have no waistline seam steps. And you'll like that neck-to-hem buttoning that's both decorative and convenient. Notice the adroit placing of soft gathers at the bustline; the charming cut of the neck. You might make the front and back center panels on the bias—and ric-rac and a belt add dash. Pattern 9063 may be ordered only in misses' and women's sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40. Size 16 requires 4 5/8 yards 35 inch fabric and 2 7/8 yards ric-rac.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS in coins for this MARIAN MARTIN pattern. Be sure to write plainly your SIZE, NAME, ADDRESS, and STYLE NUMBER. Send your order to Henderson Daily Dispatch, Pattern Department, 232 W. 18th St., New York, N. Y.

Double Effect In McBryde As Wage Lawyer

Daily Dispatch Bureau, In the Sir Walter Hotel.
Raleigh, Sept. 4.—Appointment of D. Lacy McBryde, Cumberland county legislator, as regional attorney for the Wage-Hour Administration has a two-fold implication, in addition to its obvious meaning that a North Carolinian has secured a good job for himself.

The double effect of the McBryde appointment is:

(1) It's a clear indication that Labor (with a capital "L" and meaning particularly the North Carolina Federation of Labor) is not without political influence, and

(2) It removes from the lists of congressional possibilities for 1940 a young man who might conceivably prove somewhat troublesome to incumbent Bayard Clark in the seventh district.

Under the first head the appointment is proof positive of the boast made by State Federation President C. A. Fink that this organization has "had the pleasure," or words to that effect, of stopping dead any possibility that the post might go to E. C. Brooks, lawyer who presented the anti-wage and hour case so effectively before the 1939 General Assembly that the Labor forces met crushing defeat.

The Fink statement was unusual for its frankness, as it is seldom that any group comes out openly and boasts of its influence in defeating any enemy's efforts to land a particular political post.

The McBryde appointment, moreover, runs over to the affirmative side; it shows that the federation can accomplish something positive as well as negative. It didn't want Brooks and stopped him; it did want McBryde and got him.

If Labor was to be given the post there can be no possible criticism of the man picked. Through two terms in the Tar Heel House he has consistently—perhaps more consistently than any other member—stood up and fought hard and fearlessly for the worker.

Seeks Aid for Poles

Neutrality Decree For U. S. Coming

and the airplane bombing of the villa of the American ambassador near Warsaw.

Stephen Early, a presidential secretary, told reporters that the two proclamations would be issued simultaneously, probably through the State Department. Until those decrees have come out and a careful study has been made "to see how far the government can operate" without amending the neutrality statute, Early said, there will be no call for a special session of Congress.

Destroyers on Guard In Rescue Work

U-boat, DJB is owned by the German government and the announcement thus had an official tinge.)

Winston Churchill, first lord of the Admiralty, declared in the House of Commons today that the Athena was "torpedoed without the slightest warning."

Giving official particulars of the disaster in the North Atlantic, Churchill said the vessel with about 1,400 persons aboard, was torpedoed at 8:59 p. m. (2:59 p. m. eastern standard time) "about 200 miles northwest of Ireland."

British destroyers, he said, should have been on the scene by 9 o'clock this morning. "It was certainly torpedoed without the slightest warning," Churchill said, "and in circumstances which the opinion of the world, after the last war, and in which Germany concurred, had stigmatized as inhuman. According to my present information, the ship was not armed as an auxiliary cruiser."

Smothering Shelling of Danzig Near that has held out through three days of attack.

No one knew how many soldiers were sheltered in the red-walled property on a thumb of land jutting into Danzig harbor. But chattering machine guns in reply to every offensive gesture told that some of them were still alive and fighting.

Planes dumped between 50 and 60 bombs into the fort yesterday, while cannon kept up the bombardment that has been aimed at the Westplatte since shortly after the union of the former free city with the German Reich was proclaimed Friday morning.

(Editor's Note. This dispatch at 11:30 p. m. yesterday, or 5:30 p. m. eastern standard time, was the first direct word from Danzig since the annexation.)

It was not known whether the evacuation of civilians presaged an infantry attack, the one method of onslaught not yet employed.

Another battle, centered around the Polish post office in the heart of old Danzig, cost approximately 20 lives before 70 Polish defenders were killed or made prisoners.

British and French consuls have left the city, leaving behind the United States consul in charge of their affairs.

Visits Chamberlain

public opinion in favor of those who want a further widening of the conflict.

London, Sept. 4.—(AP)—A rescue fleet guarded by guns of British destroyers was officially reported today to have saved all but a few persons killed by the explosion which sank the Donaldson liner Athena, which British officials said was torpedoed by a German submarine in the open North Atlantic.

There were 1,347 passengers and crew aboard, including United States citizens listed tentatively at 311.

Bulletins from British government agencies failed to give the number of dead. The main basis for hope was the announcement which the Athena's master, Captain James Cook, wireless:

"Passengers and crew except those killed by explosion took to boats and were picked up by various ships."

(In New York the National Broadcasting Company said its engineers had picked up a short wave broadcast from station DJB in Berlin saying that the British ship Athena had struck a floating British mine and had not been torpedoed by a German of Ameland.

The report said the craft were headed in the direction of England.

The Netherlands government previously had announced it was making strong representations to the British and German governments after unidentified foreign planes flew high over the country early this morning. The implication that the planes which flew over Netherlands territory this morning were British was drawn from the fact that pamphlets carrying a British message to the German people were dropped on Netherlands soil near the German frontier.

official reports said. The planes bombed and machine-gunned the troops, dispersing two columns and inflicting heavy casualties.

The Poles admitted loss of four planes.

Warsaw for the first time since the war's beginning, slept through the early morning without an air warning. After breakfast time a lone German raider flew overhead, causing a few anti-aircraft gun outbursts, which were reported to have brought the German down in flames.

Marshal Edward Smigly-Rydz issued an appeal to Czechs and Slovaks to join the legion which General Le Prehala is organizing in Poland, declaring they had a choice between

Britain's Planes Drop Propaganda Upon Germans

Paris, Sept. 4.—(AP)—The British air force started its "hostilities" last night with "propaganda raids" on Germany about 12 hours before fighting was announced to have started.

French reports here were that British planes during the night dropped about 1,000,000,000 tracts printed in German declaring that the German government "deliberately and cold-bloodedly" started the war.

The tracts stated the German government refused "peace with honor, as well as the material well being which President Roosevelt offered you."

They conclude that Great Britain "hopes for peace and is ready to conclude it with any sincerely peaceful German government."

being "German slaves or throwing of the yoke." It was announced the legion would fight as a separate unit.

The resurgence of popular courage inspired by the entry of Britain and France into the war as allies of Poland was spurred anew by the claim of Polish official sources that Polish troops had penetrated German territory for the first time. The official reports said fast-striking Polish cavalry on Saturday had recaptured Leszno and Rawicz, Posenia province towns occupied by Nazi forces in their first attacks, and drove the invaders back across the border. The Polish vanguard, it was said, has advanced into German Pomerania, north of Breslau.
