

Watch Deacs Word Around U. N. C. Drills

Chapel Hill, Sept. 11.—"Watch Wake Forest", is the word that's going around the Southern conference this year. And Carolina is no exception.

Although their coming game with the Demon Deacons here is still two weeks off, the Tar Heels, after a couple of weeks on fundamentals, started today to polishing their offense and setting their defense for the Baptists.

Coach Ray Wolf's problems are complicated by the fact that he must also get the Tar Heels ready for their opening game here September 23 with the Citadel, itself a Conference eleven and scrappy worthy foe for any team.

Wake Forest, however, is not only a leading Big Five and Conference rival; it is being rated by many as one of the strongest teams in the league this season.

The Demon Deacons gave not only Carolina but also Duke's Rose Bowlers and all other comers a titanic struggle last year. Carolina beat them 14-6, but Wake Forest tallied first, and the score stood 7-6 until three minutes from the end, and could just as well have gone the other way. Duke barely beat them 7-0, and the Deacons were inside the Devils' 10-yard stripe several times, and came within inches of spoiling Duke's unscored-on record.

The 1938 Wake Forest team was a sophomore outfit, and Coach Peabody Walker has exactly nine regulars and one alternate back this year. If they were that good as green rookies, what won't they do as seasoned veterans? is the question that has Carolina supporters worrying.

Against Wake Forest's array of veteran talent, Carolina can offer only five regulars and two alternates from 1938. And when it comes to new talent, Wake Forest's freshmen were exactly 38-0 better than the Carolina frosh in 1938, although of course no one can tell how a sophomore will turn out.

Speaking of sophomores, one of the Deacon's 1939 crop is already being hailed by sports writers as the greatest backfield prospect ever to come up in the State. He is John Polanski, a 205-pound fullback, and he is so good Coach Walker is working him into his first backfield, in spite of the fact that he has three regulars and one alternate back from 1938.

These are Tony Galovich, Jim Ringgold, Marshall Edwards, and Red Mayberry. These boys can run, block, and snag passes with the best, as Carolina's veterans well remember from last year. With the addition of Polanski, who can also throw that spheroid, Wake Forest looks like it now has everything it takes.

Or at least that is the way it looks to Carolina supporters. So far as they can see, the Wake Forest game is going to be a nip-and-tuck affair which may go either way, and it may well turn out to be one of the best games this State will see this year.

Several Cut From High Grid Squad

The paring knife fell on Henderson high's football hopefuls Friday afternoon, after two days of drills, but it fell lightly, nipping off some of the lads that were far too light, and showed little prospects of offering talent of the type necessary for grid campaigns.

Coaches Bing Miller and Fred Kilpatrick instituted "two-a-day" drills, with the first meeting underway at 9:30 o'clock this morning, and the other set for this afternoon. Heavy equipment was to have been issued this afternoon, with plenty of contact work starting Tuesday.

A tough schedule is ahead of the Bulldogs, and the mentors are losing little time whipping the teams into shape.

LEADING IN HITS - By Jack Sords

Dedication Of Park Delayed

Daily Dispatch Bureau. In the Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, Sept. 11.—So unrelenting is the jinx in its pursuit of the dedication of the Great Smoky Mountains National Park that it begins to appear that formal exercises will likely be postponed again, which will make the third or fourth time it's been put off.

Things were about set for President Roosevelt to come down to Western North Carolina around the first of October as he started a trip to the west coast; but along has come the European war and an almost certain extra session of Congress, which will keep FDR busy in Washington.

The President has made it clear that it's more a question of "when" than of "if" about that extra session; but even assuming that he did not call the Senate and House to meet, it is decidedly unlikely that he could get away from the capital during the current world emergency.

The news bureau of North Carolina's Department of Conservation and Development apparently takes a more optimistic view of the situation. It has just issued a release in which plans for the dedication ceremonies at Newfound Gap are outlined.

When, and if, the dedication is held, Secretary of the Interior Harold Ickes is expected to preside; and short addresses by Governor Hoey of North Carolina and Cooper of Tennessee are scheduled.

The ceremonies will be held in front of the Rockefeller memorial which stands exactly on the line between North Carolina and Tennessee. The plaque on the memorial will likely be unveiled by John D. Rockefeller, Jr.

DR. FRANK GRAHAM IS NOT CANDIDATE

Raleigh, Sept. 11.—(AP)—Dr. Frank Porter Graham, president of the University of North Carolina, said with emphasis today "I am not a candidate, and I do not intend to become a candidate", when asked if he expected to run for Governor.

Doctor Graham was here on university business at N. C. State college. Recently reports had been published that President Graham might be induced to seek the 1940 Democratic gubernatorial nomination and that he was receiving many offers of support from all parts of North Carolina.

There are five "unannounced" candidates now in the field. The university president made it plain that education was his first love and that he expected to remain in that field.

It has been known for sometime that President Graham in recent years has received offers of positions in the public service and also executive positions in industry elsewhere, some of which would pay several times what he gets as president of the university, but he has declined all of them.

This, together with his lifelong attachment to the University of North Carolina in all its divisions, was believed to add emphasis to Doctor Graham's statement that he would not enter the race.

DISPUTE ARISES OVER CARGO OF SCRAP IRON

Beaufort, Sept. 11.—Capt. Oscar Laas, of Tallinn, Estonia, master of the steamship Vapper, which arrived at the Morehead City port terminal Friday, stood today that the crossing from Gdynia, Poland, took 23 days.

The vessel had been expected to take on a partial cargo of scrap metal here but there was some dispute today between the owners of the Vapper and the owner of the scrap metal whether she would start loading, as the cargo was scheduled to go to a port of the United Kingdom. This is all resulting from the week-old war which started in Europe since the vessel's departure from Poland.

Prior to clearing from Gdynia, where the Vapper had spent three days taking on coal, she had been at Konigsberg, East Prussia, discharging a cargo of Canadian pulpwood. While in Gdynia, Captain Laas stated that many transports and war vessels of Germany arrived in port. Since his vessel's departure from that port, Gdynia has become a target for enemy warfare, suffering from a number of plane raids.

Captain Laas stated that during the World War he was master of the steamship Vera, which was torpedoed and sunk by a German submarine while she was enroute from England to Australia with a cargo of china clay. He and members of the crew surviving the sinking of the Vera were landed in Spain.

Star-Refugee Makes Her Bed

Arriving in New York on the Manhattan, largest vessel of the United States Lines, movie star Norma Shearer makes up her cot in the cabin she shared with three other women. Every nook and cranny of the liner, including even the grand salon, was fitted with cots to accommodate a record passenger list of 1,573 refugees from the European war.

Tackle, Center Big Problem For Ray Wolf

Chapel Hill, Sept. 11.—Tackle and center were the big question marks over the North Carolina line as the Tar Heels opened their third week of early practice this morning.

Bob Smith at center and Gates Kimball at right tackle are the only veterans back. Dick White, 185-pound topnomore, has been showing up well at the other tackle. However, a team can't play a schedule use Carolina's with one center and a couple of tackles. And the reserve strength behind these men still looked short and inexperienced today.

Coach Ray Wolf stressed work rebuilding the Tar Heel line this morning and will continue to do so the next few days. The opening game with The Citadel is only a week from Saturday, and immediately after comes Wake Forest with reportedly one of the strongest teams in the Conference. Moreover, classes will start Friday, and practice will be limited to one-a-day.

The rest of the team was shaping up nicely today. The blocking, tackling, and execution of plays were beginning to take on polish. George Stirnweiss, Jim Lalanne, and their aerial circus looked particularly potent. The flanks and rest of the backfield appeared fairly strong.

There were also some reserves, though not a surplus, who have been showing up at these positions, but unfortunately, tackle and center were another story.

Carl Suntheimer, who is holding forth at center until Bob Smith gets back in shape for hard work after his recent illness, heads the reserves here and he is an untried sophomore. George Ralston at 165 is a scrappy reserve but rather light for heavy duty, and Red Benton is both light and inexperienced.

The situation at tackle was even gloomier. Christian Siewers and George Spransy, who were being counted upon to back up Dick White, were on the sick list. And Dick Sieck and Gwynn Nowell, who were being groomed to relieve Gates Kimball were slowed up with blisters and bruises. About the only other candidates were Ed McLaughlin and Jim Sheek, and they are green soph.

LeRoy Abernethy, Jr., and Chuck Slagle, guards, and one or two other's names have been linked with rumors of possible shifts to bolster Carolina's strength at tackle.

URGES COVER CROPS SOWN IN ORCHARDS

College Station, Raleigh, Sept. 11.—H. R. Niswonger, extension horticulturist at State College, advised farmers today to sow winter cover crops in their apple and peach orchards to build up the soil and to prevent soil erosion.

He explained that orchard soils will not store large quantities of water in winter and spring months unless there is a cover in the orchard to prevent a run-off of these periodical rains.

September may be utilized profitably, Niswonger said, in preparing the land for sowing these crops. The kind of cover to use depends, of course, upon the kind of soil, the slope of the land, and the experience of the grower with a crop which best suits his conditions.

Growers may consider the following crops for providing winter cover: rye or vetch or a combination of the two; rye or crimson clover or a combination of both; winter oats, Austrian winter peas, and winter rye grass.

NO SWINE AUCTION AT THE STATE FAIR

Raleigh, Sept. 11.—There will be no auction sale of hogs at this year's State Fair here, October 10 to 14, as there has been in the past. H. W. Taylor, Extension swine specialist and head of the fair's swine division, said today. Exhibitors who have any fat hogs for sale, however, will be assisted in every way possible to dispose of their animals, he added, if they desire help.

Mr. Taylor stressed the advisability of entering hogs in the various classes as soon as possible in order to avoid confusion in allocation of pen space. This will be doubly important this year, he declared, because more exhibits are expected than ever before.

TREATING OF SEED TO CONTROL SMUTS

Halifax, Sept. 11.—Virtually complete control of smuts affecting small grains has been secured by treating seed before planting, a test conducted on the farm of P. E. Shields, Scotland Neck, shows.

F. W. Reams, assistant farm agent of Halifax county, together with Dr. Luther Shaw, extension plant pathologist at State College, conducted the experiments. New improved cesaran, copper carbonate, and cuprocide gave complete control of stinking smut on Red Heart wheat when used before the seed were planted.

The improved cesaran also gave complete control of loose smut in the Lee variety of oats.

To close the day's activities, a banquet honoring the original faculty will be held at 7:30 o'clock with Dr. W. H. Boone, of Durham, president of the Alumni Association, presiding. Several other features will likely be included in the day's program.

ORIENTATION PROGRAM BEGUN AT UNIVERSITY

Chapel Hill, Sept. 11.—(AP)—Most of the members of the class of 1943 arrived at the University of North Carolina Sunday, and today began a series of conferences, tours and tests designed to get them acquainted with their new surroundings before they settle down to class work Friday.

The newcomers will number between 750 and 800. Many of them were accompanied by their parents and other well wishers.

The first assembly for them was held at 9:30 o'clock in Memorial hall this morning when Jim Davis, Goldsboro, president of the student body, presided. They met their faculty and student advisers at this time.

The orientation program will continue through Thursday with placement tests, physical examinations, inspection tours, and the like.

The president's and deans' reception for the newcomers will be held tonight. The university club and Graham Memorial will be hosts to them Tuesday night.

The freshmen will register Wednesday, and President Graham will address them at a general assembly. Upperclassmen, professionals and transfer students will register Thursday. Class work for all will begin Friday.

The annual pre-college retreat program was concluded today when Rev. Geydvkzd Albaugh addressed the members at church service, and President and Mrs. Graham entertained them at a garden party at their home in the afternoon.
