The Word of God
"His word is a lamp unto my feet, and a light unto my path."

TODAY'S HOROSCOPE

Today's inspiration is enthusiastic, perhaps inspirational, very impulsive and headstrong, but having an idea in view that is continually kept sight of. These persons may be very successful if the concentration is properly directed; but in any case it will carry with it its share of trouble, due principally to excess of zeal.

What Do You Know About North Carolina?

By FRED H. MAY

1. Who was the North Carolina congressman who shared a desk with Abraham Lincoln?
2. What is the penalty for leaving an unused well open?
3. Who was the first governor to recommend passage of laws requiring wide tires for wagons used on State roads?
4. When was a constitutional amendment necessary to rid the University of a board of trustees?
5. What was the appropriation for the state highway patrol for this fiscal year?
6. What proposition was made the men who might not want to go into the battle of Kings Mountain?

ANSWERS.

1. Daniel M. Barringer, of Concord, during the Thirtieth Congress which convened in 1846. Congressmen Barringer and Lincoln occupied a desk together.
2. It is a misdemeanor in North Carolina to leave a well open and the penalty is a fine subject to the discretion of the court.
3. Governor Daniel L. Russell in his report to the legislature of 1899. Several years later acts were passed which required wide tires on wagons in a number of counties.
4. The legislature of 1872-73 adopted an amendment which was adopted in a statewide election the next year. The purpose of this amendment was to rid the University of a board of trustees appointed under the reconstruction regime. Governor Caldwell denied the validity of the amendment and a court decision was necessary before it became effective.
5. The total for this fiscal year, including salaries and expenses for additional patrolmen is $663,026.
6. A few days before overtaking General Ferguson on King's Mountain, Colonel Isaac Shelby had the different companies of militia drawn up. After explaining the dangers of the impending battle he told those who wished to back out could do so by marching three steps to the rear. When this order was given not a single man withdrew, but every man showed his willingness to do his part in the coming conflict.

OTHERS VIEWS

PEOPLE WANT PLATFORMS

Ever since Governor Hoey issued his decree to the potential candidates for the governorship, the candidates and the voters have been speculating on his motives for advising the numerous aspirants to postpone any public announcements until after January the first. A number of people got the idea that the governor favored one of the splendid gentlemen who had been mentioned and was doing this to give aid and comfort to his favorite.

If any one or more of the candidates has been entertaining the idea that he might receive the governor's blessing, that idea has been knocked in the head recently, from all reports. The governor has not pulled his punches to the candidates and their friends with whom he has discussed his neutrality stand on his successor. He has been strictly neutral from the beginning, is now and will continue to maintain that attitude, unless some candidate attacks the administration; in that event the governor would feel compelled to defend his record and if in doing so he inadvertently stepped on the toe of one or more of the candidates it would be their hard luck.

It is rumored that one of the aspirants for successor to the governor was informed recently that he would have to run on his own team and not to expect or depend on administration support. Like the young man in the Bible who was advised to go sell all that he had and give it to the poor, the candidate went away sorrowfully as he had great expectations of administrative support.

No candidate for the governorship next year will be able to make any progress without a clear and definite platform and program, the voters are in no mood to take any candidate on faith, they have been disappointed too many times by promising candidates with short memories. Cheap platitudes and generalities will not satisfy the demands and expectations of the voters next time, they want to know if the promises made during the campaign will be faithfully kept or if they are simply made to catch votes. The candidate who is able to convince the largest number of voters of his sincerity, will become the next governor of North Carolina. The one who tries to deceive and mislead the people will be left at the starting post. Indications all point to a very interesting campaign, and one almost entirely devoid of the fireworks of the last one.

Jury Trials Are Held In County Court

Jury trials in Recorder's court Wednesday all day, with a distinct reversal of form, verdicts of guilty being returned in numerous cases. Recorder R. E. Clements presided. Emma Murphy, Negro, was convicted of possessing non-tax paid whisky for sale and was given 30 days in jail, assigned to work around the court house. She gave notice of appeal, and bond was set at $200. William Wilson was guilty of possession non-tax paid whisky, and prayer for judgment was continued upon payment of the costs. Otis Massenburg and Fernel Foster, Negroes, were charged with possessing non-tax paid whisky for sale. Foster was not guilty. Massenburg was given four months on the roads, suspended upon payment of a fine of $10 and costs. James Young, Negro, was not guilty of drunken driving. J. M. Harris, charged with reckless driving and assault with a deadly weapon, was not guilty. James Murphy and Elsie Howard, Negroes, were charged with possessing non-tax paid whisky for sale. Elsie Howard was not guilty, and a nolle pros was taken as to Murphy. In another warrant, Murphy faced the same charge, and was given 90 days on the roads. He appealed, and bond was set at $200.

Robert Hayes, Negro, tried without a jury, was guilty of possessing non-tax paid whisky for the purpose of sale, and was given 90 days on the roads, suspended upon payment of the costs and moving from the neighborhood he now lives in to one approved by J. C. Champion, enforcement officer.

Acquilla Brown, Negro, was given 30 days for assault, and was found not guilty of reckless driving in another warrant. Johnnie Baker was given 30 days for being drunk, commitment not to issue if he leaves Vance county, and remains away for 12 months. The costs were remitted.

Paul Canady, Negro, was given four months on the roads for possessing non-tax paid whisky for the purpose of sale. James Southerland, Negro, was charged with trespassing, drunk and disorderly and assault. He was guilty of drunk and assault, and was given six months on the roads, commitment not to issue upon payment of $10 and costs, and not convicted of violating any criminal law in Vance county for the next two years. Phil Kingsbury, Negro, faced the court, charged with assault, drunk, trespass and disorderly, and was found guilty of being drunk and disorderly. He drew six months on the roads, commitment not to issue upon payment of the costs, a fine of $10 and not being convicted of violating any criminal law in Vance county for the next two years.

Vandenberg Favored By Politicians

orous, just as Paul V. McNutt, on the Democratic side, is physically beautiful, but they argue that glamour and beauty are not presidential qualifications. Republican dopsters reckon that they can lick a beauty more readily with a substantial, cold-boiled candidate than with a glamorous one. They'd be pretty well suited to fight beauty with a political old-timer, but they prefer not to do it with glamour as their ammunition.

Some suggest that Dewey, with his glamour, might be all right as a vice presidential nominee. But he wouldn't do it all in second place on a ticket with Vandenberg. Van is a Michigander. Dewey though now a New Yorker, also originated in the Wolverine state. It would be altogether too much Michigan to hook the two together. Taft (Ohio) and Dewey (New York) would be quite o. k. But not Vandenberg and Dewey.

Miscellaneous Candidates.
The nonpartisan chances of Representative Joseph W. Martin of Massachusetts are improving. As Republican leader in the lower congressional chamber, Joe Martin has been extremely effective. He's a capable statesman and he's popular among all who know him. His drawback is that he isn't quite well enough known throughout the country yet.

Senator Charles S. McNary, Republican leader in the upper chamber on Capitol Hill, is talked about but says he isn't an aspirant. No doubt the Oregonian would surrender if drafted but he probably won't be. Governor John W. Bricker of Ohio is referred to, but Senator Taft (same state) offsets him.

Pennsylvania Republicans are boosting Governor Arthur H. James but it hasn't taken very well yet. His geography's all to the good, and maybe he is, too, but he hasn't registered thus far.

Now and then Alf M. Landon continues to be hinted at for another try.

So is Herbert Hoover. But they're not considered serious.

Senator Bridges?
Senator Styles Bridges of New Hampshire is waging a really energetic campaign. It's rather pathetic. He stands no more chance of getting that nomination than I do—and I'm not a Republican, or Democrat. Yet he has an organization. He issues "releases." He's got a committee. He's a darned sight more active than other aspirants who really are "possibilities." He must be spending a lot of money. He's a political curiosity.

Slight Rally Lifts Stocks

New York, Dec. 1.—(AP)—Selective rallying power came into the stock market today and brought advances ranging from fractions to three points at the best. Dealings turned quiet after a fairly active start and the slowing up touched off a little selling here and there as the session wore on. Top prices were shaded in most cases near the fourth hour. Among prominent gainers were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Republic Steel, U. S. Rubber, Douglas Aircraft, DuPont, Union Carbide, Philip Morris, Loft, Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit and Anaconda.

last capitalistic government of Finland." A statement circulated by Tass, official news agency, declared that the supreme command of the red army ordered the invasion of just at a result of these "new armed provocations"—as Tass put it—red forces crossed the frontier at 8 a. m. yesterday (midnight Wednesday EST) on the Karelian isthmus and at several other points.

raidiers were shot down. Casualties in the city could not be estimated immediately. Fifty persons were officially listed as killed in yesterday's attacks on the capital alone, and the number of dead and wounded in the provinces and in widespread new attacks today was undetermined.

Friendly Government.
A new government was formed to succeed that of Premier Arno K. Cajander, which resigned early today, even though it had a vote of confidence from an historic session of the Parliament. Its composition was not announced immediately. Previously Vaino Tanner, finance minister in the resigned cabinet, and described as friendly to Russia, had been expected to be named premier. (Copenhagen reports said diplomats expected the new government would come to terms with Russia. The Finnish Legation in London, however, said there was no question of "surrender.")

The new attacks followed expiration of an ultimatum broadcast from Moscow threatening annihilation of Helsinki unless an agreement was reached by 3 a. m. (8 p. m. Thursday EST).

Strike in Far North.

Russian forces were striking today at Finland's farthest northern outposts at points along the 800-mile eastern frontier and along the southern seacoast around to the extreme southwest. Near the middle of this front, Soviet land forces had occupied territory north of Lake Ladoga, and farther south had advanced on the Karelian isthmus, north of Leningrad. (Moscow said this advance was from six to nearly ten miles.) Russian warships were reported to have opened a heavy bombardment of the Russaroe fortress at Hango, on a strategic southwestern Finnish promontory, 75 miles west of Helsinki, and guarding the entrance to the Gulf of Finland. (Russia had demanded Hango for a naval base.) At the extreme northern tip of the Russian-Finnish border, Russian war planes were reported to have dropped troops by parachute and occupied Petsamo, principal town of Finland's narrow corridor to the Arctic Ocean.
