Scientists Making Good Politicians

By CHARLES P. STEWART Central Press Columnist

Washington, Jan. 13.-Washington been the scene in recent days of number of conventions of scienists of various sorts. They've confacted round tables, forums and mis-ellaneous gabfests almost without ad. They were interesting, too. But id the argue-fiers have any praccal idea of the subjects that they it talked about?

Did they concentrate on the spe-ialties that they're variously ex-erts in? Yes, of course.

But they didn't. They all discussed olitics of one kind or another—the tate of our own union, Pan-Amercanism, politico-economics in gen-ral, war's causes, Uncle Sam's and he world's future, all that assortnent of stuff.

Now, a historian may be entitled o draw conclusions from the past as o what's coming. But is he entitled to an opinion concerning the 1940 presidential election? I'd say that James A. Farley or John D. M. Jamilton would be a better guesser. iow competent is an eminent clergynan to make business predictions? im to advise us how to vote next November?

Offhand, I'd think not. These birds did it, though. They talked politics and finance, which I'm darned if 1 think they know a thing about. If I want to get the low-down on 1940 I consult John N. Garner's manager or Paul V. McNutt's, or Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg's or Senator Robert A. Taft's. I don't go to the Smithsonian institution. And Yet!

In the early days of our depres-ion a delegation of Cleveland money moguls visited Washington to find out, if possible, what could be done. It happened that I had a Cleveland connection which led these callers to ask me to show them around thε apital, introducing them to lawmakers they were anxious to talk to. Out of sociability, I did my best.

All but one of the members of this party were very obvious financiers. The exception was Dr. John H. Quayle, a physician of international reputation. He struck me as an odd individual to be included in such a line-up. Yet I couldn't but notice that his associates listened to him most respectfully concerning business subjects that they were supposed to be super-experts on.

Best Businessman. If the chats had related to, let's say, appendicitis or thrombosis or Stevenson Monday and Tuesday. them to defer to his superior wis-dom. "But what," I asked myself, "is the notion—these prominent bankers and investment sharks taking off heir hats to a mere distinguished nedico on questions of stocks and bonds?" I queried one of his asso-ates. "Why," said the chap, "the oc is the best business man in this

Finally I put it to the "doc" him-"Isn't it most unusual," I in-"for a man of science, like yourself, to be such an adept in conomic affairs?"

"Perhaps it is," admitted the "doc", "but it isn't inconsistent. You see, as medical specialist I'm a diagnoscian. I observe symptoms and, reasoning beyond them, determine that's the matter with the patient asically. It's perfect training for an economic diagnostician. I note eco-nomic symptoms. From them I dewhat's the nature of the economic disease. Any good medical diagnostician ought to be able to do the same thing. Doubtless he could. However, not many of us think of it; that's all."

Partly Wrong. "Doc" Quayle was wrong in one espect, though. He said that it hadn't occurred to many purely scientific scientists that
