Marian Martin Pattern

Pattern 9445

Styles may come and styles may go, but this trim shirt frock will stay high in fashion for many a day to come. That's because Marian Martin has combined so many good features in the one Pattern, 9445. First, she's given it a button-front—popular for its smart, slimming effect, and for the way it lets you in and out in a hurry. Then she's made it with a front and back yoke darted below for action freedom. The skirt has nice ease, too, with its double front panels. Make the sleeves long or short; add big, smart pockets to break your hip width. You might try the well-shaped collar in a radiantly fresh contrast. Order this useful pattern today!

South Hill Visitor. Miss Nancy Newton, of South Hill, Va., is spending this week here with relatives.

At Virginia Beach. Miss Alice Southerland and Billy Southerland are spending some time at Virginia Beach, Va.

Returns to Home. Mrs. J. D. Mayo, who was treated at Maria Parham hospital for a week or so, has recovered sufficiently to be able to return to her home.

Camp Robin Hood Members to Meet

The third meeting of the members of Camp Robin Hood will be held on the back lawn of the H. Leslie Perry Memorial Library Monday morning at eleven o'clock. The North Henderson members will meet at St. John's Mission house Monday afternoon at four o'clock. The South Henderson members will meet at the community house at South Henderson Tuesday morning at ten o'clock. These are the third in a series of four meetings planned for the girls and boys who are reading at the library and branch reading rooms during the summer. Plans will be made for the last meeting in August at which awards will be awarded to those who have become perfect marksmen. In order to be a perfect marksman a member must have read ten classified books from library shelves. So far, twenty-two girls and boys have completed the required number, and others are expected to hit the "bull's eye" before the meeting in August. Those who have not finished are urged to look in the record books at the library and see what they need in order to finish. At the meeting Monday at the library Miss Kate Furman and Miss Josephine Martin will be present to tell the members about wild flowers found in the woods. Members of the camp and their friends are invited to attend all meetings.

BAPTIST GROUP HAS ITS WEEK OF STUDY

With forty-five present last evening, members of the Baptist Training Union at the First Baptist church are this week engaged in a week of study. The meetings will continue through Friday night of this week, being held each evening at seven-thirty. Three study courses are being held—one for each of the three age groups in the training union. Miss Marie Puckett is leading the juniors in the study of the Manual of Methods written for that group. Miss Bertha Mae Futrell is the teacher of the intermediates who are also studying methods of organization and activity. Albert E. Simms, assistant pastor of the church, is leading the members of the Young People's Union in a study of Dr. R. Q. Leavelle's book entitled: "Winning Others to Christ." Attendance has steadily increased during the week and leaders and members of these study classes are working for more members for each group. A cordial invitation is extended to young people between the ages of 9 and 24 to find their places tonight at seven-thirty in one of the classes, and visitors will be welcome.

TRUCK DRIVER HELD IN HIGHWAY DEATH

Coroner's Jury Finds Negro Killed By Vehicle Driven By Virginia Man.

Oxford, July 25.—Robert Bevels, young white man of Boydton, Va., was ordered held under a $500 bond yesterday afternoon by a coroner's jury in connection with death of Selma Boyd, 16-year-old Negro, who was found Monday morning four miles from Oxford on the Oxford-Stovall Road. Bevels is scheduled to face trial at the November term of Granville County Superior Court. Evidence given at the inquest was that Bevels was driving a truck for Henry Allgood of Boydton and was on his way to the eastern part of the State to get a load of watermelons Monday morning about 4:30 o'clock when he sighted an object about 100 yards ahead of him in the middle of the highway, approximately four miles north of Oxford. Bevels stated that when "I got 30 or 40 feet from the object, I realized that it was a man. I was puzzled and attempted to straddle him in order to avoid hitting him. I was driving approximately 30 or 35 miles per hour."

John Wells of Union Level was riding in the truck with Bevels. When they passed over the body, Wells got out of the truck and saw that the man was dead. He and Bevels, in their state of excitement decided to return to Boydton and report the accident to their employer, Mr. Allgood, who that morning, Monday, got in communication with B. S. Royster, Jr., local attorney.

That morning, a Negro, Eddie Jones, while coming to work, discovered the mangled body on the highway. He came to Oxford and reported the find to Police Chief Harvey Jackson.

Several character witnesses for Bevels were presented to the coroner's jury. The jury found that Selma Boyd came to her death by being struck by a truck which was driven by Robert Bevels of Boydton and "we recommend that he be held under a bond until the November term of Granville County Superior Court." Members of the jury were Lonnie Wilson, Allie Morris, Will Ellington, Lonnie Breedlove, Harvey Harris and George Dorsey.

Babson Sees Good Times For Farmers of America

(Continued From Page One) however, with this year's crop promising to hit a new record. Reports from Canada indicate a big wheat crop there, although bad weather from now on could change the Dominion picture radically. The grain crops contribute only a small portion of total farm income. Dairy, poultry, and livestock are all more important in dollars and cents. For the balance of 1940, the outlook for dairymen is moderately hopeful. Milk production registered a new all-time high in June, but even so prices are running above the 1939 figures. War is helping our prices for these commodities because important dairy countries of Denmark, Holland, and Belgium are cut off from world trade. Biggest price factor, however, is greater consumer demand due to better business, more jobs, and higher payrolls right here in the good old U. S. A. This will be the strongest support for better farm produce prices of all kinds this fall.

Foods and Meats up. "Eggmen" have not had an easy time of it in recent months. Prices have been running a bit better than in 1939, but feed costs have also been higher. The outlook is for smaller egg production this year than last. Food costs will be lower than in the first half, consumer buying power will be higher—hence, moderately better profits for egg "ranchers". Poultry prospects are a mite rosier, too, with a smaller hatch and with fatter pay envelopes on Saturday noons. The cotton outlook is not favorable. The crop will be small, but the carry-over is terrific and our exports are practically shut off. Cattle, sheep, and hogs recently have not fared so well as other types of farmers. Heavy slaughtering of hogs, loss of foreign markets for hog products, bigger shipments of meat animals lower than a year ago. Conditions should reverse themselves before snow flies, however, as consumer demand increases and supplies—particularly of hogs—taper off. Vegetable prices have been running higher than a year ago, but they are now working lower as the new crops come to market. Supply of fruit will be smaller and prices in this particular group should continue to strengthen.

Government Checks Equal 15 Percent. Farm income this fall will continue to be heavily bulwarked with government benefit payments. The percentage of total farm income from government payments has jumped from 5 percent in 1938 to nearly 15 percent so far this year. Altogether, Secretary Wallace has spent more than $3,000,000,000 since 1932 to put farm prices back to where they ought to be. Prices are higher, but are still far below the parity figure. Meanwhile, prices paid for things the farmer must buy have gone up almost as much as farm prices. As a nation, we have mightily little to show for the mammoth sums spent for farm relief.

Whether the war will help the farmer or not remains to be seen. To date, its chief claim to such credit is the fact that prices are higher than a year ago. At the same time, the war has literally choked off our export markets for farm products on the Continent. The same has happened to our Continental markets for industrial goods, but our trade with South America is absorbing the industrial loss. South America, however, wants to export—not import—farm produce. England will buy more and more foodstuffs from us as the war continues. Otherwise, domestic buying power will continue to be the dictator on the majority of farm products prices.

Mid-Year Outlook Next Week. Next week, I am going to give readers my detailed forecasts for workers, employers, retailers, investors, and farmers in the second half of 1940. Briefly, for the farmer I predict increased demand for meat, eggs, fruits, moderately higher prices for most farm products, and better times for farmers between now and 'New Year's Day. In short, the loss in export markets should—with the exception of the grains, cotton, and tobacco—be made up by increased domestic buying.

The sword-fish has been known to have driven its sword into small boats and to have left parts of it in large ships.

Garner, now 71, first went to Washington in 1903 as a member of the House.

Why Good Grooming requires keeping DARK ARCS DRY

If you will be tolerating perspiration on your face, you must listen to facts that will help you in these dark arcs that are so common to you. That repellent under-lying odor is the result of perspiration that is not dried. That perspiration that is not dried damages your skin. The dark arcs are closed to perspiration and light, perspiration that is not dried evaporates. Perspiration, carrying cast off body cells, gets out on the skin, mingling with dead skin scales, and micro-organisms. Decay begins. Acids form. Bacteria grow and bacteria multiply. Unpleasant odors appear. "The thinking" say lovely women who are so concerned with their appearance, by using Arrid to keep their dark arcs dry. Arrid keeps perspiration dry, odorless, 1 to 5 days. Perspiration, no decay, no odor. Arrid, which safely checks perspiration, is a pure, white, greaseless powder. Harmless to skin and fabric. Use at any time, after shaving. Price, 10c, 30c, 50c—at drug stores. Sell toilet goods.
